A "Big Brother" To Every Lehigh Student
This Volume of the Epitome is Gratefully Dedicated

Howard Roland Reiter

OUR years before the Centennial Exhibit of 1876 at Philadelphia, Howard Roland Reiter (Bosey) was born in that city; but he remembers distinctly some large pink pop-corn balls that he saw at the Fair and longed to possess, and the fear he felt when passing some Indians who were playing a game similar to lacrosse. His early years were strenuous ones. He was extremely diligent and worked hard and long, especially in the summer vacations. Realizing that he wasn't getting the education he wanted and inspired by a Methodist minister, he decided to go to Pennington Seminary in 1890. This was a co-ed school but bashful "Bosey"—so bashful that he would walk far out of his way rather than speak to a girl he knew—soon passed notes in the sugar bowl, across the table to the girls he most admired. The charming female society soon made even the ever-present PRUNES a joy. Here he began baseball and football, starting the habit of exercise and play which has made up such a large part of his life.

From Pennington he entered Princeton in 1894 although his prowess as a school boy athlete made him sought after by other universities. Those were the Hero Days. He was on the championship football teams of 1894, 1896, 1898, and 1899. He was on his class baseball team and was the college champion wrestler of his weight. He was a member of Clio Hall—a literary society—and of Cottage Club. These were the big full days of his life. He did much outside work to make both ends meet, and during his whole course at Princeton, never received a cent from home, but instead helped two brothers in prep school. One story he tells is of his struggle with Latin—evidently most of the class had trouble with it—for when the professor assigned the twenty-fourth book of "Quintus Curtius," for which there was no trot, "Bosey's" clever room-mate was persuaded to make a translation of it in advance, "Bosey" would mimeograph it and take it to the other members of the class. President Patton's son was one of the regular recipients and one morning early, when "Bosey" was cautiously putting his copy under the door, President Patton appeared, and with a twinkle in his eye, said "Is this the 'Daily Princetonian,' Mr. Reiter?"

After graduation, in 1898, "Bosey" stayed at college two years more and received his M. A. degree in Philosophy and Psychology. Having the Princeton habit, he was not ready to leave yet, and went through the Theological School. During his summers he worked as a life guard on the Jersey coast, making many thrilling rescues. Here he developed his body by swimming and rowing almost to perfection, and here, too, he began to fish, which has been the "Ruling Passion" with him ever since.

At Wesleyan College in 1904 he coached football. He was the first coach to teach the overhand spiral pass, suggested to him by seeing Pierce of Carlisle throw an underhand one. The next year he was Physical Director and Coach. He won and lost games, as all coaches do, but gained the love of many men and started his career as a speaker and poetry enthusiast. From 1905 to the present day he has taught and studied at the Harvard Summer School for Coaches.

Urged by his old Pennington friend, Mr. Eugene G. Grace, he came to Lehigh in 1910, first as football coach and the next year as Physical Director. He is full of the "Lehigh Spirit." Each man is his friend. It is people who count with him, and especially college boys. The happiest night of his life was the night of the last Lafayette smoker, when the Ford sedan was given to him by the undergraduate body of Lehigh. He said, "It wasn't the gift, but when, and how I got it"—just before the Lafayette game, after a hard season, with "knockers" plentiful, and best of all a gift of the boys—His Boys. That Ford is priceless and means more than any other car in the world to him. The signatures of most of the men in college, following the testimonial that went with them is a tribute which time cannot erase.

"Bosey" is altogether simple and playful, interested in common things and common people. He has never lost the boy's point of view, as his "Sand Lotters" will agree. This plan for the children to see the games free he started because he will never forget how he longed to watch the games at the Athletic Field in Philadelphia. Never having the price of a ticket, "Bosey" considered himself lucky if he found a crack in the fence big enough to see through.

His personality is an influential one and full of stimulating ideals. His chief desire is to give happiness to others and to help each man to develop his own personality to the utmost.

Perhaps there is no better way of showing how the students of Lehigh University feel towards their "Bosey" than the testimonial given to Prof. Reiter at the time of the presentation of the Ford sedan at the last Lafayette smoker. This communication reads as follows:

To "Bosey" Reiter:

The students of Lehigh University take this occasion to express their personal admiration, love and regard for him as a man; furthermore, to assure him their solid support in his attitude toward the athletic policies of this University. We feel that he has done every thing possible to make and keep Lehigh athletics clean and sportsmanlike.

This man who, with the deepest honesty and finest sympathy, has aided so many others to climb the hills of college life, we hope will find service and enjoyment in this aid to climb the hills that lie in his daily path.

THE SENIOR CLASS

SENIORS

J. L. LEES,
PRESIDENT

When on the afternoon of September 24, 1919, we sallied forth from Chapel, primed with "do's and don'ts," armed with receipts for chapel seats, radiators, campus keys, and adorned with green-lined "ink-spots," we, of the Class of 1923, thought we were THE BEST that ever entered Lehigh. Now, after four years, we admit it. Modest, that's us!

As the largest class to matriculate we encountered little difficulty in defeating the Sophomores in the traditional Founder's Day Sports and thereby won the privilege of wearing Stetsons on Sundays. Ray Walters immediately proclaimed us "a quantity class of quality men, two fisted, n' everything."

Greatly depleted in numbers, we returned in the fall of '20 and bedecked ourselves with glory by trouncing the Frosh in the class games. The class was well represented in every phase of campus activity, and as Sophomores we revived the "Calculus Cremation," a time-honored custom discarded during the period of the war. No one of '23 will forget the tie-up en masse of the Frosh on the afternoon of their banquet, nor the subsequent never-ending fee collecting.

In the role of upperclassmen we began to assume dignity and dictatorship, and to exert greater influence on student life at Lehigh. While Juniors we recognized the need and were instrumental in the establishment of organized hazing in order that Lehigh's traditions might live.

In this, our Senior year, we have striven hardest to add lustre to Lehigh's name before these too short four years are at an end. Though it has been our misfortune(?) to have escaped the requirements of 6 A. M. R. O. T. C. drill and "quality credits," and our class yell has yet to be mastered, we have sown a spirit of camaraderie that marks Twenty-three and assures her an honored place in the history of Lehigh.

STANFORD EDWARD ABEL
Washington, D. C.

"Stan"

C.E.; Class Baseball (1); Civil Society; Washington-Lehigh Club; Pi Lambda Phi.

STAN came to Lehigh for two reasons—to become a Civil Engineer and to help Professor Mealey run his famous academy. He has succeeded to some extent, at least he has been Mealey's steadiest customer. Allentown is his paradise—Terpsichore his art—the 12.10 (often the 3.45) his Rolls Royce.

But Mealey's has by no means claimed all of his attention. During the past four years he has found time to make Calculus his synonym for "cinch." He also has several other harmless pastimes among which are "ringing the bells" and "getting the dope."

Women are Stan's Nemesis. He likes them all—that's part of the trouble. The rest of it is that they all like him. Valentino, look to your correspondence. If Stan ever gets in the movies you will no longer be bothered by females clamoring for your picture.

But thru it all, Stan has worked hard to become a Civil Engineer. He has been an unusually good student and will undoubtedly be as successful an engineer as he was a scholar. Good luck, old Mealeyite! Here's to you!

"What's the dope?"

SWOPE ACKER
Baltimore, Md.

"Soap" "Ace"

E.E.

SWOPE hails from Baltimore, and seems proud of it. It has been rumored that in his younger days he was a "killer" with the ladies, but in him, we now have a perfected woman hater—not that he really does not like them but he has a superficial air about him that seems to say, "I'll watch no woman's ankle."

But now to reach the point—Swope decided to delve among the volts, ohms, and amperes during his college career here. He has been quite successful, even so much so that some say he has a separate and distinct course for every machine in the laboratory. By his willingness to impart to others these special charms he seems to have over electrical apparatus he has made many fast friends. He will not admit this mysterious power, and if cornered he will tell you in confidence that he just "knows his stuff." We believe him, and all that may be said can be summed up in the words, "Look out, Steinmetz, I'm graduating this year!"

"Damned if I feel like working now!"

CARL WILSON APPEL
Allentown, Pa.

"Carl"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Railroad Society; Inkwell; Y. M. C. A. Committee (4).

FROM Allentown, which you all know well, there comes a lad named Carl Appel. A gallant youth and full of pep, for he was taught at Allentown Prep. He's a radio bug and at it he slaves, hoping to find why the ether waves. But when he gets working he turns every knob and then with the ether he sure does play hob. He never knew why things happened, you see, so he came to Lehigh and took E.E. And now when he feels like tickling the key, he can tell you what happens from A down to Z.

But this is not all he is able to do, let him look at your girl and she's quite thru with you. What method he uses you never will know, for he uses his methods where the methods don't show. At his studies, too, he sure is a bear, and can tell you things that will curl your hair. His knowledge is wide and it's a pretty good guess, that all he starts will end in success.

"Let's go!"

THOMAS HENRY ASBURY, II.
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Hank" "Boo Boo"

Bus. Ad.; Manager of Soccer (4); Assistant Manager (3); Vice-President of Penna. Intercollegiate Soccer Association (4); Chairman of Invitation Committee (4); Cotillion; Theta Delta Chi.

ON the outskirts of Philadelphia, a little over a score of years ago, there was great rejoicing when this predestined Adonis first saw light of day. He began his elementary training at the Penn Charter School in Philadelphia and continued on thru that school, finishing his college preparatory work there in June, 1919. After looking around for a comfortable and suitable place to spend the following four years, he finally chose the best, and came to Lehigh in September of the same year.

While at Lehigh, Henry has pursued his studies in a most scholarly manner, and his silvery tongue has performed many Aladdin-like achievements for him in many difficult courses. As a social gangster, Hank has stood well the test and has stepped the light fantastic at all the functions throughout the valley. As a manager, Hank handled the soccer team in great style and has helped considerable in making that sport at Lehigh.

"What goes on?"

CONRAD MORTIMER BAHNSEN
Nazareth, Pa.

"Doc" "Tiny"

B.A.; President of Pre-Medical Society (4), Secretary (3); Deutcher Verein.

IN the fall of 1919 there strayed into Bethlehem a boy from Coopersburg, as green as could be. In the spring of 1923 there departed from Bethlehem as sophisticated a young man as only Bethlehem can make. Conrad's change came suddenly. His first two years were spent in hard study, and then, woe to this irreligious world, Conrad decided to organize a dance orchestra. A social life began—and moreover, by the gods, it's true—he spent a whole summer in a girls' camp, fiddling in an orchestra. Do tell! Thus another has had his name placed on the waiting list of Mephisto. Conrad is a pre-med—we can see the reason for it, for in fiendish glee he vivisects chloroformed guinea pigs. Who is more suitable for the degree of M.D.?

Conrad, while still a freshman, boasted of being a minister's son. Ask him about it now, and he will tell you that he has found it no handicap, that he has done exactly as is expected of that genus. At least, Conrad speaks more than one language. Small, but heavy set!

"Well, gee whiz—!"

ROBERT POWER BALDERSON
Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Bob" "Baldy"

Bus. Ad.; Circulation Manager of "1923 Epitome"; Wrestling Squad (1, 2, 3); Cheerleader (3, 4); Mustard and Cheese (2, 3, 4); Cotillion, Phi Gamma Delta.

WHEN Bob came to Lehigh in the fall of 1919, the little town of Bethlehem was filled with joy and even the little girl who sold newspapers at the station wept merrily as tho an answer to her prayers had come at last.

Not easily frightened, Robert stepped out in the cool hill air with nothing on his head but a piece of black cheesecloth and for one whole year he tore thru college in the same condition. Then came the next year and who then, on this hoary old mount, was not aware of our hero's presence? He tried his luck at football, wrestling and, finally, as cheerleader.

A rather nervous character, Bob has that facility of not being able to sit still any longer than possible. He is a sound sleeper, except when he lies on his back, when he makes one hell of a noise, but as this only adds to the other dormitory disturbances, it doesn't make much difference.

His motto is, "Be it ever so homely there's no face like your own."

"Oh, will you?"

FREDERICK EDWIN BARBER
Allentown, Pa.

"Fritz" "Captain"

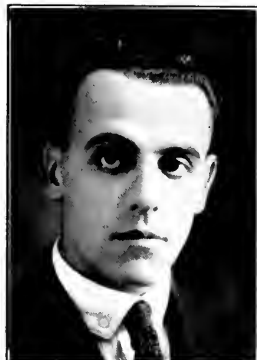

E.E.; Electrical Society; Railroad Society.

WHEN but a child, Fritz developed a taste for currents. With this natural instinct, he decided to follow in the footsteps of Franklin. But instead of hitching his ambitions to a kite, he hooked them to a motor-cycle. On this contraption he oscillated to and from Lehigh, to the consternation of the lower classes, who had to stay on the roads, and trust to their agility to live. When walking was necessary, he chose a secret path. Methinks it led to a bootlegger or something still unknown to us.

His earliest ambition was to be a motorman. However, he discarded this and now aspires to be a dispatcher. In this capacity he can throw switches to his hearts content. With expert knowledge of this phase, watt can prevent him from achieving success?

Fritz is a living proof of the adage, "Good things come in small packages." For, altho he is small, he wields a mean slip stick. However, putting aside the aforesaid faults, Fritz is a good fellow. We feel sure that some day he will do great things and bring honor to Lehigh. Good luck to you, Fritz!

"Golly Day!"

JOHN KENNETH BARRALL
Allentown, Pa.

"J. K."

B.A.; Deutcher Verein, Secretary (4); Phi Beta Kappa.

HIS intelligent looking young man hails from the "Peanut City". After he had absorbed all the learning he possibly could at Allentown High, he entered Lehigh with the aim of becoming a teacher. He has steadfastly clung to his aim and if marks are an indication of ability we expect him to become a great pedagogue.

Although he was generally to be found hidden behind a book, there were many times when he could be observed in a state of relaxation. At such times he was always to be found in Drown Hall with the rest of the Allentown cohort, dilating on the superiority of Allentown over Bethlehem. He was very vociferous upon this, his pet theme. When hard pressed by a Bethlehem loyal, he would invariably conclude the discussion by saying, "Ach, what's the use of arguing, it stands to reason."

Though John never speaks of the fair sex we are sure that one Miss has struck his fancy. Who's the femme you brought to the football games, Johnny? Don't blush!

"It stands to reason."

ROBERT WEBB BARRELL, JR.
St. Louis, Mo.

"Bob" "Bobby"

E.E.; Band (1, 2, 3); Track Squad (2); Sophomore Physics Honors; Electrical Society, Secretary (4); Railroad Society, Treasurer (4).

DAUSE, if only for a moment, with Bob and he will tell you of his home town, a little hick burg out west—St. Louis. If any other city has anything on St. Louis, Bob doesn't know it or else doesn't recognize the fact.

Bob is one of the most enthusiastic of that bunch of ampere-chasing, circuit breaking crowd, the E. E.'s. His interest in electrical work originated back in high school when one night he was asked to snap the footlights off and on during one of the high school plays.

For three years the flute-like notes from his clarinet helped tide the band over many a high place. He even tried his hand at track, but said his feet got going too fast for the rest of his body so gave it up.

Of course, Bob is interested in the ladies, but only superficially; and the closest he ever came to a dance was when he peeped in the Colly one night, but claims that all he saw was a poultry show.

"Now listen—wait a minute!"

EDWARD BELKNAP BEALE
Washington, D. C.

"Ed" "Belcamp"

Ch.E.; Varsity Tennis (2, 3, 4), Captain (4); Athletic Representative (3); Class Football (1); Junior Prom Committee; Chairman of Calculus Cremation Committee (2); Editor of "Crematorium" (2); President of Washington-Lehigh Club (4); Class Poet (4); Varsity Club, Secretary (4); Chemical Society, Vice-President (4); Manager of Lehigh Pistol Team (4); Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (2, 3); Scabbard and Blade, Cotillion, Tau Beta Pi, Cyanide, Sword and Crescent, Chi Psi.

SOME twenty odd years ago, Ed first saw the light of day in the noble city of New York, and from that day to this has bent his best efforts toward that same policy—that of seeing the light.

A product of an international marriage, his tastes have always been more or less cosmopolitan and he has impartially divided his allegiance between Lehigh and her surroundings, and the greater attractions afforded by Washington, D. C. In spite of such divided interests, however, his loyal and whole-hearted participation in college activities of every nature has been signally successful.

"Can you hear me, Buddy?"

RODNEY MAURER BECK

Philadelphia, Pa.

"Rod" "Merrywell"

Ch.E.; Varsity Tennis (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (2, 3); Class President (2); Junior Banquet Committee; Senior Class Book Committee; Varsity Club, Vice-President (4); Chemical Society; Class Day Committee; Cotillion, Cyanide, Sword and Crescent, Delta Tau Delta.

UP from the barren stretches, known as Germantown, there came one day a manly looking boy with a heavy beard endeavoring to find the secrets known as Chemical Engineering. In one hand, this tall handsome fellow carried a black bag and in the other a newly strung tennis racquet, which, in but a short time, was destined to carry him to many a victory on the tennis court.

But this youth's prowess did not alone stop at the court game. He was more than an athlete who thrived only out of doors. To him it came just as easy to serve Tetley's and Orange Peco as it was to serve aces on the courts which he has since made famous.

But from the nonsensical to the sublime, our Rodney has been a big help to the class in all sorts of activities and there are few if any activities at which he has not taken a slam, and a slam at a thing with him means getting away with it in good shape.

"No Kiddin' Now!"

HORACE CLIFTON BEITZEL, JR.

Moorestown, N. J.

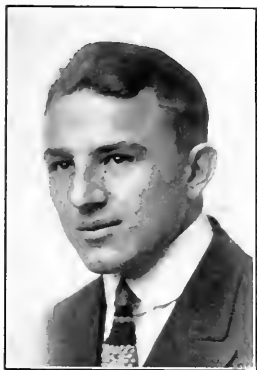

"Beitz"

M.E.; Soccer Squad (1, 4); Wrestling Squad (4); Railroad Society; Mechanical Society, President (4); Tau Beta Pi; Theta Xi.

IN the fall of 1919 Beitz came to Lehigh as he wanted to learn more than West Philly High had managed to teach him, and like many other frosh, chose the M.E. course. Having kept his aim constantly in mind, he has finally received his reward in being admitted to Tau Beta Pi. This, however, was not enough for Horace, but he must sometimes cause anxiety among the other members of his class by doing a week's work in advance and then taking time off to look around.

Studies are not the only things that occupy the mind of the little fellow, as soccer, wrestling, and the fair sex come in for their share of his time, and operations against the last named have been enough to earn for him the nickname of the "Sheik." Tell us, big, boy, where do you get that mysterious power over women? Just wait till we get you at a game of bridge, you cave man.

"Come on, Joe, it's your move!"

STEPHEN JOSEPH BESSEMER
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Steve" "Beefsteak" "Bess"

Bus.Ad.; Varsity Football (2, 3, 4); Varsity Baseball (2, 3, 4); Varsity Club; Y. M. C. A. Committee (4); Delta Upsilon.

IT was on the last bleak day of January in 1895, when Steve rolled forth with a thud that shook the very foundation of educational halls in "Sous Beslem" to which he would later add glory by his varied accomplishments.

After absorbing all the reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic handed out by local pedagogues, Steve continued his educational inclinations to the far flung west, and enrolled at Dubuque College, Iowa, where he also observed and applied facts for five years, and added more to his fame as a lover of the gridiron game.

However, memories of his dirty-faced playmates soon gave him a desire to pay a visit to his native land, and the sight of familiar places was so strong, that Steve soon found himself running ends and catching punts for Tom Keady.

He has been with us since 1920 and his smiling countenance has helped us to play the game, and also to conquer the "Business Lore" as handed out in Coppee Hall.

"He's a white man."

HENRY CONRAD BIEG
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Harry"

E.M.; Second Honors in Freshman Mathematics; Track Squad (1); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); Mining Society; Tau Beta Pi.

WHEN Harry first came to Lehigh he was a child of an unsophisticated type—frank and earnest. He came here serious of mind and determined to become a good and conscientious Mining Engineer. However, he soon realized that a college course was not merely absorbing the contents of books and lectures to the exclusion of all other things, hence his interest in athletics and other college activities.

In order that his knowledge might be well rounded he even dabbled in "applied sociology" after dark, and from various reports it would seem that he is deeply interested in human nature. Aside from these extension courses he still thinks that there might be some advantage in looking at the books now and then. He no longer sits in wondering awe at the words of the learned professors, although he still gives them the impression that he believes every word they say. How well this system works is shown by the Tau Beta Pi key which dangles from his watch chain.

"That's not so hot."

CHARLES FLETCHER BISHOP
Williamsport, Pa.

"Phoebe" "Prince"

E.E.; Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Orchestra (1, 2); Inkwell, Vice-President (4); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); Electrical Society.

WITH all his nonsense, Phoebe seems to be one of the luckier members of the '23 class and stands high in its records. It is also rumored that he is soon to become one of the most lucky in that he can say someone other than his mother is proud of him.

Although Phoebe claims Williamsport as his place of residence, we wonder at his frequent visits to Camden, N. J. We wonder if it is love for the old home town or for one of the fairer sex. Guess which?

Clarinets and lacrosse sticks seem to give this chap quite a bit of amusement. The strains from the clarinet make us wonder if it is rightly called a musical instrument. Would "an instrument of torture" rightly express the listener's thoughts? As for the lacrosse stick, his might be amusing but how about his opponents?

Phoebe graduates and enters the world with the best wishes of his classmates. "Phoebe, here's a toast to future years."

"Gees-O-whiz!"

JOHN HENRY BLANKENBUEHLER
Elizabeth, Pa.

"Blank" "John Henry"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Railroad Society; Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (3, 4); Scabbard and Blade; Tau Beta Pi.

WAS the first of August in nineteen one, for the twentieth century had just begun; Pittsburgh then was still full of smoke and through these clouds a white stork broke. The stork was tired so he dropped his freight, clear down a chimney and onto the grate. So to this vale of joy and tears, came our little John Henry without any fears. Now Steinmetz you know is growing old, so Blank decided to enter the fold of those who were seeking to become E.E.'s and at times go off on electrical sprees. Now Steinmetz works for G. sprees.

Little Blanky, they say, was frequently seen, dashing around in a snappy machine. This machine was famous for a peculiar habit of tearing 'round corners like a much frightened rabbit. It dodged the cops with remarkable ease, but once a man said, "Twelve fifty, please." The car has now gone so the future reveals, more hope for Blank's living to reach his ideals. So thus we will leave him to gain his ends and with wishes of luck this biography ends.

ELMER MORTON BLOCH

Newport, R. I.

"Blockie" "Joe"

B.A.; Assistant Manager of Tennis (3); Mustard and Cheese (3, 4); Musical Director (3, 4); Lehigh Press Club (3, 4); Y. M. C. A. Committee (4); Interfraternity Council (4); Sophomore Banquet Committee; Arts and Science Club; Le Club de Quinze; Pi Lambda Phi.

ALMOST any morning you can hear a sleepy voice yell, "What time is it?" And you can always hear that same voice exclaiming that there are at least seven minutes left to dress, wash, eat and be a half hour late for French. But that is the way with a lazy B.A., especially if he hails from Newport and if his name is Elmer Morton Bloch.

Elmer has but one worry in life, to wit, to keep his fiddle arm in training. Quite a laudable ambition too, for Elmer fingers a nasty fiddle and pushes a mean bow. Just try to sit still when his trusty violin gives forth the harmonious strains of jazz.

In spite of all, Elmer is a man's man. Liked by all, liking all, for he is a good fellow, willing to give you the shirt off his back or to take your last cigarette. A true Lehigh man, sure to bring honor upon his Alma Mater—well, that's Elmer.

"Who's got a cigarette?"

RAYMOND JOSEPH BOBBIN

Shenandoah, Pa.

"Hinkey" "Dom" "Bob"

Bus. Ad.; Football Squad (1, 4); Class Football (1); Theta Kappa Phi.

HINKEY, a veteran of many "Epitomes" and who has been termed the only English-speaking resident of Shenandoah, first came to Lehigh in 1916, and battled the Lehigh Faculty for one year with wonderful results. Then came the Great War, and Hinkey went to France.

He returned with a firm resolution to keep up the good work, and this he did with avidity for one term—but the much dreaded reaction set in. Undaunted by this he started life anew under Prof. Stewart. It was here that his real ability was unearthed.

Aside from his scholastic abilities he attained fame along other lines, notably as an authority on correct attire. His sleeping attire was designed by Admiral Peary. When it came to "stepping out" in society he made Beau Brummel look like a piker, as it took the constant, untiring, undivided energies of no less than six Frosh to keep his apparel in order. His athletic uniform reminded one vividly of "Ye Olden Times" "When Knighthood was in a Flower."

But cheer up, old top. Your well known line will carry you through.

"I'm here to utter."

CARL FRANKLIN BODEY
Reading, Pa.

E.E.

HOSE modest features shown above, picture, as only a photograph can, Reading's prize and delight. After convincing the Reading High School authorities that it would be greatly improved if he were elsewhere, they presented him with a ticket to Penn State. Here Carl found the faculty far too modest for his liking and the girls—yes, even at this tender age, he had a great admiration for them—by far too wild. At about this time he really began to think and exercised his mental abilities to the extent of deciding to come to Lehigh, showing rare judgment by entering with the class of '23.

At Lehigh, Carl's time has been divided between rushing the ladies and the learning and knowledge radiated by "Windy Bill." Delighting in arguments, he will go to any length to create an opportunity for exercising his abilities along this line. Altho hard to impose upon, he is very good-natured. When necessary, Carl is a willing and hard worker, permitting no obstacle to hold him back. After a hard four-lap race with the faculty, he finished well in the lead, in fact, Thorny was his nearest competitor.

"Where the hell is that thing?"

GEORGE CENTENNIAL BORDEN,
JR.

Asbury Park, N. J.

"George" "Cent"

Ch.E.; Chemical Society; Arcadia (4); Y. M. C. A. Committee (4).

HIS famous American hails from Asbury Park, where he spent most of his youth in hunting the wild and carnivorous Jersey mosquito in its native haunts. When this mighty hunter grew to manhood he began to think of higher occupations than that of "skeeter catcher," so he decided to come to Lehigh and study the science of manufacturing bootleggers' supplies, known in the register as Chemical Engineering.

Now George is a handsome young fellow, and it was not extraordinary that in the natural course of events he should meet and become acquainted with the fair damsels of the surrounding country. However, as the old saying goes, "Beauty does not travel with beauty," and this George discovered after going out on several blind dates.

Well, George, now that you are about to go out into the cold cruel world, we hope that you will no longer be the gay Don Juan of undergraduate days, but will some day manage to center your affections around some sweet girl and settle down.

"You know your oats."

WILLARD ALBERT SOLOMON
BOYER

Lehigh, Pa.

"Bill" "Solly" "Was"

B.A.; Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Arts and Science Club; Le Club de Quinze; Phi Beta Kappa.

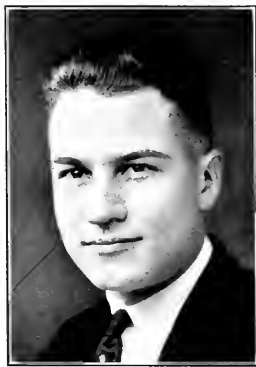

LITTLE was heard of Bill Boyer before he joined the Brown and White band. Thereafter, receiving the assignment to play the bass drum, we heard nothing but him! Bill is the only man who beat Lafayette four straight. His wielding of the beaters made for him many feminine admirers, and many of the Fem Sem and B'thorpe rooters felt their hearts flutter as Bill beat his staccato on the drum.

Bill is a member of the Arts and Science Pinochle Club, and came out second in the tournament held last winter. His favorite meld was 40 queens.

The favorite haunt of Boyer's is St. Luke's Hospital, where he spends at least seven days a week. They tell of a girl from Bill's home town who is in training at St. Luke's. Probably this is the reason for his cutting of 8 o'clocks!

Bill is going into Educational Work, altho we don't know what kind. He says he's going to the Philippines—probably so he can come back and say he was a success!

"Let's play pinochle."

CLIFTON NEWTON BRADLEY
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Cliff" "Brad"

Bus. Ad.; Varsity Lacrosse (3, 4); Musical Clubs (3); Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Varsity Club; Cotillion; Sigma Nu.

THERE'S a man that deprived the engineering profession of one of its shining lights. After a year of engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology, to which he migrated weekly from Brooklyn, he was enticed to come down to the Valley and take his medicine under Baldy.

Between Baldy's workouts he managed to wield a wicked lacrosse stick and also squeeze a mean tune out of the cornet and saxophone, both of which he played with the Lehigh Six. Then he mixed in a little parlor duty between all these activities. All last spring he was running around the campus and hitting it up in general around Bethlehem with a person named Sarah. They tell some awful tales about their escapades. She was one of those wild young(?) things gone wrong. If you don't believe it get him to tell you of some of his trips with her, cause she's a Ford.

Cliff is one of those fellows that have the enviable ability to make friends and keep them. He is always ready with a "Hello" and a smile to cheer the other fellow.

"Who is she?"

LENNOX JEROME BRAY
Westerly, R. I.

"Len"

M.E.; Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (3); Cross Country Team (1, 2, 3); Class Baseball (1); Class Relay (2); Junior Banquet Committee; Varsity Club, President (4); Mechanical Society; Cotillion; Cyanide.

WAFTED like a leaf on the gentle autumn breezes of the Lehigh Valley, one balmy day in the latter part of September, 1919, came a fellow, who hailed from the ruddy shores of Rhode Island to cast his lot with many other "green" leaves on the banks of the Lehigh.

Len won his numerals as a member of the Freshman baseball team of the Founder's Day sports. Following this, he qualified as one of the main supports of the cross country team and later on won his berth on the Varsity track team as a miler. Len's ability was soon recognized and as a reward he was elected to captain the track team in his Junior year.

Another achievement characteristic of Len, was the interest he showed in the revival of the Varsity Club, which he now leads as president. And so, on and on, Len's honors extend into other activities as well as athletics.

"How do the points stand?"

REGINALD PHILIP BROTZMAN
Easton, Pa.

"Red" "Brotz" "Reg"

E.E.

REGINALD PHILIP BROTZMAN, who carefully disguises his first name under the nickname of Red, hails from Easton, a circumstance which he is trying to make the best of. For consolation, he boards a limited every morning, Bethlehem bound. Thus at Lehigh, amid the "gentle breezes" wafting back and forth in Bill Esty's classroom, he is soothed into forgetfulness and floats off into a glorious ethereal realm where lie all his hopes and ambitions. Now, to be serious, Red is using his head in providing against future illnesses. A certain hospital in Newark, N. J., is said to hold his heart.

The fact that Red's heart is captured has not caused him to become reminiscent or dreamy, for he is a hard worker and a good student. His smile is an asset which has won him friends both on and off the campus. His smile is just as much in evidence when things are wrong, as when they are right. This is the kind of optimism that can't be beat, which, coupled with his many other attributes, will go far in making him attain success in whatever he undertakes.

"What!!!!!"

CHARLES OWEN BURGESS
Niagara Falls, N. Y.

"Cobalt" "Zip"

Met.; Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Arcadia (3, 4); Varsity Club; Scabard and Blade; Met. Society, Secretary (4).

HIS young man is a scion of the noble French family of De Bourges, which migrated from their ancestral castle in Monaco to Niagara Falls. His uncanny skill at bridge and other games of chance is probably due to this early association of his ancestors with the indoor sports at Monte Carlo, or perhaps the influence of the Horseshoe Falls.

His preference for Metallurgy became apparent at the age of three, when Charles was found merrily casting tin soldiers on the parlor floor. Naturally he came to Lehigh to learn more of this mystic art. But, alas! his time here is often occupied by other things.

On the track he has ever been a thorn in the side of Lafayette. But, alack! space does not permit the further exposure of this luminary's career. A good student, but never a course crabber; a skilled athlete with medals galore. But one last warning, girls! Beware of this beau brummel's engaging wit—that mustache! and that derby!

"No kiddin'!"

CHARLES ROLAND BUSH
Washington, D. C.

"Charlie" "Joe"

C.E.; Lacrosse Squad (3, 4); Inkwell; Civil Society; Member of American Society of Civil Engineers; Washington-Lehigh Club.

FOUR years ago from the Capitol of Our Nation,
To dwell within these Ivy Walls,
There came a youth with a great ambition,
In answer to his Engineering calls.

Four years he labored day and night,
'Tho not so hard as he well might,
He lingered long to survive the fight,
When he gets his "dip", he'll clinch it tight.

The best of men are wont to stray,
From the beaten and narrow way,
Charlie's no exception to this rule,
Often he thot of else but school.

Lacrosse is an Indian game, they say,
And Charlie has tried it in his day,

If Uncus by chance should pass this way,
"Boy, don't play it that way," he'd say.

By way of a fitting closure,
Which, reader, must always come,
Charlie—don't die of exposure,
If per chance you become a bum.

"How 'bout a little harmony?"

JOHN PALMER CAMM
Atlantic City, N. J.

"Whitey"

E.M.

WHITEY came to us from Peddie Institute, at which place he was an honor student, winning the Rensselaer Mathematics Prize. At Lehigh, he immediately proceeded to declare himself in his same efficient manner and ranks with the best in the Mining Engineering course, in spite of the fact that he was kept busy with outside work. We stop to wonder what he might have achieved had he been able to put more time on his work. What puzzles us still more, is how could he obtain his good standing and yet be able to see a certain fair one in Bethlehem seven nights out of the week. Let us in on your secret, Whitey, how did you do it?

We are sure that Whitey would become a successful mining engineer and great things would be heard of him, but unfortunately there are no mines in Bethlehem. Whitey—guess you will have to take her with you.

"Holy smokes!"

WILLIAM ALBERT CARLISLE
Luthersburg, Pa.

"Al" "Butcher"

Bus. Ad.; Varsity Football (2, 3, 4); Varsity Wrestling (2, 3, 4); Varsity Track (2, 4); Arcadia (3, 4); Treasurer (4); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Varsity Club; Cotillion; Cyanide, Sword and Crescent; Sigma Chi.

WE must give DuBois, Pa., credit for being the birth place of the Butcher, whence came this appellation we do not know, but it has clung with persistency throughout the college career of W. A. Carlisle.

Al was reared in the fresh air and simple country life of the hills of Luthersburg. He prepared for Lehigh at DuBois High School, and strange tales of prowess had come out of the wilderness heralding the arrival of this big blond youth. The class of 1923 was his choice and he has done his bit, and successfully, in upholding its honor through all four years of being. Butch, as Al is affectionately called, has upheld the college tradition in football, wrestling, and track, as well as the various honorary societies.

Since Al is an embryonic business man, we are sure that Rockefeller and the Standard Oil had better look to their laurels when he leaves the sheltering confines of Coppee Hall.

"Look a-here!"

CALVIN CLAUDE CHRISTMAN
Lehighton, Pa.

"Cally" "Chris"

B.A.; Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Inkwell; Arts and Science Club.

CHE biography of Cally is another woeful tale of the pitfalls of a big city. Cal was "brung up" in the village of Lehighton, known far and wide for its quilting parties and spelling bees. Calvin was raised under this influence.

Stepping from the sleeper that fateful day in 1919, he was met by a Bethlehem friend. His suitcase was uncommonly heavy. The friend remarked about its weight.

"Well, you see, I saw you were allowed to wear skating caps in November, so I brought along my six pairs of skates. Where do you skate?"

From that day on he learned much and today—behold him—sophisticated—been to Penn State, Rutgers, Binghampton, and even has been in New York twice!

Cally gained most fame at Lehigh because of his famous cymbal solos! His initials C. C. C. have no connection with the famous army pills, altho you'd think so if you ever played poker with him.

"Honest to John!"

DAVID MESSER CLARKE
Bee Ridge, Fla.

"Dave" "Reds"

C.E.; Arcadia (4); Associate Editor of "Brown and White" (2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A. Handbook Committee (2); Civil Society; Theta Xi.

DAVE hailed from the "City of Brotherly Love." Having graduated from Northeast High School, he was determined to follow in his brother's footsteps and took the train to South Bethlehem. Sometimes it is said, "College will either make or break a man." It must be true for here is one example, as it has made Dave. When Dave walked up South Mountain, for the first time, he was the personification of Innocence, but his stay at Lehigh has opened many channels hitherto untouched, and when Dave graduates this June he will be ready to take his place in the Civil Engineering world.

It is said that red-headed people have very quick tempers, well, the exception still proves the rule, and Dave is an exception. He never gets the least bit riled and is a friend to everybody and everybody's friend. He is never tiring in his efforts to do things for other people, and always has a ready smile for everyone (especially the ladies).

"Damfino."

WILFRED CLINTON COMPHER
 Poolesville, Md.

"Clint" "Bill"

Bus.Ad.; Class Football (1); Varsity Track (3, 4); Rifle Team (1, 2, 3); Lehigh-Maryland Club, Treasurer (2).

SOME six years ago Clint was the pride of the eight students who composed the graduating class of the Poolesville High School. Upon graduating from this institution of learning, this patriotic, ambitious youth became a volunteer in Uncle Sam's army. To him the word "failure" was unknown and at the end of the war found him the proud possessor of two bars that for all practical purposes were gold. But this was no place for an ambitious young man in peace time, so Clint began to think of higher learning.

The frosh cap was an awful come-down for this dignified youth but he gradually became used to such things and the end of the year found him one of the leading lights in all peanut and popcorn circles. At the close of his Junior year he has advanced so that we find him one morning in the Colonial eating breakfast in evening clothes. Strange as it may seem, two days before the opening of the Senior year he was celebrating the passing of that subject which is the nightmare of all Business Men—Trig.

"I don't remember it."

JOHN FRANCIS CONLIN, JR.
 Philadelphia, Pa.

"Johnny" "Jack"

Bus.Ad.; Editor-in-Chief of the "Burr" (4); Associate Editor (2, 3); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Class Prophet (4); Kappa Beta Phi; Pi Delta Epsilon; Theta Delta Chi.

JOHNNY first started kicking the slats out of the cradle on January 20th, 1899, in Germantown, Pa. After spending the usual number of years in the grammar schools of that vicinity, John migrated to St. Joseph's College, and after a year, brought himself to Lehigh.

His Irish wit soon became evident around the halls of the Business Administration school and it wasn't long ere he had dragged down a place on the "Burr" Board, becoming Editor of this magazine in his Senior year.

John immediately developed a great liking for the old school as can be evidenced by his early returning every fall. We can't quite figure out what the attraction has been, but rumor has it that John's especial weakness was taking finals. As Johnny goes forth into the world he carries with him the best wishes of many true friends he has formed during his stay at Lehigh and who all look forward to the time when John will be editing "Life" or some such paper.

"What do you say?"

EDWARD HAVILAND COXE, JR.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Eddie" "Ed"

E.E.; Varsity Wrestling (2, 3, 4), Captain (3); Intercollegiate 158-pound Champion (4); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); Class Football (2); Class Relay (2); President of Interfraternity Council (4); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); St. Paul's Society, Vice-President (4); Athletic Representative (4); Varsity Club; Cotillion; Cyanide; Sword and Crescent; Chi Phi.

OUT of the smoky murk where steel reigns king there came to Lehigh a youth whose tender years belied the firm purpose and ambition which guided him.

Having partially overcome the handicap of early years spent in Pittsburgh by preparing at Mercersburg, Eddie decided to make the job complete by coming to Lehigh.

Eddie is best known to us as a wrestler, and his name will be handed down to future generations of Lehigh men as one of the gamest men who ever trod the mat. But his ability as a grappler does not end here, for he is as much at home in a parlor as he is on the mat. His versatility is proven by his record, and his popularity is shown by the large number of friends he has made at college.

"Only five more pounds to go!"

ARTHUR MORGAN CREIGHTON
Bayonne, N. J.

"Crate"

Met.; Met. Society.

BAYONNE, we believe, is chiefly known as the birthplace of Arthur Morgan Creighton. In 1919, he left Broadway for the rough life of a Lehigh engineer. As much as the sleepy town of Bethlehem must have irked his cosmopolitan soul, and great as was his disappointment at not finding a golf course on the campus, he displayed such skill with electrical apparatus as to cause the electrical department to regard the Met. department with envy for having captured such a prize.

With effortless ease, apparently, he has won the affection of his fellows, and, it is rumored, the hearts of the fairer sex. His syncopated playing has caused many to compare him with the immortal Zez Confrey. It is certain that the circle of acquaintances of this accomplished lad will be constantly enlarging as he throws a dirty radio wave, and has brought many a reluctant heart to heel with his persuasive letters. Arthur stands as the merry comrade, the talented entertainer, but withal the serious student as well.

"Don't let 'em kid you"

ARTHUR CABOT CUSICK Roxbury, Mass.

"Art" "Al"

M.E.; Varsity Football (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (4); Junior Banquet Committee; Senior Banquet Committee; Athletic Representative (4); Cyanide; "18 Club"; Sword and Crescent; Beta Theta Pi.

BACK in the time when all the Irish politicians rode horseback, there was a little town in Massachusetts by the name of Roxbury. No one knew of this town then for Art was just a little fellow, but it was destined to become a much-heard-of city,—all it needed was to give Art a chance to spread his stuff.

Arthur started out on the right line when a very young boy, by acquiring a great faculty of memory, which has stood him in good stead for his training while at college.

As for Art's outside activities, excluding social, look right under his smiling "map of Ireland," and he also finished a darn hard course in four years—'nuff said as to his ability.

There are two things which will never happen—Lehigh's faculty becoming lenient, and Art without a smile on his face and a hearty handshake. If this business game is anything like football, Art is due to be president or mayor of Boston.

"Cut it out, wee ya?"

JAMES HAZEN DARSIE
West Homestead, Pa.

"Red" "Jim"

E.M.; Varsity Lacrosse (3,4); Class Basketball (1); Football Squad (2); Mining Society, Cotillion; Varsity Club; Sigma Nu.

HAT'S Red up above! Red Darsie from that furnace roaring, smoke producing, cast iron town of Homestead, Pa., where the lone restaurant goes by the tremendous name of The Palace Buffet and Eating Room.

This stalwart young man is not called Red because of any facial characteristics or radical social tendencies. There is another reason. Socially, Jim is a conservative. He only steps out four nights each week. But then, as is said, he steps. When Red first hit Lehigh he thought Packer Hall was owned by the Beef Trust and that George Ade was five cents a drink. Now he knows which of the two Youngs to patronize and never mistakes the chirping of an oofstus for the cry of a lost soul.

The rumor that Jim will return home after graduation and change the name of the old town from Homestead to Bedstead and Rip Van Winkle it the rest of his life is entirely unfounded. He is a hustler from the word "stop."

"Try and do it."

EDWARD CHESTER DAVIS
Taylor, Pa.
"Irish"

M.E.; Kappa Sigma.

HE is not "just another coal cracker," of course, he hails from the coal regions, but he has lived it down very successfully. One of the conventional habits he has retained—he is stubborn. Although always open to conviction, he is hard to convince; but when convinced he is a certain convert, for he clings to his opinions and impressions quite "mulishly."

It would be hard to find a person who had seen Ed ever lose his sunny good humor and ready smile. He is always ready to do anything within his power for others; and although this was not intended primarily either as a panegyric or a delineation of character, it is impossible to resist the temptation to add that no member of the M. E. 1923 section did more than he to sustain the general morale of that section.

One of his principal claims to fame is an addition to "Famous Sayings by Famous Men"—that classic expression,—"I ain't Irish!" Few people were ever more popular than Ed, it is simply a case of "There's something about him you'll like!"

"Hold things in their proportion."

WILLIAM SHAFF DAVIS, JR.
Lebanon, Pa.
"Bill" "Duke"

E.M.; Assistant Manager of Wrestling (3); Class Basketball (1); Class Baseball (1); Phi Delta Theta.

HAVING composed yourselves after a glance at the above diagram of connections, perhaps, dear reader, you would care to read this brief explanatory note. What you have just lamped was donated to Lehigh by the faculty of Lebanon Valley a few weeks before Hallowe'en back in '19, in full settlement of a long-standing grudge. We think we owe them some change but the exact amount is difficult to determine since Bill's intrinsic value increases each day he is with us. As a child, Bill was taught to believe that Lebanon, Pa., is the entrepot of the world and as a result, even after these long years, Bill says the Emaus or any other big city can't compare with the city of pretzel benders.

All went well for Bill and for us until he fell in love. What a change? But we all love you just the same, Bill, though your appetite is gone and you have that far-away look nowadays. The future is bright for Bill and we know he'll make good as an engineer as he has as a student.

"Hurry up, Tommy."

HARRIE LYON DAY
Ogdensburg, N. Y.

"Harry"

Met.; Lacrosse Squad (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A. Committee (3); Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (1); Phi Sigma Kappa.

OGDENSBURG can be found, after some difficulty, on the map of New York State. It is well on this side of the Canadian border, but people from there seem to have a fond regard for Canadian ways. Harry started his preliminary training there.

Even in this remote town in upper New York State, where the snow piles twelve feet high in winter and the thermometer goes equally as far below, Harry had learned of the famous Metallurgist, Professor Joseph William Richards. The fact that this noted man was teaching Metallurgy at Lehigh was the cause of Harry's coming here and enrolling in the course of Metallurgy.

Besides an interest in Metallurgy, Harry also showed some aptitude in athletics, choosing as his favorite activity the easiest sport in college, lacrosse. On the lacrosse field he found it easier to sling a lacrosse ball than to slino the bull in the class room.

"Hot Coffee!"

FRANK HART DeMOYER
Camden, N. J.

"Frank"

C.E.; Mustard and Cheese (2, 3, 4), Stage Manager (3, 4); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); Civil Society; Students' Council (1, 2).

FROM Camden to Bethlehem came this representative of the land of farms and skeeters, struggling up the side of old South Mountain, and found breath to cry, "Cripes! What a hill!" With such an exclamation cast to the four winds Frank began his collegiate career. Now that four years have passed, he graduates as a C.E., standing on the top o' the world and smiles, "It was not so bad after all."

When Frank entered Lehigh he seemed a little diffident in his attentions towards members of the fairer sex. But now—"my, what Lehigh has done!" His social endeavors are not confined to Bethlehem alone, postmarks read from North, South, East and West. And then—well, time will tell.

Frank finds no amusement at the Colly or Grand, but spends his time waving a mean lacrosse stick and shifting scenes for the Mustard and Cheese. He thinks a little more spice in the mustard would make the club much better.

"Cripes!"

CHARLES LUTHER DERRICK
Washington, D. C.

"Charlie" "Reverend"

E.E.; Cross Country Team (1);
Electrical Society, Treasurer (4);
Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (3, 4); Scabbard and Blade.

HIS specimen of the species, Homo Collegium, hails from Tech High School, Washington, D. C. Graduating in '19, he decided to follow in Edison's footsteps, so he packed his tooth-brush and Bible in the family carpet-bag and made his debut at Lehigh. After struggling with Parke Fraim's efficiency curves and Thorny's differential and integral what-nots, Charlie figured he had done enough work and was due a little vacation. His associates and friends were afraid that he had deserted them in their quest for knowledge and was training for All-American honors in dancing, or for a berth in the Ziegfeld Follies. But though he believes in a good time, he is forever on the trail of the renegade recalcitrances and capacities, and it is said he is the only one who can keep Bill Esty awake in Seminary. He is well liked by all he comes in contact with, and when so inclined has the ability to put things across, so we feel safe in predicting a bright future for Charlie.

"How come?"

GEORGE JACOB DESH
Belfast, Pa.

"George" "Georgie"

B.A.; Varsity Soccer (2,3), Soccer Squad (1).

GEORGE is a son of Bethlehem. He naturally entered Lehigh very much as a duck would take to water. This doesn't mean, however, that knowledge eluded him as water runs off a duck's back. Though he often complained that he couldn't get the hang of French, he acquitted himself favorably in that subject as well as in his other branches. He intends to specialize in forestry after graduation from Lehigh.

George is well known for his ability as a soccer player. He played two years for his Alma Mater and will be remembered for his earnest, steady style of play. Unfortunately, at the height of his form, he was forced to retire from the sport, due to a badly injured knee. His loss was greatly felt by the soccer team.

Whether or not the injured knee interfered with his leg work at Mealey's can only be surmised. They say he shook a wicked knee there in his time.

"Let's go!"

EDWARD HAY DITHRIDGE
Morrisville, Pa.

"Ed" "Dith"

Ch.E.

GES, girls, he certainly must have been a sweet baby. Athletic as the deuce, don't cha know. In fact, he was so athletic he turned his thots toward juggling and came to this noble institution to study the gentle art of juggling beakers and test tubes and sleight of hand work with acid radicals. Another evidence of Ed's athletic prowess and his extreme speed is the fact that he never rises before seven-fifty-five for an eight o'clock class. He gets there, too.

He is well known down town. All the theater orchestras call him by name. Some say they never see him week-ends. Ah! That's a secret, but we'll tell you he goes home. There's quite an attraction there, too!

At dances, he's a bear. All the girls tell every other fellow there, "Edward is the most divine dancer." This, fellow stumblers, must be the secret of his frequent long walks. And the helm of his Ford roadster! Oh, Boy! Give it room! He holds all the local speed records. We hope that he will speed thru life as he speeds about with his Ford.

"May I have the next dance?"

LYMAN LEROY DIXON
Flushing, N. Y.

"Lymie" "Dix"

E.M.; Associate Editor of "Brown and White" (1, 2); Associate Manager of Basketball (4), Assistant Manager (3); Stage Manager of Mustard and Cheese (3), Carpenter (2); Class Vice-President (2); Cotillion; Mining Society; Varsity Club; Beta Theta Pi.

WE don't know how old this fellow is. We ask him his age and what do you think he replies? "I was born on May 3, 1897, for all practical purposes." Nice, clever answer, but not the facts. However, "for all practical purposes," we will consider him under 50.

But the reason Dix is getting his degree at this late date after entering Lehigh in the fall of 1915 is because he has had the lure of the sea—and other things—draw him away from the pursuit of knowledge. Dix is proud of the fact that he has never been thrown out of Lehigh, although he has left the institution on a number of occasions. It has been eight years since he came to Lehigh, but four of those years have been used in Uncle Sam's Navy and other lawful pursuits. So you see, Lymie isn't as bad off as he could be pictured.

"Atta boy!"

HOWARD HIGBEE DUBOIS
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Dubie" "Danny"

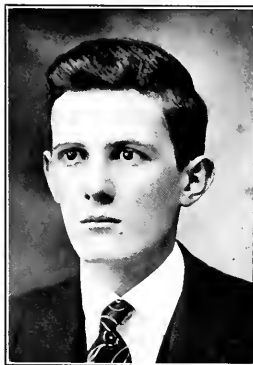

E.M.; Manager of Football (4), Assistant Manager (3); Arcadia (4); Junior Prom Committee; Freshman Banquet Committee; Varsity Club; Kappa Beta Phi; Cotillion; Scimitar; Phi Club; Cyanide; Sword and Crescent; "18 Club"; Psi Upsilon.

AFTER having sampled college in the form of the University of Pennsylvania in 1918, there strode into the valley of the Lehigh one day, some four years ago, the picturesque figure of the gent whose profile is revealed herewith. "Strode in" is hardly the correct expression—"rolled in" would be better, as all will agree who have surely noticed his sea-going roll on the campus.

He came to us a total stranger, "a mere stripling in search of adventure." However, in his four years sojourn here, he has become fairly well-known; has acquired a "howdy" acquaintance with some hundred score of students; and also an intimate relationship with others not on the registrar's book, but enthusiasts in the famous New School.

Dubie is probably best known to us as a football manager and "man about town."

"Hook 'em hombre!"

JOHN EDGAR ERB
Middletown, Pa.

"Johnny"

Met.; Cross Country Team (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (3); Track Squad (1, 3, 4); Class Treasurer (1); Met. Society, Vice-President (4).

DGAR came to us under the rather ominous title of Valedictorian. But he soon proved that he was human, and, like the rest of us, vulnerable to Thorny's "valentines." Of course, it was only natural that such a business-like young fellow be made treasurer of the freshmen's gold. With the money thus earned, he bought himself a pair of running shoes, for the big open spaces had always called to him. And so, for four years, with the Autumn leaf harriers, he has wended his fleet-footed way to fame.

There has been talk of a woman; but then those letters may have come from the McGraw-Hill Co. Johnny seems to be a born solver of Met problems, and is always willing to share his knowledge with his less fortunate colleagues. His dry humor and cheerful personality will be greatly missed from the campus. He can be very serious at times, and his steadfast tenacity will make it impossible for any desire to remain long unfulfilled.

"Holy hell!"

HAROLD SIGMOND ERTNER
Camden, N. J.

"Sig" "Professor"

C.E.; Director of Mandolin Orchestra (1, 2, 3, 4); Inkwell; Civil Society, President (4); Treasurer (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Intercollegiate Conference on Student Activities (2).

SIG is a product of Camden High, where he was prominent in all student activities. He is a great musician and plays a mandolin with a skill acquired only after many years of earnest endeavor. He was leader of the Mandolin Club at Camden High for four years and brought that organization up to a point of efficiency seldom attained by a high school organization, besides directing several professional orchestras. On entering Lehigh, he immediately took charge of the material at hand and in a comparatively short time, turned out the most versatile mandolin club that ever represented Lehigh.

Credit is due him not only for his work with the musical clubs, but also as a student. Sig at times was up against it and only after hard work and that "never die" spirit was he able to overcome the many obstacles that crossed his path.

"Helz Belz!"

CHARLES MELVIN FANCHER
Elizabeth, N. J.

"Charlie" "Chuck"

N.E.; Cross Country Team (1, 2); Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Relay (2).

IN a battling world since men began,
We have struggled to rise again.
Tho' our failures seem hard and many,
Our crown is supreme at the end.

Charley comes from Elizabeth Town,
And has proven a friend sincere;
His guiding hand shall build us ships
To carry our progress far and near.

Four years in the Hall of Price,
To prepare for the harder race.
He says "it's easy, but very nice,"
To strive—and keep the pace.

Our ships! In the war just passed Have saved many nations; and our's—
The ships he will build in the future
Shall make our peace sure and fast.

To you, our friend in dear Lehigh,
We breathe our hopes with a sigh;
When you drive your ships thru a choppy sea,
And the winds and waves are high.

"Judas Priest."

HAROLD FARKAS

Newark, N. J.

"Weary" "Pop"

Ch.E.; Assistant Manager of Swimming (3); Arcadia (4); Chemical Society; Pi Lambda Phi.

WORLDS to conquer" just about described the purpose of Harold Farkas when he entered Lehigh in the fall of '19; and there is no doubt in our own minds that he has succeeded in his purpose.

Bull sessions are Weary's meat and yet he is by no means a Mexican athlete. For the most part, he listens—but when he does speak he says something.

Weary is a man's man and women play but a small part in his life. "Dame Rumor" has it that one experience was more than enough for him, and ever since he has kept rather shy of the weaker sex.

When in a crisis, Weary is the one that keeps steady and rules the situation. He is always ready with a joke and a laugh and is easy to get along with.

It is doubtful whether or not Weary will practice engineering once he has a Ch.E. tacked after his name. He is too much a business man to bother with HCL. Do not be surprised if in a few years J. P. Morgan and Harold Farkas are mentioned in the same breath.

"Haven't got an 8 o'clock today."

HAROLD FRANKLIN FEHR

Bethlehem, Pa.

"Squint" "Fairy"

B.A.; Deutcher Verein (4).

SQUINT, a home product, came to Lehigh after taking most of the scholastic honors at Bethlehem High. Although a B. A., he decided to specialize in Math., and became one of Thorny's pets, proved by the A's he received. Squint never was much of an athlete, but they do tell that he won the pinochle championship of the North Side. In fact he is so addicted to pinochle that he spends all his idle time in working up trick formations. He is a much sought after partner, and it is seldom that he is forced to acknowledge defeat. Squint, too, has quite a reputation at "tickling the ivories," and has gained a position as one of Bart's pep injectors. His marches set to jazz time float plaintively on the atmosphere around Taylor Gym every afternoon at four. Squint has broken up many a study hour in his role as Drown Hall entertainer. Howard F. Fehr is well known about town, holds sneaking acquaintances with most of the members of the Rotary Club. He specializes in plays rendered by his Sunday School class, usually taking the part of the handsome hero.

"Oh, Heck!"

FRANK ELLIOTT FERGUSON, JR.
Washington, D. C.

"Frank" "Baron"

E.E.; Rifle Team (1, 2, 3, 4), Manager (3, 4); Captain, R. O. T. C. (3); Class Football (1); Class Treasurer (3); Interfraternity Council, Treasurer (4); Senior Class Book Committee; Class Day Committee; Scabbard and Blade, Cotillion, Chi Psi.

BORN with the good Scotch name of Ferguson, it would be natural to expect the proverbial thrift and canny closeness of the Scot. In a way he shows the traits of this race, but in another he belies them. The Interfraternity Council and the Class of '23 saw fit to intrust their budgets to his keeping and for both he proved an efficient and faithful treasurer.

Frank came here from his home in Washington, D. C., a product of the Central High School of that city, where he received the rudiments of military work and an ambition to go to West Point. Thwarted in that ambition by one credit hour he refused a scholarship to Lafayette and entered Lehigh as an embryo electrical engineer. To soothe his pride he embarked upon military work at Lehigh and helped in the reviving of the Rifle Team which has been most successful during the last two years.

"Yes, I'll do it."

EDWIN ALDEN FERRIS
Ridgefield Park, N. J.

"Alden" "Ed" "Ferry"

M.E.; Deutcher Verein (3, 4); Mechanical Society, Secretary (4).

FINALLY discovered! An engineer with such a repertoire of quotations and excerpts from Shakespeare, Milton, Shelley, Keats, etc., as to make Professor Thayer envious. Was it that this lad acquired this extensive knowledge by constant attendance at the "uproar", or by diligent application to the works of these authors? His memory in this respect is so remarkable that we never go to the Grand, but instead permit Alden to retail the jokes and a description of the actresses—the latter being very accurate, if not entirely complimentary.

We are ignorant of the horoscope of March, but it evidently includes chronic constitutional inertia. Some of his course professors insist that notwithstanding his A's and B's, the traditional laziness of one Jack Ogburn is far overshadowed by the shiftlessness of our Alden.

His cherubic countenance successfully conceals any intelligence which he may possess; he is a modest youth, admitting that some of the profs are wiser than he.

"That's a good point, too."

CYRIL HUGHES FOOT
Westfield, N. J.

"Footy" "Cereal"

M.E.; Mechanical Society.

HIS classmate above portrayed, away back in 1919, discovered that the preparatory learning he absorbed at the Westfield High School and Rutgers did not satisfy his mental appetite, so he enlisted in the ranks of the Mechanical Engineers at Lehigh.

Foot has convinced everyone of us that he should be an Arctic explorer. By sheer, warm-hearted personality, he has furnished an infallible means of identifying him at a distance. Go up on the campus any day when a sixty-mile gale is blowing, the ground covered with ice and the thermometer hovering around zero (B-r-r-r.), and if you see a tall figure minus hat or overcoat—it is he. Such clothing appendages he apparently lists in the category with rattlesnakes.

Cyril, when motoring or swimming, displays a passion for chess and checkers that threatens to bury all his other ambitions—but his friends hope for the best.

His cheery manner and good nature are pretty well known. He has proved to be a dependable sort of chap, always ready to lend a helping hand if needed—or not.

"When do we eat?"

CHARLES DAVID FORNEY
Hanover, Pa.

"Charlie" "Ignatz"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Inkwell.

ON the seventh of May, 1901, Charlie's Dad went around the village passing out the proverbial stogie and saying with that well known smile, "It's a boy."

Twenty-three years later Charlie strolled around the same old hamlet handing out some of the same old stogies but singing a different tune—"Boys, I've graduated." Well may Charlie celebrate, for like St. George of old, he has, after several furious encounters, conquered the dragon—the redoubtable integral.

Charlie is quite the rage with the ladies. He claims that it's his lovely disposition, but we think that it's the marcel wave—or perhaps, "The Faint Moustache." One of our beloved Charlie's fair admirers has composed a little epic dedicated to his growing aspirations—"On His Lip Was a Faint Moustache."

Now even though Charlie is a young Romeo, he is a regular fellow, as you all know.

"What tha' Hell!"

CHARLES FLETCHER FORSTALL
Rosemont, Pa.

"Charlie"

C.E.; Associate Editor of "Brown and White" (1, 2, 3, 4); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Senior Class Book Committee; Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (1); Arcadia (4); Pi Delta Epsilon; Delta Upsilon.

WHEN LL Lehigh stood aghast one fair autumn day in September, 1919, when Charles Fletcher, he of the same line of Forstalls which have been the pride of the student body and the despair of the imparters of wisdom in Coppee Hall, alighted from a Rosemont special and started his ascension of Lehigh's rocky rapids. Guided by his brother's example, Charlie undertook to display his literary ability in the columns of that famous sheet, the "Brown and White." His astounding success along this line is self-evident when reading the meaty columns of that college publication.

C. F. also has aspirations along the lines of civil engineering and after the proud recipient of a sheepskin sometime in the indefinite future, plans to astound the world in general, and Baldy and the U. G. I. in particular. His tousled locks have been a fixture for the past four years within the dark recesses of Packer Hall, and it is with deep regret that we bid him Godspeed into the business world.

"Son of a gun!"

MELVIN RONSHEIM FULD
Baltimore, Md.

"Mel" "Fuldie"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Menorah Society, Treasurer (4); Phi Alpha.

WHEN the northbound from Philadelphia "dumped" a long lean Baltimorean on our fair city, Fate dealt Mel Fuld another hand. In spite of two years spent elsewhere, our budding E.E. adapted himself readily.

As is common to all great men, Mel had a weakness—women. It later proved a habit. He engineered thru many a paramour with the dangerous sex skillfully, only to be ensnared in a net of his own making—an honest-to-goodness Romance with a demure little college student.

On many an evening did Mel leave a half finished "station" to its fate—bring forth the trusty Shinola—and soon was he speeding forth on ye famous Bethlehem Rapid(?) Transit-Allentown-ward.

Destiny, that master gambler, may misdeal but if the "Law of Averages" holds true Baltimore of the future will boast proudly—not of its Poe, of the Raven fame, but of its native son, the creator of 100 per cent. efficiency—Melvin Fuld!

"Preliminary or design?"

THOMAS VINCENT GANEY
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Tom" "Dabz" "Vicious"

Bus. Ad; Baseball Squad (1, 2, 4); Soccer Squad (1); Class Baseball (1, 2).

THOMAS, "The Vicious," came to us the pure and unadulterated youth, being the kind we always welcome with open arms.

Being preceded by other members of the family, each surpassing the former's achievements we looked for Dabz to reach unsurmountable heights. Tom progressed, but "alas," the home town did likewise, and the Colosseum, Mealley's and too rapid acquaintance with the fairest and ficklest of the weaker sex was an obstacle in the pursuit of his education. Thus time soon found him on the waiting list for re-entrance.

But failure was to him as to many others, an incentive to bring out what is really within, and we soon found with his jovial disposition, and optimistic view of life, back in the fold, and up with the leaders in preparing for the big problems of life.

With his abilities and his ever increasing knowledge, his able information on any subject, person or fair one, we look for big revelations in the social and economical secrets of our humble, but clean and beautiful city.

"New stuff in town."

MEYER ISADORE GARBER
Norristown, Pa.

"Mike"

Ch.E.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4); Class Baseball (1, 2); Sigma Alpha Mu.

ABSORBED one day in an experiment with that elusive metal, quick-silver, the high school lad accidentally spilled some on a penny. Before the boy's amazed eyes this coin was transformed into a bright, shiny silver piece. It was then and there that a Ch.E.'s fate was decided on.

When Mike left his home, famed as an abode of the dementia precox, Norristown felt its loss keenly. However, her loss was our gain, for Mike's sunny smile and jovial disposition were a never-ending comfort.

The Junior year saw a complete metamorphosis. Then began a continual whirl with our hero as the vortex. Inspiration led to hurried flights to Easton which resulted in much perspiration in June. Despite these activities, Mike managed to keep his head above water and the Senior year found him batting .300.

To one of Mike's personality, fate holds no terrors in store. Using the words of a great Corsican, "Circumstances shall not mould him, he'll make circumstance."

"After today, I'll get down to work."

JULIAN WASHINGTON GARDY
Doylestown, Pa.

"Judy" "Grady" "Wash"

Bus. Ad.; Editor-in-Chief of "1923 Epitome"; Managing Editor of "Brown and White" (4), Assistant Editor (3), Associate Editor (1, 2); Editor of the Senior Class Book; Mustard and Cheese (2, 3, 4), Variety Shows (1, 2); President of the Lehigh Press Club (3, 4); Class Historian (3); Calculus Cremation (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); President of St. Paul's Society (4), Secretary-Treasurer (3); Arts and Science Club; Class Baseball (1); Pi Delta Epsilon, President, Vice-President; Cvanide; Sword and Crescent; Alpha Chi Rho.

DEAR reader, before going further into this article glance at the face depicted above. It is Judy himself. Many persons have accused him of having Harold Lloyd pose for this picture, but the publishers of this volume wish to deny that fact. It is Judy.

Judy takes great delight in bridge especially if he is allowed to score; but unlike Elwell, he often plays with only five cards—"How many did you take?" He also dances, sings and tells jokes at the least excuse, and when he isn't doing any of the above, he studies.

"That's just your opinion."

HENRY WERNER GENTZLINGER
New York, N. Y.

"Happy" "Hap"

C.E.; Civil Society; Class Football (1); Class Basketball (1).

AT a recent meeting of the directors of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, it was voted that Henry W. Gentzlinger (commonly known as Happy on account of his morose disposition) be retained to advise them in weighty questions concerning the financing of the organization. But in view of the fact that he was already in the stock business (handling stock of a different nature) he was force to decline the generous offer.

But let us look backward a few years and we see Happy seated among his toys, building with childish ingenuity and delight all manner of structures; so it was then and there that his interests were directed along construction lines. Starting at Stuyvesant High and finishing at Hamilton Institute, Hap prepared for Lehigh and September of '19 marked his entrance to our midst.

His four years have been spent between trying to catch the 11:06 Saturdays and making up sleep lost by his weekly return on the "bummer."

But Happy has shown the stuff and we will hear more of him.

"Hey! You comin' in?"

DAVID GETZ
Allentown, Pa.

"Dave" "King"

B.A.; Junior Oratorical Contest, First Prize; Deutcher Verein (3, 4); Menorah Society; Arts and Science Club; Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (2); Sigma Alpha Mu.

ON a bright September morn, during the memorable fall of '19, a weary vagabond stepped off the eastbound sleeper, shook the cement dust off of his Stetson—and there the metamorphosis of a Lehigh student began. Although Northampton was a neutral nation during the war, Dave's fighting spirit could not be quenched and he enlisted at once in the R. O. T. C. As a soldier, Dave could talk the enemy out of many a battle, and even "talked" the judges into awarding first prize in the Junior Oratorical Contest.

Ever since he assumed the haughty air of a Senior, his orbs were fondly fixed on the "Seats of the Mighty," in the legal field. With further training, which the "King" intends to acquire at fair Harvard, in the art of "dishing out advice" (at so much per dish!), our noble knight should climb to heights. And unless Fate should hand him the proverbial "raw deal," future law students will be heard to quote: "According to Getz——"

"Well, what's new?"

HARRY DAVID GIHON, JR.
Trenton, N. J.

"Harry"

M.E.; Manager of Baseball (4), Assistant Manager (3); Varsity Wrestling (2, 3, 4); Class Vice-President (4); Chairman of College Dance Committee (4); Junior Prom Committee; Kappa Beta Phi, Cotillion, Cyanide, Sword and Crescent, President; Kappa Alpha.

BORN in Trenton, N. J., on September 23, 1901. Went to public schools and graduated from T. H. S. in 1918. Took a general rest in the name of a Post Graduate course at T. H. S. because I did not have enough credits to enter a Lehigh engineering course. (Had I only been wise enough to change my plans and take a B.A.!) Entered college innocent and unsophisticated—Lehigh did the rest."

Such is the tale told by our dear friend, Harry Gihon (picture above).

It can be seen by the above resume given by Harry himself that he is just a little bashful in telling of his achievements. His talents lay on the mat and he puts in three excellent years as Lehigh's representative in the 135-pound class. Aside from this, and guiding the baseball team through a successful season, Harry picked up a number of honors in the social way.

"You can't bend that."

KENNETH WILLIAM GREEN
Weissport, Pa.

"Kilowatt" "Greeny"

E.E.

RESH from Lehighton High, and even as his name, Greeny first startled us by finding his Math assignment "worry difficult!" His previous history is a closed book, but he appears to have had a bad start. However, under the guiding influence of the University, Kenneth became quite regular, parted his hair in the middle, and had the Grand on his roster card by the second term.

The Electrical Department always has been interested in mysteries, so naturally began to study this tall, quiet, athletic appearing student who gave them such peculiar surprises. However, it took them three years to learn as we did in one that Green, tho naturally bright, has ideals, and that "course crabbers" are not among these. He absolutely despises such beings, and as a margin of safety, always remains a week or two behind in his work.

His potential energy, both mental and physical, is tremendous, having lain dormant for so many years. Occasionally, he makes a slip and reveals that mental energy, making the prof gasp. In the years to come we expect a crash—the dam to give way—and Green come thru in a cloud of "dust," having left them all behind.

"I guess I'll start to study once."

JOSEPH COBLENTZ GROFF
New York, N. Y.

"J. C." "Josie"

N.E.; Varsity Cross Country (4); Track Squad (3); Naval Society.

WHEN Coblenz stepped from the Black Diamond one sunny day in September, he announced to the college: "I'm from little old New York." So great was his disappointment at the empty night life of Bethlehem, that he tried to find in Hamilton street a substitute for the Great White Way. He soon tired of this gay life, however, and buckled down to the study of his beloved Diesel engines—for, lo and behold, Josie was none other than a Mechanical Engineer.

His heretofor fruitless search after romance led him to try the sea. Perhaps it was romance that he sought. One summer's voyage sufficed to convince him that his life's work was to be before the mast. Upon returning to college, he left the M. E.'s to their own futile devices and joined the ranks of the Navals.

Josie's second voyage took him across the equator to South America, which accomplishment made him a member of the Order of Neptune's Sons. Although his land-lubber activities have necessarily been curtailed, he has found time to join the 'hill and dalers,' where he has learned to climb mountains as well as masts

"Let's go, gang!"

ROBERT FROST HACKER
Toledo, Ohio.

"Bob" "Hack"

E.M.; Mining Society, Vice-President (4).

FP. T. BARNUM had seen Bob climb out of his sleeping bag with the old green bathing suit, his future would have been assured. Bob came to Lehigh under a big handicap, having started his babyhood days in Toledo and finishing them here. However, he has now passed the stage of puberty and become a man of the world, ready for anything but work.

Hack is a lucky chap, being a natural born sleeper and so he knew how to use all of his idle moments to the best advantage for loafing. At the same time, he managed to absorb facts about life that most college professors miss. The above statements, jokingly made, just go to prove that Bob was blessed with youth and enjoyed it, and by this time realizes that youth is the best asset to carry on the period of understanding.

Of course, every individual lacks something and in sizing up Bob we have been unable to find a trace of temper. This, however, should prove valuable in later life, when as an E.M., he will have to struggle with belligerent "hunkies."

"By George!"

EDWARD ALLEN HAGENBUCH,
JR.

Allentown, Pa.

"Hagie" "Dad"

E.E.; Electrical Society; Tennis Squad (2); Allen-Lehigh Club.

ON every school day of the week, Hagie generously sacrifices a part of his time to go to school, and keep his classmates in good cheer. That he succeeds in doing this is mostly appreciated by those with whom he comes in contact. Blanky naturally goes into hysterics while even the stern Regal responds with explosive sounds. The force which produces effects as these, such a profuse and spontaneous origin of wit, is truly singular.

There is something unfortunate about all this, however, and that is the apparent delusion suffered by the professors concerning Hagie's purpose at college. They insist that the influences of the Territorial Brigade of the Lehigh Valley, with headquarters at Drown Hall, are ruining his plans.

However, in spite of the fact that he chokes on his watts and joules occasionally, Hagie tells us that he is determined to become a real engineer. If this is so, we are confident that he will succeed, and we wish him the best of luck.

"What tha' HELL!"

RALPH ALONZO HALES
Washington, D. C.

"Ralph"

Ch.E.; Chemical Society, Rifle Team (4).

RALONZO, after graduating from Central High, Washington, D. C., and chasing balances up and down accounting columns in a bank, decided to dodge Frosh regulations at Lehigh by attending George Washington University for a year. For Hales had decided that he would rather follow the trail of the elusive atom, ion or electron (he wasn't particular which) at Lehigh, than the aforesaid balances; and so reported for duty in the fall of '19. Always a good fellow, although a trifle "unconscious" to fall into the common phraseology, Ralph is never strong on studies until near the brink—then he shows what he can do and easily passes out of danger.

And he still has time for the ladies altho it is now said among those in the "know" that Hales has finally met his Waterloo—and is as good as through with the wild life.

However, the best Chemists should keep awake night and day—for when Ralph gets started, Lehigh's reputation will receive a real boost we feel certain, and our best wishes accompany him.

"Sixty days!"

ERWIN CASPAR HANDWERK
Slatedale, Pa.

"Handy" "Pick"

E.M.; Mining Society; Inkwell.

HANDY—as he is called for more than one reason, and especially for the "dope" he is willing to give out before a mining quiz—hails from some hamlet up the river known as Slatedale, and whatever good came from that place is yet to be uncovered.

Handy entered Lehigh with the class of '22 and often tells of the happy times (?) during the S. A. T. C. regime. During his first two years here he studied to be a doctor. But, loving to romp about in a blue flannel shirt and corduroy trousers, he, in his third year, joined the ranks of the unsophisticated miners. By changing his course he was unable to graduate with the Class of '22, and so decided to be a loyal '23 man, which he has been. When he is not writing letters to someone in Pittsburgh, he studies a nasty book and is one of Skipper's leading proteges.

His cheerful disposition and good fellowship have won him many lasting friends. These assets, together with his ability, should bring him the success we hope will be his.

"Broke again!"

EDWARD HARDCASTLE
Easton, Md.

"Hardy" "Ed"

E.E.; Mustard and Cheese (2, 3, 4); Electrician (3, 4); Lehigh-Maryland Club, President (4).

EFIERY adding machine appeared in the heavens when this Maryland turkey was hatched. To many astronomers and seers (if no roebucks), this augured a life that would present a fairly reliable total. The three witches, Hart, Schaftner and Marx, attended the bird's christening. He received a burr enclosing the seed of humor, a tonsil containing a beautiful singing voice, and a gate (to the primrose path). The tonsil he lost, and he declares he NEVER got the gate. He also drew the monaker. "E. Hardcastle." The E stands for egg, electrical engineer, and everything.

He spent his infancy in childhood and his adolescence in growing up. A victim of the college virus through heredity, he suffered a violent attack of Lehigh, which he entered when no one was looking. He was allowed to remain, however, as an exponent of the proverb—"The hand that rules the switchboard is the hand that wrecks the shows." (Some authorities claim the final words should be "shows the wrecks.")

"Good night!"

LINUS KENNETH HARKINS
Homestead, Pa.

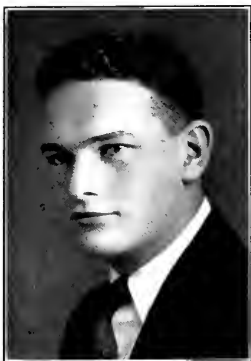

"Ken" "Harky" "Cy"

B.A.; Arts and Science Club, Vice-President (4).

IT is almost inconceivable—such a complexion, such a smile—from the vicinity of Pittsburgh! Cy, during his youth, has spent so much time in removing foreign matter from his finely moulded physiognomy that he has formed a habit of washing his neck daily, always appearing in society bright and cheerful. In short, he is the model youth. It has been rumored that he is to accept a position as a model for Arrow collar advertisements.

Rather by force of personality than by actual weight of grey matter, did he win first honors in his H. S. course. Although neither of these two forces seemed to impress the math. department very favorably, they have reacted with the professors in the Arts course and as a result we have another promising young professor keenly interested in the future youth of the land. Indeed, he has already started on the career before him, and since some of the individuals under his tutelage in the local H. S. are not what may be termed youthful, we are led to believe that his interest in them has been more than academic.

"My Ma Won't Let Me!"

PHILIP HALSTEAD HARTUNG
Yonkers, N. Y.

"Phil" "I-Beam"

M.E.; Varsity Basketball (2, 3, 4); Freshman French Prize; Class Football (1); Class Basketball (1); Varsity Club; Tau Beta Pi; Psi Upsilon.

PHILIP is one of those quiet boys, but when you know him—oh, my! "Dear Friend—I hope you won't think me forward, but—," etc. Nevertheless, during his four years stay with us, Phil has shown us that he knows his "stuff," and as a consequence dangles that good key from his watch chain. But aside from being one of those "good mechanicals," he has shown his ability on the basketball court and guards the basket as one would their last quart.

Phil is in his element just before exams. He can be seen almost any night as tutor to those "good mechanicals" (mentioned before), and the "dops" that he hands out must be good, because the boys surely come through.

"That good-looking boy with the dark, curly hair" has been a success here, both scholastically and athletically, and we wish him all the luck in the world. He has a line and the material to back it up, why shouldn't he be a success, I ask you?

"You can do that 'n' ways."

ADAM EDWARD HAUCK
Buffalo, N. Y.

"Adam" "Dietz"

E.M.; Mining Society.

MUCH as we hate to expose family skeletons, we cannot entirely forgive the fact that Adam graduated from Lafayette High. But since coming to Lehigh he has done his best to live it down.

No one knows why he chose the mining course, but we suspect that his determination to get to the bottom of things had something to do with it. Adam might be called the gentleman miner. Aside from his skill with the geological hammer, his fingers are also attuned to the more delicate pounding of the ivories.

Although never a bear with the women, it is rumored that during his Sophomore year, he received amorous epistles from the fair sex all over the country, clamoring for his photo and a permanent place on his mailing list, but Adam was obdurate, rebuffing them all.

With the brutal roughness gained on the summer mining trip and sangfroid acquired around the bridge table, we feel that he can now meet the rigid requirements of his calling, and as his name indicates, be among the first.

"Snap out of it!"

GEORGE CONRAD HEIKES

Salt Lake City, Utah

"George" "Bartender"

B.A.; Assistant Manager of Wrestling (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Interfraternity Council (4); Class Secretary (4); Cyanide; Phi Gamma Delta.

THERE might be some truth in the statement that "A rolling stone gathers no moss," but the entry of Bartender Heikes into South Bethlehem four years ago proves the exception. George came to us from Salt Lake High, Culver and Mercersburg with an over supply of moss on the chin.

Since that date, however, George blossomed forth in as much as a fortune teller had told him he was to find his better half in his Sophomore year, and he thought he could get in a few previous licks.

Bartender is not what you might call a night-owl, but you can't miss him when he steps out. When he gets that old Western grin on and tears around the campus with his hands in his hip pockets, "there ain't nobody" that don't say, "There goes a boy with the old Lehigh pep!"

We can prophesize for George a career which is to be envied and on him place our hopes for the civilization of the Western Prairies.

"Holy Smokes!"

ALFRED GEORGE HEWITT

Washington, D. C.

"Al" "Silver"

Ch.E.; Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4).

HIS young "atom-chaser" from Washington first entered Lehigh with the class of '22.

During his Freshman, Sophomore and up to the latter part of his Junior year, Al was a conscientious and dignified student, but at the close of his third year an accident occurred which greatly changed his mode of life. This happened while playing lacrosse when Al stopped a stick with his head. This crack on the head was responsible for his dropping back to the class of '23, and also resulted in his changing from a woman hater to a man very popular among the fair sex.

This young chemist aside from being a lacrosse enthusiast is also very fond of playing practical jokes on his friends—such as putting ammonium valerate in their shoes. (Editor's note: Ammonium valerate is no close relation to attar of roses.) Al has played many other jokes of quite a novel variety. If, after graduation, he pays as much attention to his work as he does to his jokes we predict a very prosperous future for him.

"Hello, old dear!"

ALBERT WILLET HICKS, JR.
Allentown, Pa.

"Kewp"

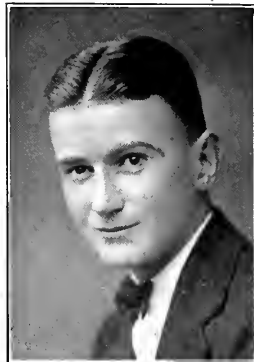

E.M.; Associate Editor of Brown and White (2, 3, 4); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Calculus Creation (2); Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (1); Manager of Lacrosse (4); Assistant Manager (3); Class Historian (4); Arcadia (3, 4), President (4); Chairman of College Dance Committee (3); Cotillion, Phi Club, Scimitar, Kappa Beta Phi, Varsity Club, Pi Delta Epsilon, Cyanide, President; Sword and Crescent, Theta Delta Chi.

HIS professional student entered Lehigh long enough ago to be classed among her present trustees, but his love for study has held him with us. Some say that he would rather attend college than work while others claim "c'est la guerre."

To see him parading around the campus one would think he had the world on his shoulders, except when he lets others carry it for a while. It's a mean job to please both faculty and students, for the faculty have such queer ideas on how to run a college.

Taking him as he is, cosmetic hair comb, et al., Kewp is a good man to have as a classmate and a better man to have as a friend, for the longer you know him the better you like him. In other words, "he wears well."

"What's the dope?"

ADAM HANNAN HITCHNER
Woodbury, N. J.

"Hitch" "Ad"

E.M.; Mining Society, Class Basket Ball (1); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4).

SOMEWHERE in New Jersey there is a village similar to Friedensville. This village goes by the name of Woodbury. Looking around for material of an educational nature—they selected our friend Hitch and shipped him to Lehigh. So far, he has made out fairly well—having forgotten most of his backwoods habits and also taken off some of the rough edges. However, he still retains some of his old farm habits—notable among which is hitting the hay at early hours and dragging out at 5 A. M. Maybe this is due to his extended Chemical courses.

Ad made his advent to Lehigh from that little country school in that town which becomes apparent just as soon as the train force hitches that standing freight car and pulls it away. You've seen those towns, haven't you? But that is nothing against our loyal friend, who has pursued his knowledge under the able guidance of Skipper and will come out all right. We predict that Hitch will come across with some notable accomplishment some day.

"Holy Gee!"

WILLIAM MASON HOKE
Lebanon, Pa.

"Bill" "Willie"

M.E.; Student Officer, R. O. T. C.
(3, 4); Member of A. I. E. E.

WILLIAM MASON HOKE, better known as Bill, or Willie, was born in Lebanon, Pa., Feb. 15, 1901. The date and the place are absolutely correct, but the "why" has never been determined. However, William Mason Hoke arrived at the right time, for just as the age of Scientific Management was developing, a master in this field was born. Willie is the original efficiency expert; that is, he gets the greatest results with the least possible exertion. Extreme emphasis on the "least possible exertion."

Willie's tender years were spent entirely in the town of his birth under the protection of his mother's wing until the day he left the old home to come to Lehigh. As a result, we find Willie a deliciously shy and bashful little boy. However, there may be another reason assigned for Willie's bashfulness.

He is an ardent advocate of the idea that five minutes sleep at ten minutes of eight is better than a hearty breakfast. As a result, Willie hasn't eaten breakfast in four years.

"I got to bed at 3 o'clock last night."

LLOYD HORNBOSTEL
Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Horny" "Rumple"

M.E.; Mechanical Society, Secretary-Treasurer (3).

LOYD was undoubtedly an infant prodigy! The toys of an ordinary child appealed not at all. His model boats delighted crowds around the Central Park Reservoir, long before the horseless carriage claimed his attention. Finding New York schools unable to cope with his increasing ability, he came to the biblical city of Bethlehem. Here at Prep he proved his worth and industry, setting a pace which the other boys found difficult to follow. Naturally, Lloyd chose Lehigh as the next stepping stone to fame.

In Mechanical Engineering he found his forte. Even the ancient machine in Engine Lab seemed to regain their lost youth at his experienced touch. For three years, engineering claimed his full attention, with never a thought of the fair sex. But the inevitable finally happened, and fair science has at last taken second place. Davy's whistle is now sweeter music than the hum of a motor.

We predict, in closing, that some day they will both tour the country in the "Hornbostel Six," the car that will put Henry Ford out of business. (Northampton papers please copy.)

"Incidentally."

JAMES STEWART HUSTON
Coatesville, Pa.

"Stew" "Jimmie"

Met.; Mustard and Cheese (2, 3); Cotillion; Scimitar; Kappa Beta Phi; Delta Phi.

HATE, the army, and the desire to go to a real college threw our friend Jimmie into our midst. After a varied career at school and abroad (we hesitate to say it, but nevertheless we feel that the most interesting of Stew's adventures could be portrayed with gay Paris as a background) he came here, and Lehigh was fortunate in obtaining for her roll the illustrious name of James Stewart Huston.

Where he comes from really doesn't matter—in fact, we would rather pass it over—but if you must know, it's Coatesville; even that can be forgiven when we realize that out of the dust, smoke and noise of this steel town emerged our hero.

Stew's three and a half years at Lehigh have been crowded with many things. He has done well everything that he has set out to do. A quiet, reserved personality, coupled with a bulldog determination, have led him on to success. Those of us who know him best have no doubts concerning his future.

"You go to hell!"

CHARLES HENRY ISRAEL, JR.
Baltimore, Md.

"Charlie" "Ayzhrail"

Ch.E.; Managing Editor of the "Burr" (4); Associate Editor (2, 3); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Soccer Squad (1); Mustard & Cheese Variety Show (1); Interfraternity Council (3, 4); Student Officer R. O. T. C. (2); Chemical Society; Cotillion; Scimitar; Pi Delta Epsilon; Alpha Chi Rho.

CHARLIE ISRAEL came to Lehigh in the fall of 1919 from that famous city of Harrisburg with the full intentions of becoming a Chemical Engineer. Since that time Charlie has found his home in so many cities that it is hard to tell where he is actually from. At the present writing he gives his address as Baltimore, but all his friends are inclined to believe that his real residence is Germantown. At least, he spends the most of his time there.

It is this man's desire to be an Engineer. To be one of those men who get such a degree and then go into business requires a lot of work. Sometimes we wonder if it wouldn't be better to take a soft course like B.A. and then go into business from it. My, what a lot of work it would save! But Charlie has stuck to his work and we have high hopes for him.

"Lissen! I'll tell you—"

LOUIS JOHN JACOBSON
Washington, D. C.

"Jake" "Lou"

C.E.; Class Basketball (1).

WHAT'S that bang we hear outside? Surely it's not Hughy's tin lizzie colliding with the rear of the dormitories? "Fear not," says Jack, "it's only Jake tripping along in the hallway."

What! you don't know Jake? Well, let us enlighten you. Jake is our little boy blue of Section "C," not so little, nor yet so blue, but still he is our boy. Colossal of frame and gigantic of feet, and the childlike mind of innocence, are his chief outward characteristics. It's a treat to see him in his element, namely a "contest." A vocabulary that would make the proverbial trooper blush with shame and an incessant desire to raise hell are his most deadly weapons; but mention must be made of his odoriferous Dunhills going full blast.

St. Louis proved too wild and uncultured for Jake early in his youth, thereupon he shipped to Washington, D. C. Western High prepared him for Lehigh, where, after tangling horns with Fogg and his tribe for four years, Jake has at last learned to draw shear and moment diagrams for the loads on his heart.

"You confounded—!"

BYRON ALBERT CHAPMAN
JOHNSTON

Staten Island, N. Y.

"Johnny" "By"

E.M.; Art Staff of Burr (1, 2, 3, 4), Art Editor (4); Art Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Varsity Lacrosse (1); Scabbard and Blade; Pi Delta Epsilon; Secretary (4); Delta Phi (Gamma).

JOHNNY began his search for higher knowledge at New York University in 1916, expecting to follow medicine, but something or other that Kaiser Bill did got under his hide and he decided to attend to that before he did anything else.

In the fall of 1919, Johnny decided that it was engineering that he wanted and enrolled at Lehigh.

By has been invaluable to the college publications by his excellent work with the drawing pen and paint brush. He has held the position of Art Editor on the "1923 Epitome" and the "Burr," and his contributions have added much to the appearance of these journals.

Something of the wanderlust flows in By's veins and his restless spirit and longing for new scenes has often led him afar. But whether by the pen or the miner's sturdy pick he makes his way, he will meet success we are sure.

"I don't think so."

SAMUEL LAWRENCE KAMAN
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Sammy"

B.A.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4);
Pre-Medical Society.

IN the early fall of twenty, on a bright summer's day, Samuel Kaman bade good-bye to the romantic life of Greenwich Village to carry on his follies at Lehigh University. Dear Sammy came from Columbia University, where he spent his freshman year. The first of his peaceful years of unbroken rest was passed in Hall de Taylor, Section "B." For the last two years of his University life he chose as his place of abiding Section "E." 'Twas here that the corridors echoed and re-echoed with the melodious strains of Sammy's songs, which attracted no small amount of attention—and other things. At seven bells comes the nightly call, "Whose goin' to da movies?" If no voices cleave the still night air, loving Sam takes the steep and narrow path to squander another twenty-eight cents.

Sammy is our prize. His greatest ambition is to become an M. D. We feel quite sure and positively safe to say that Sam will be a better poison mixer than a surgeon, as his countenance foretells. Sammy is a beast with sharp instruments.

"Let's go!"

JAMES DOUGLAS KENNEDY
North Adams, Mass.

"Jim" "Ken" "Doug"

B.A.; Manager of Track (4), Assistant Manager (3); Arts and Science Club; Varsity Club; Kappa Beta Phi, Cotillion, Sigma Nu.

A TRUE son of the "Bay State," Jim's congenial personality extends to everyone he meets.

The "Sheik of North Adams" is the idol of a certain girl's school, and he manages to entice a few free meals from them during the school year.

During the course of an active four-year terpsichorean campaign, Jim managed the track team to perfection and even took them, on one occasion, sight-seeing in New York.

A member of "Quo Vadis" can hardly vie with Jim in the "hobo" line—who can travel to Vermont and back on seven cents(?).

During his four years on the campus, through his cheery disposition, Jim has made many friends, who wish him all the luck possible.

Anybody want anything in the store?

JACK KAUFMAN KILLMER Wyomissing, Pa.

"Jack" "Empty"

Met.; Met. Society, President (4); Berks-Lehigh Club, President (4); Interfraternity Council (4); Delta Upsilon.

OF course, you never heard of Wyomissing,—there is no reason why you should have. But just be patient a few years till Jack sets his teeth into one of the flourishing enterprises of that region and shows some of those robbers how to get rich quick without bootlegging.

Jack came to Lehigh from the above-mentioned suburb five years ago and was just about as "dutch and dumb" as most of the Reading suburbanites. However, he soon distinguished himself in the eyes of his classmates by showing them that it does not require a whole year to find out what it is all about.

Of his power over the fair sex, we have all learned to our sorrow; but it is rumored that he has at last ceased his heartless conquest of the many and beautiful and is now directing his charms upon just one of them.

We have no fear for Jack's success in future years, but wish him the best of luck in years to come.

"Hold everything!"

CHARLES GOTTHILF KNODEL
Allentown, Pa.

"Charlie" "Chas"

M.E.; Mechanical Society; Deutscher Verein; Allen-Lehigh Club.

CHARLIE was, without asking, hither hurried into this universe on the 24th of May, 1901, in the month of flowers, you'll notice. What trials and tribulations were his during the first few years of his existence is a matter of conjecture, as our modest hero is always silent concerning his past.

He prepared for Lehigh at the Allentown High School, where he made an enviable record because of his personality and industry. Living within a few miles of the University, one would expect it to be a comparatively simple matter to get to the scene of his arduous daily labors, but certainly this is a case of "so near and yet so far." He has estimated that he has traveled about eleven thousand miles in his four years for the much-desired "higher" (?) education.

He is not an exponent of the age-old adage, "Once a Lehigh man, always a boiler maker"; he is still un-sullied by the touch of a sordid world. Because of his even disposition, good nature, and industry,—his success in the world is both deserved and sure. We all hope he "gets the breaks."

"Wait a minute!"

GEORGE SCHNEIDER KOCH
Washington, D. C.

"George"

E.E.; Combined Musical Clubs, President (4); Scabbard and Blade.

IKE that other great Missourian, General Pershing, the subject of our sketch, George S. Koch, immediately upon attaining the age of discernment shook the dust of his native town, Kansas City, from his feet and made hasty tracks for pastures new.

History next records our hero meandering among the mazes of tropic foliage at Panama, where he remained until completely satisfied that Goethals had made a success of the construction of the Panama Canal.

San Francisco was still extant despite earthquakes and fires and the newspapers indicated that a World's Fair was in progress near the Golden Gate. He settled there long enough to be graduated from Ward School, and having temporarily absorbed all the knowledge then existent in his immediate vicinity, he counselled his family to go with him to Alaska, where he staved a few years.

No new construction projects being under way, either in the tropics or the arctics, Koch felt at liberty to devote at least four years to theoretical studies. So to Lehigh he came.

"It all depends on your point of view."

WALTER MERRITT KOCHER
Allentown, Pa.

"Walt"

C. E.; Civil Society; Second Honors in Mathematics.

WALT began his career at Lehigh in 1914. During the second term of his first year, Walter let the balmy spring air get the best of him and he began substituting matinees or hikes down the river for his afternoon classes. However, Thorny did not approve of this schedule so our hero decided to try his luck with the Bethlehem Steel Company at the end of his Freshman year. After two years of good experience there, Walt, craving for more excitement, enlisted in the Army. Having spent several years in the service he came back to Bethlehem, where he heard of the illustrious class of 1923. Filled with new ambition, Walter determined to join our ranks and February found him plodding up the hill with the rest of us. That he came back for a purpose was evidenced by his conscientious work and untiring effort in whatever he undertook.

Walter's ability to adapt himself to all situations leads us to believe that he will be successful in whatever he undertakes.

"Can you fancy it?"

ALLAN REUEL KRAMER
Coplay, Pa.

"Charlie" "Child"

E.E.

COPLAY has turned out some fine specimens, but the one above is by far the finest that has ever rolled out of the little town along the Lehigh.

Allan admits that he has developed a personality, giving as proof his iconoclastic ideas on almost every subject. He accepts no axioms or hypotheses, calls our civilization a failure and demands one proof that we are living in the concrete world we think we do. Living or not, Allan knows that there are some things called women which he finds very pleasing. These he generally rounds up at Mealey's, at which place he is a regular attendant, but does not stick to this one city of Allentown, and is making a strong bid for one in every city.

Football was always Charlie's favorite game, so he believed in following the team. In the Colgate trip he displayed his one weakness, in that he was "socked for a dozen Sundays by the wink of an eye and the shake of a young shoulder."

Always a good student, however, so we can expect great things from Al in his after-college life.

"Have another"

WILBUR KRATZ
Baltimore, Md.

"Bill"

JUST twenty years ago Baltimore was awakened by a terrible yell. What? When? Why? Oh, it was nothing but Kratz, the old boy himself. Look above, folks, and you will see a quiet, unassuming young man of great intellect.

Kratz doesn't say much—but when he does—Mmm! He takes time to think out his little wise cracks and they all hit home. No, he is not a "course crabber," just does his work—and like all other B. P. I. boys he does it well.

You're all wrong. Kratz doesn't bother with the "wild wimmen," but then he doesn't go around with his eyes closed, either.

He is a great follower of the movies, and we are sad to say that the boy stepped out several times to shows when he should have studied. My, that will never do as our Lehigh Code of Honor is "Work before Pleasure"—always.

Kratz is so good that we really can't pan him, and here's wishing him lots of success in the years to come.

"What's the big idea?"

JOHN WERNER KREISEL
Pen Argyl, Pa.

"Jack" "Snappy"

B.A.; Band (3, 4); Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (3); Rifle Team (3); Arts and Science Club; Le Clube de Quinze; Deutscher Verein, President (4); Scabbard and Blade; Phi Beta Kappa.

FROM the slate mines of Pen Argyl comes this budding young genius. He took the honors at Lebanon H. S. without much trouble and has been holding his own ever since. Although he is making such a commendable record in his scholastic work, his nights are rarely taken up in this field of endeavor. It is reported that he is seen in the company of the weaker sex—and then—the phone calls—the sweet voices—all tend to support Dame Rumor.

He carries on his exploits not only in the parlor, but up on the firing line as well. As a member of the rifle team he helped to puncture the little black circles with fair regularity. In this his love of noise was brought to the fore and he soon looked for something more noisy. He immediately made application for the band. To say the least, he realized his fondest hopes.

"You guys don't know what you're talking about."

CHARLES HORNER KRESSLER
Finesville, N. J.

"Charlie" "Kres"

E.E.; Electrical Society.

CHARLIE is a product of the Phillipsburg High School, but was "bread and buttered" a few miles down the Delaware in the slumbering village of Finesville. Early in his youth, while watching the trolley cars, he wondered what made them go and decided to be an E. E. and find out. Just how well he has succeeded we all know, for Charlie studies a "mean" book. In his first year, little was seen or heard of him, but since becoming acquainted he is considered a "reg'lar guy" by the rest of the fellows.

Although he has not made his "M" at Mealey's nor his "C" at the Colly, he is considered an All-American parlor wrestler. Girls, you should see his blue eyes and curly hair.

With his quiet manner he has won many friends, not entirely amongst the males, but then the best of them fall sometimes, so we will not be surprised when the inevitable happens. However, seriously, we can only wish him the best of success in his chosen field, and know that if his work is as fruitful in the future as in the past, we need have no fears for the final result.

"Damn it!"

IRWIN FAUST KURTZ
Pottstown, Pa.

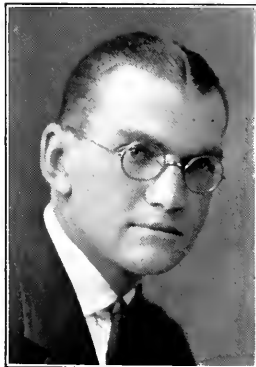

"Ivan" "Shorty"

C. E.; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Inkwell, President (4), Treasurer (3).

THE Hill School sends few of its sons to Lehigh, but quality takes the place of quantity. Irwin Kurtz is one of their representatives. Irwin and The Hill will always be associated as he is forever boasting of that wonderful academy of learning for what achievements no one can determine. Irwin has had a varied scholastic career at college. Starting in his Freshman year the examinations he took could be numbered on the fingers of one hand, but, unfortunately, the fair ladies of Allentown proved such a drawing card that in his Junior year the Faculty only allowed him to remain by the grace of God and by Irwin's reputation. He has reformed since then and now divides his time equally between his fair friends and his studies in Civil Engineering.

Irwin is one of the staunch supporters of the Y. M. C. A., being a cabinet member, and also an upholder of the Inkwell Club, which honored him with the presidency in his Senior year. He is a Civil and spent most of his college days in Packer Hall drawing imaginary bridges.

"Suffering cats; jumping rats!"

RICHARD KUTZLEB, JR.
Baltimore, Md.

"Dick" "Kutz"

M. E.; Varsity Lacrosse (3, 4), Lacrosse Squad (2); Varsity Club; Inkwell; Mechanical Society, Vice-President (4); Lehigh-Maryland Club, Vice-President (4); Theta Xi.

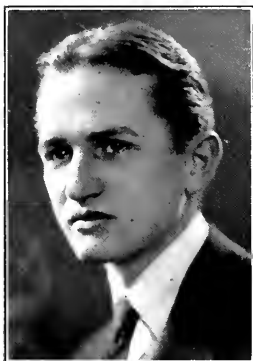

TAUSE here and observe the pride of Baltimore, the proud possessor of an angelic face which is a true mirror of his emotions. Dick came among us in the fall of '20 as a freshman in the Sophomore Class, having prepared at "Poly."

"Opportunity knocks but once," the saying goes, but friends knock continually, however, Dick put this fact to good use and soon learned to stop the shots so effectively that he decided to help Mr. Lehigh out in lacrosse, going out for goal and quickly becoming the "bull ——" of Lehigh's defense.

Dick takes two things seriously, Richard Kutzleb, Jr., and—(well, she is nice), but even at that it is a good thing that Thorny did not make the summer vacation any longer or perhaps he would be taking others seriously by this time.

Yes, Richard is the "bee's knees" with the fair sex, but even better with the gang.

"Well, I'll be damned!"

TILGHMAN ALBERT LAMBERT
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Till" "Tippy"

B.A.; Deutscher Verein (3, 4),
Treasurer (4).

TIPPY has led a tough life at Lehigh. Who wouldn't who had an uncle in the Math department and a father in the English department? It must be said, however, that he favors neither of these, his rather close relatives, for he never showed—according to one of his professors—any signs of "intellectual curiosity." This is probably due to two things,—a flivver and a pipe-organ. Between the two, Tippy finds little time for mental gymnastics. For example—he substituted Greek for Chemistry. Could any one call that a manifestation of good gray matter? As an organist, some say he has exceptional ability,—as a Ford mechanic, he thinks he is pretty good.

Lambert from his birth has had a checkered career—always on the move. He attended Grammar School in Soule Beslehem, high school in Lebanon and Allentown, and finally turned up at Lehigh. Here he got himself inveigled into the B.A. course. He hopes to be a Latin teacher some time. His professors think he had better stick to notes and carburetors.

"There's something rotten in Denmark."

SYLVESTER MAKENS LARKIN
Norristown, Pa.

"Pop" "Sylves"

C.E.; "Burr" (4); Wrestling Squad (2); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3, 4), Manager (3); Civil Society; Cottillion; Phi Club, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

SOME fellows start their college life quietly and end it with an unearthly bang. Our friend, Pop, familiarly, the Norristown Don Juan, started his college career by setting a pace difficult to maintain. Fearing that the Eighteenth Amendment really "meant it," he tried to hold all he could while the getting was easy. Pop discovered that the study of "places to get it" provided him with an overbalanced roster so he turned to study the fair sex to equalize his work.

After two major battles with the doctors and surgeons, which kept him out of college a year, he claims to have a "Million Dollar Stomach." Perhaps this is why the nurses treat him so carefully.

After Pop gets his "dip" he claims he is going to be a prohibition agent, but we are inclined to disbelieve this, as we know of a lady in his home town along the Schuylkill that is anxiously waiting(?). However, with his ready smile we know he will make good in any undertaking.

"Wonderful dance! Everybody drunk!"

WILLIAM MILLER LAUGHTON
Washington, D. C.

"Miller" "Sourballs"

Met.; Varsity Tennis (2, 3); Cross Country (1); Rifle Team (3); Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (4); Arcadia (3); Cotillion; Scabbard and Blade; Delta Tau Delta.

ONE of those persons who assumes a gruff exterior to the world and reserves only for intimates the real kindly nature beneath—such is Miller Laughton, beloved by his friends and respected by his enemies. All this is true, you should know, except possibly the part about the enemies. As we have expressed it, it would sound as if Miller was surrounded at all times by enemies, besieging him at his very door, in an effort to get one good punch at him. Such is not the case. It is a matter of trying to know Miller, rather than just knowing him. He is that type who spreads forth his all when he is approached in the right manner.

One hobby of Miller's was the R. O. T. C. During the final year here at Lehigh, he was a Lieutenant Colonel in the Lehigh outfit and received a great amount of respect from his men because of his ability in this kind of work.

"Nuts!"

JOHN LUTHER LEES
Hellertown, Pa.

"Johnny" "Speedy II"

C.E.; Varsity Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (3); Varsity Baseball (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (4); Football Squad (1, 2, 3); Class President (3, 4); Athletic Representative (2); Y. M. C. A. President (4), Secretary (3); Civil Society, Vice-President (3); Phi Club, President; Kappa Beta Phi; Varsity Club; Cyanide, Vice-President; Sword and Crescent; Theta Delta Chi.

IN that coal-black mountainous region of Mahanoy City, in upper Pennsylvania, we find the birthplace of this tall, handsome youth. Here he spent the first decade of his life, later making his home in Bethlehem near where he is still to be found, in Hellertown. Having prepared at Bethlehem High School and later at Bethlehem Prep, Johnnie entered Lehigh in 1919.

After looking over the list of degrees which would go well after his cognomen, Johnnie decided on M. E., but before two years passed he changed to C. E. and said portion of the alphabet he now carries. His career at Lehigh has been a most active one; a clever student, an all-around athlete and most popular among his fellow-students.

FRANK HENRY LEISTER, JR.
North Wales, Pa.

"Frank" "Kid"

C.E.; Cross Country (2, 3); Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Relay (2); Advertising Manager of the "Burr" (4); Business Staff (3); Class Secretary (3); Class Treasurer (4); Junior Banquet Committee; Interfraternity Council (3, 4); Editor of "Freshman Bible" (4); Pi Delta Epsilon; Tau Beta Pi, Vice-President; Theta Xi.

AFTER observing the difficulties under which the white-coated man with a broom labored in a one-horse town, Frank decided to learn something of the improved type of roadway and thus be a boon to humanity. Soon after his arrival at Lehigh, Frank proved that even country towns can produce some fast men by obtaining a berth on the varsity track team.

Not being satisfied with kicking cinders in slower men's faces, he began collecting "ads" and money for Lehigh's funny paper, gaining a permanent job in that line.

Frank's pleasing personality and ability to mix with men has carried him far in his activities here at Lehigh, and it is our sincerest wish that it will lead him to success in the future.

FREDERICK WILLIAM LEWIS
Pottsville, Pa.

"Fritz" "Whacker"

B.A.; Mustard and Cheese (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Musical Clubs, Assistant Manager; Wrestling Squad (1, 2); Cotillion, Phi Gamma Delta.

IT was a bleak and dreary day in March, 1900, which Fritz looked out upon when he first opened his eyes. Then he yelled. You ask why he yelled? Perhaps it was the nurse pinching one of his toes or else it was a pain in his "tummy," however, he yelled.

He has kept on yelling from that time to this, but the yell has been cultivated by one of Pottsville's greatest cornet players, with the result that Fred is now a "durn good tenor."

Fred came to Lehigh with the full intention of entering either the ministry or opening a combination pool room and banana stand, but after the first production of the Mustard and Cheese, in which he took the part of the heroine, he has decided to open the banana stand.

Fred is also an inventor of note. During his Sophomore year he invented a salt separator, at least one of his friends said he did, but as fate would have it, his wonderful invention was only a joke.

"No kidding!"

JOEL LONGENECKER LIGHT
Allentown, Pa.

"Joe" "Lidy"

E.M.; Class Football (1, 2); Mining Society.

THE Carlisle Indians may have their Jim Thorpe; Penn their Howard Berry; Cornell their Eddie Kaw, but Lehigh can boast of one greater than any of these—Joe Light, of the Allentown Queen City A. C. Unfortunately for us, Lafayette protested his eligibility and we never had a chance to circle the Lafayette ends bearing the Brown and White colors to victory.

Every time Coach Baldwin saw Joe in his football suit, he would sigh; for what couldn't Lehigh do with this mighty wizard of the gridiron in her backfield?

In the fall, week after week, thousands of Allentown admirers journeyed to see Joe perform his feats of wonder. For in the words of Cullen Cain, "He runs thru a broken field like a ghost." One day, while Joe was sitting on the sidelines with a broken thumb and the Frackville Tigers were leading, feminine voices were heard calling "We want our hero—Joe!" Cheers—more cheers—loud-er cheers!

"No; so good!"

FRANCIS JOSEPH LLOYD, JR.
Pocomoke City, Md.

"Spike" "Snipe"

C. E.; Arcadia (4); Civil Society; Phi Gamma Delta.

SPIKE'S a Southerner, this is the chief point to his credit. He came to us already versed in the whys and wherefores of a college, being a Bachelor of—we won't say what—anyway four years spent mostly at Goucher and the rest of the time at St. John's gave us Mr. Spike Lloyd, B. A., and look what's happened to him now, having gone through "Windy" Wilson's air battles; having told Thorny where to head in; and Baldy to go to—and stay put! He's a Civil Engineer! Rodgers and Hagerty have nothing on him for Spike darn near built the Hill-to-Hill Bridge this last summer, and if he hadn't New York on his mind all the time it might be finished now.

But Spike's not only a Civil Engineer of some kind of fame, he's a full-fledged lawyer. Just look at that judicial, what shall we call it, on his face and can you blame them for drawing his name out of the hat every time the honor court met. It was this chiefly that taught him how to cuss.

"For Pete's sake!"

FRIEND HORACE LODGE
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Senator" "Billy"

C.E.; Mustard and Cheese (1, 2, 3, 4), Property Man (3); Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Football Squad (4).

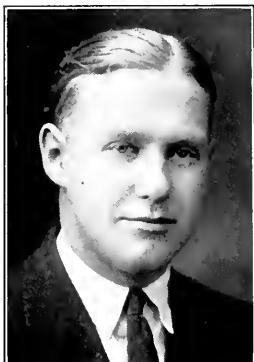

EENTER, the "Senator," from Philadelphia, Pa.

Lehigh and Clarence, a trifle fussed and awed, welcome the original of the above imposing picture to the steel city just four years ago. Heaven alone can forgive them for that rash act. And, in judgment, may it be remembered that they knew not what they did. The freshman could best tell. But freshmen, like the daisies, never tell. The "Senator" has them too well trained—the freshmen, not the daisies.

As a noted patron of the Bell Telephone Company, Friend has the "rep" of getting better service and cheaper rates than any other Lehigh stude. He is personally acquainted with ever so many fair members of the force. Q. E. D.

Although he's leaving the University with a C.E. degree, the qualifications of this worthy son of Lehigh are many, and we don't pretend to predict his future, other than that it will surely be successful. Mentioning success, that's him all over, Mabel.

"Ain't it the truth?"

GEORGE DARR MCCONNELL
Butler, Pa.

"Doads" "Mac"

Bus. Ad.; Junior Prom Committee, Interfraternity Council (4); Cotillion; Scimitar, Kappa Beta Phi; Theta Delta Chi.

SOME twenty-one years have passed ere this blonde, stalwart youth, of Scottish ancestry saw the light. This all happened in Sharon, Pa.

Graduating from Prep School in 1918, he had visions of becoming a soldier, but, being too young, they wouldn't favor him with a gun in the S. A. T. C. of Lehigh that year, so he returned to Bethlehem Prep to "crab" some courses. The following September he entered Lehigh as a Business man.

During the four necessary years in this course of study, Doads has been a source of information and owing to his genial lineage has often been the subject of discussion within the classroom walls. As a scholar he excells, and as to his social endeavors, "he's there." Many true friends has he made during his college career and their earnest wish to him now, as he ambles forth to revolutionize the business world, is that Dame Fortune will smile serenely upon this loyal Scot.

"I'll tell you——"

MICHAEL CHARLES McFADDEN
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Mike" "Mac"

Met.; Sigma Nu.

MAC is a product of Bethlehem Prep, at which place he was an honor student, receiving a scholarship to Lehigh in reward for his excellent work. On entering Lehigh he chose Metallurgy as his profession, "Good choice, Mac."

However, it seems that Mac did not consider his choice in a very good light and seemed to have an antipathy for anything and everything pertaining to Engineering. But yet after a hard struggle he has been successful at Lehigh, sometimes fighting against great odds but eventually coming out on top. He has that ability to stick with a thing even though his inner-self does revolt against it, and this is a most important asset to an Engineer.

Mac claims that when he is thru at Lehigh he is thru with Engineering. We hope not, for we know that he will make good on the outside as he did here at Lehigh. Good luck, Mac!

Where 'n'l's Roush?"

JOHN DOUGLAS McPHERSON, III
Fair Oaks, Cal.

"Mac" "John D."

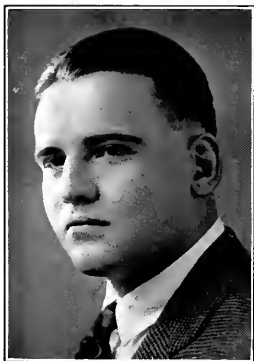

E.E.; Varsity Track (2, 3, 4); Rifle Team (3, 4); Varsity Club; Electrical Society, Inkwell.

JOHAN D. McPHERSON first came to light down in Jersey, later making his home in sunny California. Being the son of a Lehigh graduate, he naturally prepared to enter his father's Alma Mater. He completed his prep school education at Easton High, without becoming contaminated with Lafayette influence.

During the last four years, he has overcome the resistance of such well known opponents as Inty Calk, Annie Mack and other members of their tribe. Having finally convinced Bill Esty that he should be a volt-inducing engineer, his work here is finished. John D. leaves an excellent record on both the track and rifle range due to his steady and persistent efforts. In both activities his performance has been most admirable.

Mac has shown the sterling qualities of a real man and has indicated his natural enthusiasm and loyalty in everything he has done. To those who know him, he has proved to be a fine fellow and a worthy friend.

"Let's go!"

HARRY BENTON MECASLIN
Baltimore, Md.

"Bennie" "Mac"

E.E.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3); Lehigh-Maryland Club; Electrical Society; Kappa Sigma.

DEAR Ben,
You are deserving of something a little different than the ordinary biography so I am dashing off this little note to you in order that the world will know you better when they see you.

The one way ticket that you bought in Baltimore four years ago for Bethlehem, Pa., was the beginning of a career in applied engineering and women as offered by Lehigh University. You didn't take so well to the women at first, but after your fright wore off you passed the subject with ease. However, now that you've got your hours and you know women, you are about to step—or should I say—stagger out into the world upon life's newest ventures. In closing, Ben, old boy, let me say to the public (Ben, at this point close your eyes) in laying all fun aside, if you want a thing well done, don't do it yourself, as you have always heard, but rather—let Bennie do it.

Yours truly,
MR. LEHIGH.

"We fellows gotta stick together."

CHARLES HECK MILLER
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Charlie" "Heck"

Ch.E.; Honor man in English (1); Alumni Prize in English (1); Chandler Prize in Chemistry (2, 3); Junior Honors in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering; Alumni Prize in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering (3); Assistant Manager of Track (3); Arcadia (4); Secretary; College Secretary (4); Chemical Society, President (4); Vice-President (3); Y. M. C. A. Vice-President (4); Tablet Orator (4); Tau Beta Pi, Secretary; Phi Beta Kappa; Delta Tau Delta.

CHARLIE came to Lehigh after knocking all his studies at Wilkes-Barre High School for the proverbial "loop" and here sought new and harder fields to conquer. He not only sought and found said fields, but conquered them in a way to make anybody with any ambition at all, envious.

Nobody can help respect this man who has strived so thruout his four years to learn those things which can only be of lasting benefit.

With Charlie's ambition, energy, and willingness for any kind of work, we can see nothing which, in the future, will keep him from reaching the highest pinnacle of success in the business world—a success which is due only to a man of his calibre.

"Hell's fire!"

CHARLES RAYMOND MINNICH
Robeson, Pa.

"Dutch" "Pop"

C.E.; Phi Sigma Kappa.

THE gentleman from Indiana has nothing on this gentleman from Robeson. In the first place, we do not remember reading that the gentleman from Indiana used either hair curlers or hair restoratives. So much for differences to begin with. And then, too, that popular salutation, "Why all the gloom?" hurled at Minnich by his classmates on the campus is not known as a passage in the book in question.

Minnich is known among his classmates as a plugger, but not as a "grind." The fellows at the dorms respect him for his keenness and rather regard him as an authority on the subject of bridges and the like. It cannot be said of him either that he "spared the rod" and spoiled the frosh.

Of Ray's many ambitions, acquired while helping to win the war, his chief one seems to be that of becoming chief engineer of the construction of a bridge connecting Robeson with Helligoland. In the minds of all who know him there is no doubt but that he could succeed in such a project.

"Oh, well—I don't know."

JOSEPH PILKAY MINNICH
Harrisburg, Pa.

"Joe"

E.E.

FOUR years ago, Joe came up from Harrisburg with the intention of becoming an Electrical Engineer, or perhaps it was his father's intention. At any rate, there are possibilities of such a thing happening and we'll hope for the best. He developed the homing instinct early in his college career, and during the last four years he kept the P. & R. up to par on week-end fares. The big mystery of his career was how he managed to get away so much earlier than the rest of us, and yet always be the last one to return.

Joe is an expert on deep sarcasm, which he uses indiscriminately. He is quite a follower of the tales of H. C. Witwer, and never fails to quote this eminent author on all occasions. He spent one of his summers on a line gang at Harrisburg, and as would be expected from that, has quite a repertoire of tasty stories.

Unknown to many, Joe is quite a swimmer, and a good student, but no "course crabber." Above all, he is a darn good fellow, and he carries everyone's best wishes into his future work.

"What tha' hell?"

HARRY AMMON MITMAN
Northampton, Pa.

"Mick" "Mit"

Ch.E.; Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball (1); Baseball Squad (3); Chemical Society.

H "BARBARIAN" and a "savage," according to the invincible Baldy, Harry, nevertheless, possesses a few virtues. We think of savages as keen-eyed, healthy individuals who have not undergone that ordeal we term civilization, and in a limited way, this describes Harry.

During the process of civilization, Harry attended Northampton High School, developed a fondness for "merely mixing" and this love brought him to Lehigh, with visions of success as a chemical engineer beckoning to him. Meanwhile, however, woman's admiration for the caveman found in this barbarian chief a worthy subject and the vision of 1919 began to fade, to grow confused while numerous more beautiful visions replaced it. For a while he was in a bad way, then fate wished a "campus hound" upon him and his troubles were ended. Looking into the windshield ahead of him, he sees his one ideal; by his side, the other. Each has its place—they are equally vivid. Both hands on the wheel, Harry!

"Try and collect!"

JAMES XAVIER MOLLOY
Bridgeport, Conn.

"Jim" "Pope" "Shaver"

N.E.; Naval Society, Treasurer (4); Arcadia (4); Phi Sigma Kappa.

JIM prepared for Lehigh up in that wild and woolly town of Bridgeport, Conn., where he tells us he attended the High School. We think that Barnum and Bailey's circus contributed in no small way to his primary gathering of knowledge. He landed here thoroughly resolved to revolutionize the science of chemistry, but after a year of endeavor he decided that he preferred the life on the rolling main to that of the smoky laboratory, and changed to Naval Engineering.

From the interest he has shown in this new field we are confident that Jim shall some day build a ship that will cruise around, burning water for power, and whose speed will be so great that a "chicken" caught in Hongkong in the morning will be chop-suey here in the evening.

Although James is very modest about his ancestry, we have been able to ascertain after a thorough search of the genealogical archives of the world-famed library at Seidersville that he is a descendant from the Papacy; at least his middle name would indicate as much.

"I don't know."

JOSEPH FRETZ MOYER
Quakertown, Pa.

"Joe"

C.E.; Civil Society.

NOBODY knows where Quakertown is, but after graduating from its High School, Joe's ambitions rose above the limited possibilities offered by the town, so one sunny autumn morning in 1919 found this mild and modest youth ascending the slopes of Old South Mountain in search of that higher education given by the C.E. Department.

Little is known of Joe's early years at Lehigh except that he lived in the environs of the campus and spent much of his time in quiet and seclusion, probably because he found better opportunities there than elsewhere, as indicated by the exemption lists for diligent and conscientious application to studies.

However, he selected to pass the remaining years of his college career at the Dorms where he might easier continue in the pursuit of knowledge, and other things—among the latter the pulling of high grades with that admirable nonchalance so noticeably absent in most of us. Besides going to bed nights, Joe also goes to the shows regularly and never fails to attend the nocturnal sessions so peculiar to Taylor Hall.

"Let's go!"

ANDREW WILSON MUIRHEAD
Bridgeport, Conn.

"Andy" "Red"

M.E.; Class Basket-ball (1); Soccer Squad (2, 3, 4); Arcadia (4); Mechanical Society.

ANDY is but another of the many Connecticut boys who have found Lehigh more attractive than old Eli; the reason is obvious. At a tender age he proved a terror to the pedestrians in his two-cycle Duesenberg (he has since worked up to a Ford, of which he is justly proud). Thus he secured a thoro foundation for his now vast knowledge of the automobile as is. Upon hearing that Tommy Milton was a college man, our hero at once enrolled at Lehigh. His choice of the M. E. course was inevitable and he soon became one of the links of Blossom's Kinematic Chain. When other boys were studying Jack Dinsmore's classics, Andy could be found hungrily devouring his "Kinematics" by Klein. (adv.)

During his four years here, Andy has been numbered among the Lehigh dribblers where he lifts a mean toe. His Scotch heritage combined with his Yankee instincts warrant our prediction that here we have a future captain of the automobile industry. His fellow students will remember him for his square dealing in college.

"Well, I guess it's time to roll in."

WILBERT DAVID MUSCHLITZ
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Musch" "Cullen"

B.A.; Associate Editor of "Brown and White (3, 4); Deutscher Verein, (3, 4), Vice-President (4); Price Prize for English Composition (1).

MUSCH" was voted the most aggressive man in the college of Arts and Science by the members of his class, and has lived up to expectations.

He never wasted a precious minute. While most of the men were enjoying themselves in the evening, "Musch" was taking a night school course in typewriting and stenography. This he did for two years while taking his work at Lehigh.

His line is journalism. His crowning success came in his Senior year, when he was made Sporting Editor of the "Bethlehem Morning Sun." He is known to his campus friends as the Cullen Cain of Bethlehem.

"Musch" is capable of handling the sports for this rising newspaper. He has always been connected with athletics, and nowhere can there be found a finer disciple of clean sports.

Bethlehem needed a Lehigh man on one of her newspapers. "Musch" is the first, and we are sure that Lehigh will gain through his journalism.

"What's the dope?"

JOHN ROBERT MUZDAKAKIS
Baltimore, Md.

"Johnny" "Muzzy"

E.E.; Varsity Lacrosse (2, 3, 4); Captain (4); Class Basket-ball (1); Varsity Club; Lehigh-Maryland Club; Arcadia (4); Theta Kappa Phi.

EARLY in the year 1901, the unsuspecting city of Baltimore assumed the responsibility for introducing a bouncing youngster whose lusty yells convinced his parents that he should be christened John. A very important decision at the time of his graduation from Baltimore Polytechnic Institute was his election to come to Lehigh. Johnny, a cognomen fastened on him upon his arrival, had a fancy to explore the inner workings of a gas engine and began the Mechanical course, but by the second term he transferred his affections and settled down to delve into the mysteries of the Physics building and the vicissitudes of the rotary converter.

This second term was an occasion of fame for Johnny, for overnight he made the varsity lacrosse team which was the Intercollegiate Champion that year. He had no trouble the subsequent season making the team but he couldn't convince Bill O'Neill that he wasn't the laziest man on the squad. Johnny was elected captain for the 1923 team.

"I hope to tell you."

STANTON ELWELL NADIG
Allentown, Pa.

"Dutek" "Hawkshaw"

N.E.

STANTON ELWELL NADIG was born in Allentown, Pa., on October 25th, 1901.

He attended public school in Allentown and after finishing the eighth grade entered Allentown Preparatory School, graduating from that place in the spring of 1918.

In the fall of the same year he entered Lehigh University. However, during his Sophomore year he was compelled to miss school for a period of three months due to an operation for appendicitis, and on this account he fell back to the class of 1923.

His father, who had a machine shop making gasoline and steam engines, gave Stanton an opportunity to learn the trade and at the age of 15 he spent many hours repairing and making steam and gasoline engines. In 1918, without any assistance, he completely built a flat bottom boat with gasoline engine and paddle wheels.

He has always carried this motto that "Experience is the best teacher" and thus he endeavors to get all the experience he can.

"Gee, you're dumb!"

SAMUEL CRAIG NEVINS
Tamaqua, Pa.

"Sam" "Nevius"

Ch.E.; Theta Xi.

IN the Fall of 1919, another little coal cracker drifted down the river, deciding to stop off at Bethlehem and, if possible, find a way of cracking the coal without hard labor. Sam's early education was obtained in and around Tamaqua, Pa., graduating from the Tamaqua High School.

Sammie has been spending most of his time with the test tubes and wash bottles for he finds that kind of glass breaks easiest and he does enjoy scrapping.

Early in his sojourn at Mr. Lehigh's college, this little up-homer exhibited his ability as a German scholar and has been translating German books every year (usually for his own use), his only regret being that the mine mules had no conception of what his education meant.

Seriously, Sam is a well-liked, sociable fellow, always to be found wherever the gang is. His good nature and conscientious work will carry him far. The best of luck to you, Sam, old boy!

"Darn if I know."

FRANCIS CALLISTUS O'KEEFE
Rockville, Conn.

"Cork"

Bus. Ad.; Basketball Squad (1, 2, 3); Baseball Squad (1, 2, 3, 4); Chairman of June Hop Committee; Cotillion; Senior Banquet Committee; Sigma Nu.

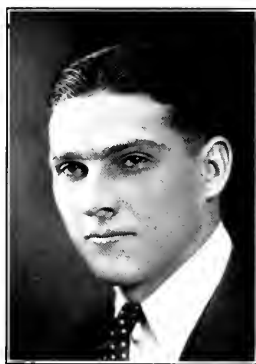

ROCKVILLE— isn't that a great place for a Son of Erin to hail from?

Cork came here in the fall of 1918, but being of a very youthful age, left at the inauguration of the S. A. T. C., foreseeing the fact that the year was doomed to be an unsuccessful one, and returned to Prep School, to be looked up to as a college man and to return to Lehigh the next fall to become a real one.

Active on both baseball and basketball squads, we can only feel that he received his early training in throwing the rocks out of Rockville, or possibly leading an Irish uprising with the same missiles.

"Featuring Cork O'Keefe on the traps" is a well-known press phrase, and as playing manager of the "Lehigh Six" he brought that organization to its present prominence. Why anyone should go to New York for music is inconceivable to him.

"No doubt you've heard of us——"

JOHN HEDRICK OLCOTT Glencarllyn, Va.

"Johnny" "Jack"

C.E.; Wrestling Squad (3, 4); Class Baseball (1, 2); Football Squad (4); Associate Editor of the "Bent"; Tau Beta Pi.

ONE of the first things that the writer heard from one of Professor Stewart's proteges was the general statement that "all Southerners are lazy." If exceptions prove the rule, then Johnny is an exception, for he came to Lehigh with the fullest intention of getting an education, and though he may not be satisfied with what he has achieved, we are all envious of the grades he has pulled down. Incidentally, he has not neglected his social requirements these four years and many are the glad hands that will welcome him on his return to his Alma Mater in years to come.

In his Senior year, Johnny became a member of the Ford Owning Association of Lehigh, in fact, if a description were given of this vehicle one would think he were a charter member. However, it is not only able to carry double, but on some occasions has carried over a dozen persons without blowing up.

"Here's hoping!"

MARCUS CALVIN OLD
Allentown, Pa.

"Mark" "Markiold"

B.A.; Allen-Lehigh Club, President; (4); Arcadia (4).

HAVING prepared for Lehigh in the front line trenches during the World War, Mark was well able to throw up barrages and in-translucent smoke screens, although this time he did it with knowledge. McOld, so reminiscent of Baldy's "me cold," surprised the Math department by passing all of the Math required of the so-called brainy engineers, and threw Thorny into a fit when he "raisedell" because he could not fit Astronomy into his roster.

Mark has frequently been seen rushing a jane to all the games and college dances, and rumor has it that they are thinking—well, Mark intends breaking into educational work and it won't be long before we hear of different relativities. It is estimated that Old, by commuting daily from Allentown, has earned a .001275 of a cent for all stockholders of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Mark has always been a quiet sort of chap around college, but just get him started on that story—"Now when I was in Paris"—hence the moral—"Still water runs deep."

•"Hell's Bells!"

JOHN HINKLE OPDYCKE
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Johnny" "Hinkle"

Bus. Ad.; Mustard and Cheese (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (3, 4); Assistant Manager of Lacrosse (3); Chairman of Sophomore Banquet Committee; Y. M. C. A. Committee (4); Class Prophet (4); Senior Class Book Committee; Cotillion; Scimitar; Phi Club; Cyanide; Sword and Crescent; Phi Gamma Delta.

WAS a cold, still day in November, 1900, that Sharon Hill, Pa., closed its shops to celebrate the birth of John Hinkle Opdycke. Nor has that far-famed town come since to regret its merry-making on that auspicious occasion.

Hink came to us with an athletic reputation (he was second string first baseman on the First Day School team). Once here, the lure of song claimed him for its own and he has blossomed out as Lehigh's "Al Jolson." For four years his particular rendition of popular numbers has made him a necessary addition to the programs of all college functions. Smokers and "pep meetings" are Jaw'n's meat. His loosely-knit frame and his smiling countenance have made him familiar everywhere.

Good luck, Jaw'n, good luck!

"Come on now, guy!"

THEODORE OTTO PETERSEN
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Pete" "Ted"

Ch.E.; Class Football (2); Cotillion; Phi Delta Theta.

WHEN Ted blew into town four years ago he had still much to learn about more than one thing; in fact, it was rumored that during his first few days here he bought a steam radiator for his room. However, since then he has "wised up" and now the hardest thing to do is convince him that he is not being "gipped."

Coming from Penn, Ted wasn't subjected to the inkspot and at the end of his first year here he joined our class. From that time on he has been an active member and always ready to rise when the occasion demanded.

Pete isn't a confirmed fusser by any means, but admits that stag parties are his "stuff." However, recent complications have set in and unless he watches his step, we are afraid the "dope" will be upset.

And finally, Ted, when graduation rolls around remember that the class of '23 wishes you the "best of luck."

"The hell you say!"

ROBERT GAIR PFAHLER
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"Bob" "Doc"

E.M.; First Honors in Freshman Math; First Honors in Sophomore Math; Second Honors in Sophomore Physics; First Honors in Junior Mining and Metallurgy; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Arcadia (4); Senior Banquet Committee; Tau Beta Pi, Phi Beta Kappa.

BACK in the fall of 1919, an "up-homer" dropped off the brake rigging of a freight train. After removing some of the dust incident to the trip, the young man took stock of his surroundings and found that "this was Bethlehem." Thus Lehigh gained another son of great promise.

Bob started to work with a vengeance and, although he had been out of school for some time, he began to make the staid members of the Faculty sit up and take notice. Since then Doc has forged ahead at a rapid rate, incidentally collecting scholastic honors every year.

However, scholastic work didn't monopolize all of Bob's time. His classmates recognized the latent worth of the man and soon Doc became a well-known figure around the campus in pursuits other than scholastic.

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER PICTH

Bethlehem, Pa.

"Pickty" "Georgeie"

E.E.; Band (2, 3, 4).

HIS autobiography, while written by myself, is done not for the purpose of handing myself a bunch of flowers, but to set forth accurately the past, present, and probably future of myself. The fact that few, if any, have known me any length of time, is the cause of my obligation to write it myself.

Born in the City of Astoria in the State of Oregon, U. S. A., July 22, 1901, traveling east in 1904 and having resided in this place ever since, I feel that I may class myself as a native Bethlehemite. I received my education (?) in various and sundry schools, beginning with a little country school and ending with Bethlehem High School, prior to attending Lehigh.

Here is a record that few can compare with. In my four years that I was here I was deprived of witnessing a Lehigh football victory over Lafayette, and now having arrived at the age of 21, and soon 22, no razor has touched my face and alas! still unknissed, I beg to remain, yours for "A Greater Lehigh".

"Pill" "Phil"

B.A.; Menorah Society, Vice-President (3); Secretary (4); Arts and Science Club, Secretary (4); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Chairman of Silver Bay Committee (4).

WHAT'S in a name? Even though concealed by Fate by being born in Califon, N. J. (wherever that may be), who knows but that someday he may be King of Zocko.

Pill never seemed to get a kick out of college until his Senior year. Probably it was due to his youth—he admits 19 years. Well anyway, between the movies and Coppee Hall, life was bitter—until, the mystery deepens—he began practicing teaching. Frank blossomed into manhood over night. His cheeks were rosy, his eyes keen, his pace snappy. We wonder at the metamorphosis but,—murder will out! Frank has been teaching English at the Bethlehem High School.

You should see the flower of Bethlehem's young womanhood which Frank is permitted to call by their first names! Your mother had better watch out, Frank, or she will be blessed with a daughter-in-law. And how you get enough pictures for them—they all "clamour" so for your portraits!

DONALD MOTT QUICK
Yonkers, N. Y.

"Don" "Quack"

M.E.; Varsity Swimming (4); Football Squad (2, 3); Wrestling Squad (2, 3); Track Squad (1, 2); Class Football (1); Mechanical Society, Tau Beta Pi, Psi Upsilon.

UP in a remote corner of New York State, nestled on the rocky banks of the Hudson, is the birthplace of Personal Liberty and Quack.

When Quack graduated from high school, he decided to become an undertaker's apprentice, but after a few months, he found that working on stiff was a dead job so he came to Lehigh. While Don doesn't bat a thousand in Prof. Mealey's league, he is sure some student. He knows that McGraw-Hill isn't a mountain, and when anybody tells him that he split an infinitive, he doesn't reach to feel if his trousers are ripped.

As an entertainer he has no rival and his chief sort of entertainment is wrestling against a boxer in a "catch-as-catch-can" match to the finish. His black eyes are not caused by overstudy but are the outcome of this little entertainment Don furnishes at the smokers. His one ambition when he graduates is to keep Yonkers from becoming a metropolis like New York.

"That clears that up."

KENNETH ELWELL QUIER
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Ken" "Query"

M.E.; Band (2, 3, 4).

UOUR attention is invited for a few minutes to the smiling countenance of another of our young Sousas. Ken is a Bethlehemite, and the germ of mechanical engineering was developed in him when a baby. During the first two years he had little difficulties with the Math. Department, because, like the rest of us he frequently visited "Ze ProfeZor at Conferenz Skool". The remaining two years saw him deeply involved trying earnestly to uphold Darwin's theory of, "The Survival of the Fleetest." Altho he is not outstanding in any sport is due to the fact that the extras besides the regular class duties enabled him to reduce the overhead. Yes, he is a frequent visitor at the "Colly" and appears to have some inducements for moonlight skating and hiking, and even for cartooning (even if it is only the pants of the Professor). Ken has been a faithful and loyal member of the famous Lehigh band for three years. He has also spent some time at wrestling and handball.

"Is that right?"

HARRADON REETS RANDALL
Shamokin, Pa.

"Reets" "Randy"

E.M.; Assistant Editor-in-Chief of "1923 Epitome"; Associate Editor of the "Burr" (2, 3); Mining Society.

IT was in the year 1919 when this young disastrous specie of hard luck blew in. The old boys say that this lad was a good freshman, but look at him now. Being of a restless nature it was necessary for him to purchase outright the P. & R. Railroad in order to extend his sphere of activity.

As to Randy's athletic ability, he's generally conceded to be the earliest riser in college, since he is a firm believer in the adage, "The early bird gathers no moss." His course in Mining so sharpened his already keen wit that he was soon admitted to the "Burr." Not in the least discouraged by this mishap, he straightway made the "Epitome" and helped the boys set type for the latest book in college. As for scholarship, he has been awarded an A in two major subjects, playing poker and Senior Mining. With these splendid qualifications and a pleasing personality, coupled with his ancestral branches, we have no doubt but that he will some day be a leader in the underworld (of Shamokin).

"Anybody want to play poker?"

HENRY BRUNNER RAU
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Hen" "Hank"

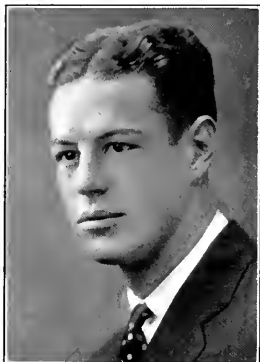

M.S.; Phi Gamma Delta.

HANK came unto us this year as a post-graduate from Moravian College, and we who did not know him looked upon him with awe, as a goat looks upon an elephant, only not so much. However, after the first week's acquaintance we found out that Hank wasn't so darn bright and uppish as we thought he would be—but was in for everything that anybody suggested.

Hen hasn't had much chance to strut his stuff around college, being tied down by higher Math and those subjects which a few will seek to overcome, but nobody with eyes or ears could ever miss him by the way he tears around the campus in his ancient but speedy "hack." Hank states his intentions of having the brakes adjusted, shaving his moustache, and entering into competition against Barney Oldfield, in the Nationals next year.

Besides being a wheel merchant, Hank is no dumb-bell in handling the pool cue, and he also keeps the clocks in the Chem. building set by means of radio transmission from Arlington. Go to it, Hank!

"Oh, Heck!"

JOHN MASON READ

Washington, D. C.

"Turk" "Turkey"

C.E.; Manager of Wrestling (4), Assistant Manager (3); Vice-President of Intercollegiate Wrestling Association (4); Varsity Football (3, 4), Football Squad (1, 2); Varsity Baseball (2, 3, 4); Class Football (1, 2); Freshman Dance Committee; Chairman of Class Day Committee; June Hop Committee; Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (1); Class Sergeant-at-Arms (1); Varsity Club, Cotillion; Scimitar; Kappa Beta Phi; Civil Society; Cyanide, Secretary; Sword and Crescent, Vice-President; "18 Club"; Psi Upsilon.

T WAS the thirty-first of March, 1901, that John Mason (Turk) Read first saw the light of day. This day marked the beginning of a new era in the world of those who laugh and are happy for Turk has done much to spread merriment, at least throughout his own little sphere of acquaintances, which isn't so little at that.

While at Lehigh, Turk has not only made nearly every honorary social club available, but has climaxed these achievements in becoming Manager of Wrestling. Besides these attainments, his athletic prowess is not to be forgotten.

"What's it to you?"

JOSEPH PATRICK REDINGTON

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

"Joe" "Hooks"

Bus. Ad.; Theta Kappa Phi.

T HE type to which poets have devoted sonnets is Joe's. His countenance is not of the common or garden variety, but his hair(?)—that permanent wave of his, has caused heart fluttering in many a blessed damozel—so to counteract it Curly Locks wears a hat (vintage of pre-historic times), and it puts into fact the feeling of—"Get thee behind me, Satan." Surely it is a hat that passeth understanding.

He packs a smile that fits his face and he wears it all the time. He puts his troubles in a triple-locked box and sits on the lid. He is there with the roll-top manners and the Red Seal voice, and to top it all he is generally in the "Know."

He is the only triple plated, double distilled, twenty-four karat sleeper since old Rip Van Winkle took his nap back in the days when the beery breezes wafted.

Great things are expected of you, Hooks, so strut your stuff. Gallop down the fairway of life with your head up, and the old ingrown smile working all the time—then the rest will be easy.

"Let's have another drink!"

EUGENE DESIRE REGAD
Irvington, N. J.

"Big Boy" "Des-es-ay"

E.E.; Varsity Swimming (2, 3, 4); Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (3, 4); Varsity Club; Rifle Team (3, 4), Captain (4); Scabbard and Blade, Captain (4); Moss-Lang Cup (3).

FOR nearly fifteen years, the little town of Irvington, N. J., was unaware of the fact that on October 28, 1900, a little boy named Eugene Desire Regad had been born within its limits and for a number of years the town was allowed to rest in peace and time passed uneventfully. Indeed, it was not until the end of one summer's vacation, during which Desire had taken several lessons in horse-shooting with the .45-70s on his brother's farm, that he first began to attract the town attention. A few years passed and the next time we hear of Desire is at Lehigh.

One day Desire fell in the swimming pool and created such a tidal wave that the team promptly accepted him and in short order he proceeded to smash all previous plunging records. By making zealous use of his early childhood training, he soon outshined all "trigger-artists" on the rifle team; so that at present he holds the undisputed title of "He's the guy that shoots the holes in doughnuts."

"Form Column!"

IRVING STERNER REITER
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Fats" "Pop"

Met.

FATS is a product of Bethlehem High. At Lehigh, as at Bethlehem High, one of his chief delights was to take the opposite side of any question discussed by the Prof. for the sake of argument.

On completing his course at Bethlehem High he entered State College in the course of Metallurgy. Successfully finishing his first year he considered himself educated to the nth degree and got himself a job. He spent his time in Bethlehem and Detroit, and at the end of three years it dawned upon him that there was still a little more to be learned and came to Lehigh in 1919. His mind was set on Metallurgy. He took all departments by storm, and before they realized that he was registered with them he was through with them all. He made quite an enviable record by alternating between Lehigh in the daytime and the Bethlehem Steel at night.

Fats faces the world with a store of knowledge and experience, seldom possessed by any man just graduating. Great things are expected of him, in the Metallurgical field. Here's wishing him success.

"Watch us grow!"

RONALD SAGE RHOADES
Nutley, N. J.

"Dusty" "Turk" "Muddy"

E.M.; Mustard and Cheese Variety Show (1); Mining Society; Phi Sigma Kappa.

HERE, gentlemen, is a name to conjure with. Episcopalian, he is Turkish in his tendencies, and has the history and characteristics of a South European American, which are his most delightful studies. He has studied his favorite theme diligently, seeking all of the first hand information that it was possible to secure within the limited confines of South Bethlehem. Neither has delving into the depths been in vain, as he has learned to wear the fez with the grace of the Sultan, although he has never had the experience with the delightful surroundings of that much-married and harried gentleman.

Dusty has also a distinct leaning toward horses and it is not at all improbable that some day he will be the owner of a stable that will vie in reputation with those great steppers, "Man-o'-War" and "Spark Plug." This latter is dependent upon the successful attainment of his goal in the mining field, and, who among us, knowing the "pep" and "get-there" qualities of Dusty can prophesy that anything but success will attend his efforts.

"Hot tamales!"

BYRON ELMER RHOADS, JR.
Big Stone Gap, Va.

"Dusty" "Barney"

C.E.; Mustard and Cheese (1, 2, 3, 4), President (4); Senior Banquet Committee; Tau Beta Pi; Delta Tau Delta.

HERE we have Barry MacCormack's only rival, one who has trod the boards, as may be seen by inspection of the Thespian pose above.

Down in the Blue Ridge of Virginia is the home of our hero, a region well known for corn "likker" and gentlemen. His early days were spent in hard labor trying to eke out an existence among the rocks of his native land.

In college, Dusty has been successful in every sense of the word. Friends, honors and the respect of his fellows are his. One thing alone forms a bar sinister on the silver shield of his escutcheon; he is one of those wild, dissolute gentlemen who wear the "bent." To find out the really interesting details of Byron's college life, the reader is referred to "The Tale of Four Years," a series of short stories by Rhoads and Read.

To sum up, nothing could be more fitting than the simple epitaph, "A gentleman, a scholar, and a judge of good likker."

"Don't care if I do."

ELMER LINCOLN RICHARDS, JR.
Somerville, N. J.

"Plug" "Elmo"

C. E.; Civil Society.

WE received Plug into our midst just four years ago from Somerville, N. J. He has, however, spent a little longer time in Bethlehem than most of us, for part of his preparatory education was received in his home town, and then, realizing that he was to seek a higher education at Lehigh, he left his Somerville home and landed in Bethlehem to acquire knowledge at Bethlehem Prep.

So when the curtain rose for the Class of 1923, we found Plug with us. At first thought, it seemed that Plug would have the jump on us in getting acquainted with the celebrities and amusement places, but after knowing him, we found that he took very little interest in the above, and instead, spent his time in applying himself to his work and taking a large interest in College activities.

After graduation, Plug expects to make this world a better place to travel on by improving and building concrete roads. In losing Plug, we are losing a very good friend and we surely wish him luck, and hope that his success in the future will be just as great as it was here at Lehigh.

"Damned if I know."

EDWIN FREDERICK RIEMAN
Tamaqua, Pa.

"Eddie" "Ed"

E.E.; Wrestling Squad (1, 3); Electrical Society; Tau Beta Pi.

EARLY in life, the heartbreaker, whose image you see above, decided that he would find the proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow by becoming an E.E. With that intention he shook the coal dust of Tamaqua from his feet in the fall of '19 and informed our Freddy that he was ready to battle for a degree with the rest of our warriors.

Eddie soon began to show 'em that he "knew his stuff" and his success is indicated by the Tau Bet key which he is totin' around. Much of his spare time has been spent in wrestling in which he has no mean ability. Of course being a regular "up homer", dancing is a favorite diversion and the Colly was frequently graced by his presence.

His pleasing personality and ability are sure to bring him the success in life which we heartily wish him to have.

"Ain't that the berries?"

JOHN STEPHEN RILEY
Willimantic, Conn.

"Pat" "Red" "Jack"

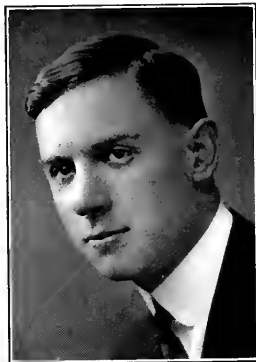

E.E.; Baseball Squad (3); Basketball Squad (2, 3); Electrical Society.

REDS came to us from Worcester Tech. However, all he seemed to bring with him from that old and stately institution of New England, was: exemption from Freshman regulations, an old baseball glove, a pair of blue eyes and a mop of red hair. Oh! them hair! In that auburn top, Pat possesses a fortune. It dazzles the coaches, bam boozles the professors and bewilders the ladies. Ye Gods! What it doesn't do to them.

Since arriving in "Ye Little Town o' Bethlehem," Reds has acquired the additional nickname of Pat and an old corn-cob pipe. This pipe was garnered at a smoker way back in '19 and has a history in itself. Needless to say, it has been kidnapped several times, but always comes back and makes its reappearance amid a cloud of poisonous gas.

With characteristics as you possess, Red, you can't help but succeed and we wish you luck, but do be careful for we know that before you fall before Cupid's arrow that your winning smile and cheery countenance will wound many a fair young heart.

"Holy Smokes!"

JOHN BUNYAN ROBINSON
Chester, Pa.

"Robby"

E.M.

ROBBY'S early years were spent in the beautiful (?) town of Chester, Pennsylvania. After a brilliant career in Chester High School he spent one year surveying for the Baldwin Locomotive Works. He soon got tired so he decided to come to Bethlehem.

To him this foggy town had a doleful aspect. However, he set about to argue his way through Lehigh. As a child he was fond of digging so he decided to take the Mining course in which he has picked his way to the Senior class. Robby believes in being thorough in everything that he does so he has repeated most of his subjects. We wonder if he did this to get exempt or whether it was to show up the members of the Class of 1924.

His favorite pastime is arguing over the merits of the Mining course and waiting for a little pink envelope that makes its appearance three or four times a week. However, we expect great things from him if not in the field of Mining it may be as a proud father.

"How's that?"

OSCAR FREDERIC ROLLER, JR.
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Fred" "Doc"

Ch.E.; Chemical Society; American Chemical Society.

FRED is another of those Philadelphians who decided that there is no place to find such opportunities as the Lehigh Valley. For this reason, if for no other, he landed in Bethlehem some four years ago. Just why he thought that he ought to become a chemical engineer we cannot say, but at any rate, he has been making a success of it.

Although the fair sex do not seem to have been able to excite his amorous propensities to any great extent, he has been seen looking into the Colly more than once. And even Bob Young knows who Mr. Roller is!

Fred, who is one of that irresponsible bunch of beaker breakers, the chemicals, has the unpardonable fault of always getting his work done on time.

Fred's hobbies are few and simple. When it comes to driving a car, Doc claims he's a bear, and that to make him perfectly happy, just put him behind a steering wheel.

If Fred keeps up the good work in the future as he has so far, there should be no question as to his success as an engineer.

"I shouldn't be surprised."

RUSSELL RUBBA
Hammonton, N. J.

"Rus" "Sot"

Ch.E.; Wrestling Squad (3); Mandolin Club; Chemical Society.

BY the exercise of remarkable persistency and argumentative powers, Russ convinced his people, way back in 1919, that engineering offered a better field than medicine, so, accordingly, he packed up his bags, journeyed to old South Mountain and signed up with Freddie Ashbaugh as a Ch.E.

No one who knew him during his Freshman year would have thought that he would turn out the way he did. He cut every class at Mealey's and the Colosseum that year,—but now! He's so well known at the latter that the doorkeeper never bothers to give him a pass-out check. Russ points with pride to the record he made during the Summer School of 1922, when he danced every single night from start to finish.

He has managed to steal enough time from the Chem Lab to make competition interesting in the 125-pound class in wrestling and to pick a wicked string in the Mandolin Club.

Sot claims that he dances for the fun of it, but, confidentially, we believe he intends to forsake the profession of Chemistry for dancing.

"Any dance anywhere tonight?"

RAYMOND PHILIP RUGER
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Booger" "Rug" "Ray"

C.E.; Civil Society.

AMONG the C.E.'s there is one Ray Ruger, better known in this group as Booger—so called. No record of the true origin of this given name is available, altho it is believed to have been first used by a one Turk Read in greeting this classmate of his.

Three years after graduating from the Northeast High School in Philadelphia, Raymond decided to take up engineering and in his desperate tenacity, discovered Lehigh, for which he then embarked, and soon after was established with the Civil Department. In so doing he took the chance, as most all of us, with a come what may—for better or worse—and has since roamed these parts with a determination to finish what he had started. He may be here or may be there, or anywhere at all, but seems to be somewhat of a gym enthusiast, more or less, and also becomes involved in those intricate basketball clashes which spontaneously take place there, yet could not find time to devote much of his attention to any one activity, attempting to engage in as many as possible on part time.

Best luck, Ray!

"Hello there, old deah!"

EDWARD MARSH SANSOM
Cranford, N. J.

"Ed" "Sandy" "Whitey"

Ch.E.; Manager of Tennis (4), Assistant Manager (3); Class Basketball (1); Chemical Society; Delta Tau Delta.

IF the movie magnates had ever seen this man before they unearthed Valentino, poor Rudolph would still have been entirely unknown to the movie-going public. However, it was the misfortune of both the above mentioned magnates and the feminine world in general that Eddie never made his debut on the silver screen.

Ed is a man of ability and keen intellect. During his four years here he has demonstrated that fact very clearly. When he worked (which might have been frequently), he worked in the fullest sense of the word.

Socially, Ed has not been negligent and he has always held social obligations in high esteem. Immediately after his arrival here the "Four Hundred" discovered Ed and since then his evenings have been pretty well taken up with various social functions.

However, with all his social life and the classroom work, Ed has still had time to do something in the way of athletics. The managerial berth seemed to be his forte.

"Think you'll make it?"

EVERETT GORDON SCHAEFER
New York, N. Y.

"Schae" "Germany"

Ch.E.; Varsity Swimming (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Baseball (1, 2); Class Basketball (1); June Hop Committee; Invitation Committee (4).

 CHAEF blew in from "Noo Yawk" one fine rainy day. As he would say, "It's a boid of a day for ducks."

From an embryo bridge fiend, he suddenly changed to a movie hound. His visits to the movies were, at that, well interspersed with numerous trips to Cedar Crest. Feeling that charity should rightly begin at home, Schaefer succeeded in breaking into the "Four Hundred" of Bethlehem. Fountain Hill was a steady attraction during the summer months, but with the advent of winter, our budding social light of Taylor Hall found the chill breezes cold indeed.

Basketball and swimming laid claim to his services, but Jimmie Mahoney spirited him away from Bart, and so we find him splashing away in the pool, day in and day out. Although we may find Schaefer tinkering with locks and safes in the near future, 'twill not be in a burgling capacity, but from an insurance point of view. Go get 'em!

"How come?"

CLEMENT SOLOMON SCHIFFREEN
Catasauqua, Pa.

"Clem" "Schiff"

E.E.; Freshman German Prize; Wilbur Scholarship; First Prize Sophomore Physics; Junior First Honors in Electrical Engineering; Electrical Society; Vice-President (4); Menorah Society, President (4); Tau Beta Pi; Phi Beta Kappa; Sigma Alpha Mu.

 CHIFF—not Jacob of New York—hailing from the horseshoe town of the Ruhr Valley of Pennsylvania, stepped on a trolley car in September, 1919, not content with having captured all the prizes offered at his local institution, and came to Lehigh with the same idea. Schiff used his own psycho-analysis, plus some B. T. U.'s, and repeated the same feat, that is—Schiff took quite a few honors here.

But, gentle reader, pray—think him not to be a "course crabber" by any means, for Schiff, with his pleasing personality, was a mixer and gained a host of friends, both of educational and co-educational nature.

Talk about a human storage battery, well, currents, motors, and generators, or anything connected with "juice" naturally bow to him, and at that rate some day Steinmetz and Schiff should make a wonderful pair.

"Well, how ya been?"

CHARLES NELSON SCHRAGGER
Trenton, N. J.

"Chuck" "Charlie" "Slag"

Ch.E.; Varsity Football (4), Football Squad (1, 2, 3); Varsity Track (1, 2), Track Squad (3, 4); Secretary of the "Burr" (4), Associate Editor (3); Class Football (1, 2); Arcadia (4); Varsity Club; Chemical Society; Pi Lambda Phi.

FROM the capital city of a state noted for its mosquitoes, Chuck came to Lehigh overflowing with ambition and filled with high ideals. To this day he has kept those ideals. He wasted no time, but immediately began trying to realize those ambitions.

Before long, Chuck could be found every afternoon on Taylor Field fighting for a job on the varsity, and he kept the bunch hustling to make sure of their berths. He was out there for four years, fighting every day, and we can pay him no higher tribute than to say that he is a real sticker—a real fighter—a real man!

None can keep gloom long when Charlie comes into a room with his cheery smile. His smile sure is to be envied and it is always there.

With his courage and never quit spirit, it is a matter of a few years before we will hear great things of him. Good luck, Chuck!

"It's the uncertainty that counts."

HENRY JOHN SCHRAUFF
Jersey City, N. J.

"Hank" "Schrauff"

E.M.; Lacrosse Squad (1, 2); Class Football (2); Mining Society; Phi Sigma Kappa.

HANK arrived in Bethlehem, accompanied by a pronounced "Joisey City" accent, a taste for good cooking, and an unlimited quantity of ambition. A short time in our midst was sufficient to separate him from the first and last of these characteristics. But the second seemed immovable and has stood up valiantly against all onslaughts.

This young man soon learned that not all of college was to be found in text books, and soon found many other things about the town which were sufficiently interesting to allow of some careful study and investigation. Among these were such delightful resorts as Bob's and the Colly. Later he discovered the fertile areas of Allentown and Easton, and has surveyed these with considerable care and can tell considerably more of their characteristics than he learned in seeking Geological specimens.

Hank has also discovered the great value of sleep and as he follows his ideas and practices considerably, it may be said that sleep is his favorite indoor sport (while at home).

"Holy Jumping Jesus!"

THOMAS WESLEY SCHWAB, JR.
Bath, Pa.

"Charlie" "Wes"

B.A.; Deutscher Verein; Le Clube de Quinze; Phi Beta Kappa.

SOME men are born great, others achieve greatness, and still others have greatness thrust upon them. The last named is the fate of the illustrious Schwab family. The only difference between "Charles M." and our friend Wes, the literary engineer, is the fact that "Charles" has made his mark in life, while Wes has yet to make his.

Hailing from the large city of Bath, Pa., and consequently a confirmed exponent of personal cleanliness, Wes made a very enviable record for himself as a student at Bethlehem High, where he prepared for Lehigh. His prowess as a student followed him to college and his scholastic record was so good that he made Phi Beta Kappa.

While Wes always made good in every subject he tackled, yet his favorite course was "Drown Hall Lab. and Lecture Course." When not otherwise engaged, he could always be found there entangled in a discussion.

Despite his human frailties we predict that the name of Schwab in the literary world will some day rival that of Schwab in the industrial world.

"Dammit!"

ALVIN AUGUST CLAUS
SCHWARZBACH
Newark, N. J.

"Schwartzie" "Chick" "Al"

E.M.; Varsity Wrestling (2, 3, 4); Captain (4); Intercollegiate 115-pound Champion (4); Cross Country Team (1); Varsity Track (1); Varsity Club; Cyanide; Phi Sigma Gamma.

HERE'S another miner. Vive!

As soon as Alvin had obtained a freshman hat (size seven), he proceeded to earn as promising record as a middle-distance runner and in the dark ages of our early sojourn in the sacred city, we always associated Schwartzie with the track and cross country teams. Times changed, however, and with the freshman cap, Chick also discarded his running shoes for wrestling togs. In this role, he performed in splendid style, featuring well in the three Intercollegiates he entered and emerging Intercollegiate Champion in the 115-pound class in his last attempt. He captained the team during his Senior year.

To best appreciate Alvin is to know his ideals and beliefs. Then one finds him possessed of stability, a delicate sense of right and wrong, a regard for duty and a generous spirit. In this connection it is worth adding that if Chick can't say anything good about anyone, he generally doesn't say anything.

"Hey, fella! Listen!"

OLIN CURTIS SHEETZ
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Olin" "Sheik"

Met.; Student Officer, R. O. T. C. (3, 4); Scabbard and Blade; Met. Society.

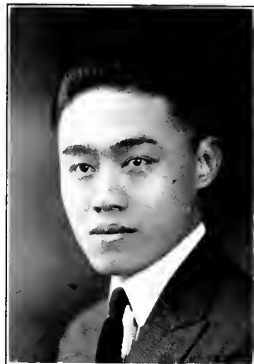

BEHOLD the noble brow and stern countenance of Olin Curtis Sheetz, Philatelist, big game hunter, and sometimes, metallurgist.

Like the north magnetic pole, Olin has wandered during the past two decades. He saw daylight in Llewellyn, used safety pins in Chester, called the miners dirty names in Shenandoah, knocked down high school honors in East Stroudsburg, came to Bethlehem because it was the nearest town to Lehigh and now uses the Frankford elevated in Philadelphia to reach the family domicile.

For four years Olin has been an active member of the Mets of 1923, a band of tramps, the like of which was never before seen at Lehigh. In seeming contradiction he has contemporaneously held a seat among Lehigh's loyal order of ministers' sons. Olin is also a military man and many are the freshmen who have been overawed by this man's stern commands.

Speaking of the ladies, Olin has left many of them in his wake. He treats them like straw hats, keeping several varieties at a time, but discarding them all at the end of the season.

"That's putrid!"

DZU-KUN SHEN
Hankow, China

"Deck" "Coo-Coo" "Shen"

M.S.; Chinese Club, President (4); Chemical Society.

SHEN spent four years at Chili Technical College, Tientsin, China, graduating in 1915 with the honor of having been head of his class every year. He continued his good work at Hanyang Arsenal, China, where he worked as a chemist until sent to Washington in 1921 as a member of the Chinese Delegation to the Disarmament Conference. He obtained the Pack Scholarship through Doctor Drinker and so made him another success at Lehigh.

He tries to make his friends believe him to be a woman-hater. However, if we were able to read and understand the "mush" in some of the letters he gets from a certain person in China, we would be assured that immediately after his return he will discontinue his role as bachelor and settle down.

Shen has only been with us a year and a half, but his pleasing personality has won him many staunch and lasting friends. Judging from his capabilities, we are assured he will be successful in whatever he undertakes. We all wish him good health and happiness along with his success after leaving Lehigh.

"Just sink of it."

LEWIS FOULKE SHOEMAKER, JR.
Deron, Pa.

"Shoey" "Lew"

C.E.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4);
Theta Xi.

LEW isn't the sort of a fellow to make a big impression at the first meeting, not because of his inability to do so, but because he doesn't just care to do so. Yet one would always notice that if he remained in any one place for a while it wouldn't be long before he became one of the leaders. He also has college spirit—the real stuff. A more loyal Lehigh man will never be found anywhere.

As far as making that first class and passing re-exams was concerned, he was unequalled. To him, 7.35 A. M. was almost too early to dress, eat breakfast, cross the river and make an 8 o'clock class. In his work he seemed to derive a pleasure from the state of anxiety in which he kept his friends and family. Each year it was feared that Thorny would send him his farewell papers. But Lew would say nonchalantly, "Just wait." Three times we waited, and three times we saw the same dormant will-power spring up and carry him thru, a little battered, but always victorious. Our hand to you, Lew, and the best of luck.

"Holy Smoke!"

ARTHUR LOUIS SIEMANN
Brooklyn, N. Y.

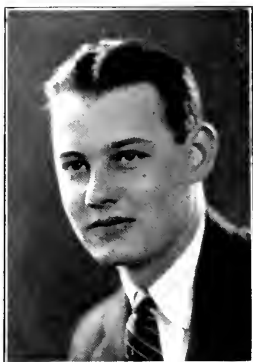

"Larry" "AI"

C.E.; Varsity Soccer (2, 3, 4); Soccer Squad (1); Class Baseball (1); Mandolin Club (3, 4); Varsity Club; Tau Beta Pi.

FOUR years ago, on September 23, 1919, the Lehigh Valley train disgorged at the Bethlehem station a tall fair-haired youth from the wilds of Brooklyn. Larry, for it was he, started knocking things the minute he stepped off. First it was the city of Bethlehem. Later he started knocking his studies for a row and continued to do so for the next four years. Calculus had no terrors for him and he had logs eating right out of his hand. His one ambition was to be the first one finished and out of the room in any kind of a quiz and not many times did he fail. Also, while he was a Frosh, he started kicking the soccer ball around the lot and did good work on the team for four years, his crowning triumph coming when he helped defeat Lafayette for the State Championship.

In his Junior year he decided to help out the Musical Clubs, so he joined the Mandolin Club, where he wielded a mean pick and knocked all the women cold with his handsome, debonaire ways.

"Who the hell wants to know?"

THOMAS CAMERON SMITH
Allentown, Pa.

"Tommy" "T. C."

M.E.; Baseball Squad (4); Mechanical Society; Cotillion; Sigma Chi.

WENTY-THREE years ago, Wilkes-Barre was electrified by the advent of the prodigy whose name and titles have herein been inscribed. We at the university had always thought the days of miracles gone forever, but a greater one has come to pass within our midst. For lo and behold! T. C. is about to leave us. We had come to regard him as the ivy on our walls and the very trees will mourn his passing.

A few years ago Thomas went to Bethlehem Prep. in order to enlighten the profs at that institution. To prove that they held him in reverence they got him into Lehigh.

After he had served two years of his sentence, he secured a parole in the custody of our Uncle Samuel. When the Germans heard he was coming, they built more dugouts and we are sure the Armistice was the result of his adventuring.

He is an enthusiastic admirer of the opposite sex and regular trips to Easton verify this statement. His idea at present of both Venus and Aphrodite seems to correspond with a certain Vassar graduate-to-be.

"Nice guy!"

EDWIN HENRY SNYDER, JR.
Washington, D. C.

"Ed" "Snitz"

E.E.; Manager of Swimming (4), Assistant Manager (3); Business Manager of "1923 Epitome"; Senior Class Book Committee; Arcadia (4); Scabbard and Blade; Electrical Society, President (4), Treasurer (3); Cyanide; Pi Delta Epsilon; Tau Beta Pi; Sword and Crescent; Phi Delta Theta.

EDUCATED in the public schools of Washington, he soon became known throughout the capitol as Nunnally's young Lochinvar, which was considered quite the berries in them vicinity. Why he left his exalted position there to take up his electrical work at Lehigh has puzzled us scientists no little bit. Some say it was the love of adventure, others say it was his love for punishment. The writer, after attending an Electrical "Sem," has concluded that he is a glutton for punishment.

Edwin is a hearty eater but his food seems to lose its force before reaching the digestive organs, thus producing a condition of equilibrium which gives the young man a non-fatten appearance. Snitz studies hard but refuses to stay awake during Bill's lectures, so he will never be a successful E.E., as these lectures contain the cream of the course.

"Look out! That's mine!"

JOHN STEWART STANIER
Tarentum, Pa.

"Stew" "Pollock"

Bus.Ad.; Football Squad (1, 2, 3, 4); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); June Hop Committee; Chairman of Junior Week (3); Interfraternity Council (3); Cotillion; Sigma Nu.

IN order to get used to this environment, Stew spent a few years at Bethlehem Prep. He entered Lehigh in 1917 but after one term here, he and Pershing went to Europe to show the Allies how to win the war. He returned to tell us what he and his cohort, Jock, did to the Germans. With the given name, John Stewart, he decided that the only course for him was Business, but this proved more of a handicap than a blessing. His wild chase after hours, etc., caused the success of many hair tonic companies, but all in vain were his attempts at rejuvenation.

Stew could get up any morning after six calls. We know that the davenport will miss him in spare periods. A hard and loyal worker on the football field, he earned his varsity letter. A jolly good fellow with a generous heart, he was well known and popular everywhere. His unlimited number of friends on the campus are sure of his future success.

"Absolutely!"

LESLIE WRIGHT STANLEY
Williamsport, Pa.

"Gus"

B.A.; Class Football (1); Arts and Science Club.

WHERE we see a wanderer from Williamsport, that "abode of bankrupt lumbermen." A wanderer, for many a fireside, up and down the Lehigh Valley, has known his presence. Not just he and the fire, you know.

Gus is a firm believer in education for its own sake, therefore he chose the B.A. course. He exhibited a judgment possessed by too few of our lower classmen having athletic ability, for when it came to the choice, he concentrated on books rather than sport; hence, we have him still with us. Such obstacles as Greek and Trig have merely made his course more interesting. His worst vice is his continuous attempt to prove to the hordes of skeptical engineers that surround him, that Baldy is the ideal professor. If he suspects that he is casting pearls in vain, he relieves his feelings by swearing off cigarettes.

We have known Gus four years, and in that time we have learned to know him well. We value his friendship, and appreciate him, and feel sure that the qualities which have gained our high regard here will in after years carry him on to a deserved success.

"Too much trouble."

THOMAS WILLIAM STANTON
Montclair, N. J.

"Bill" "T. W."

Bus. Ad.; Chairman of June Hop Committee; Sophomore Banquet Committee; Cotillion; Phi Club; Kappa Beta Phi; Psi Upsilon.

BILL was born among the "red-hills" of New Jersey and might be listed as one of the "Prides of Newark." His early childhood and youth were spent at Blair Academy, from whence he joined us in the fall of '18 as one of those fightin' men in the S. A. T. C., and a candidate for honors in the Metallurgical line. However, he soon saw the error of his ways and now swears by the little fellow up in Coppee Hall.

Bill's athletic activities have been mostly of the indoor type. A good stretch of the waxed floor is his meat and the bridge table and secluded lounge are the substance of his existence. Also, in that manly art which exercise the right arm and leg, he is no slouch. "No that it not a Phi Beta Kappa Key, lady."

Being one of the older fellows his advice on many subjects is eagerly sought. However, his replies resemble the tone of a broken bass drum and are not easily caught by an unpracticed ear.

"Let's get out of here."

WILLIAM STEINER
New York, N. Y.

"Bill" "Will"

Bus. Ad.

WILLIAM STEINER, well known traveler and brewer of Europe and the U. S., was born in New York on January 20, 1901. He was educated at Lehigh, where he spent four successful years. Altho young Steiner could hardly be called a "course crabber," his name invariably appeared up towards the top of the grade list and his favorite sport (aside from baseball) was getting out of finals, and he didn't get gray from overwork. In fact after class or in the evening one would have difficulty in finding him in his room. He would be more apt to be at Young's (not Bob's) eating a hot fudge sundae or in some movie.

He was never known to be in Bethlehem over a week-end. After his last class he would rush into New York (the writer can't blame him). During his college life he was a confirmed woman-hater, but at the close of his Senior year, the barometer began to indicate a change. After leaving Lehigh, the most noteworthy thing Steiner did was to effect a change (very radical) in the 18th Amendment and then step into the footsteps of his father and become the Henry Ford in the world of Hops.

"You know."

JOHN WRIGHT TAYLOR, JR.
Century, Fla.

"Jack" "Johnny"

M.E.; Secretary of Y. M. C. A. (4); Arcadia (4); Railroad Society; Mechanical Society.

JOHN came to Lehigh from the sunny fields of Florida, where he received his prep education. Why he traveled so far north to study we are not in a position to state, but we believe he came because he knew that work here was an essential factor in acquiring a degree.

When John entered here as a Freshman, he believed strongly in the motto, "There is time for work and time for play," and carried this belief thru his four years. For five evenings in the week he could be found at Section E, Taylor Hall, but the other two evenings he was receiving the education derived from the association with the fair sex.

He has not been idle in taking part in some form of college activity. At the start of his college career he took an interest in the Y. M. C. A. and has been an active worker ever since, being elected secretary in his Senior year.

Honest, conscientious, and a desire to help another out of difficulties are important factors which stand out in our association with him.

"Well, for the love of Mike!"

JOHN ARCHIBALD THOMAS
Scranton, Pa.

"Snorkey" "Tommy" "Jack"

E.M.; Mining Society, President (4), Secretary (3); Alpha Chi Rho.

OUR guess was wrong, dear reader. This picture is not a poster advertising the Near East Relief, neither is it a close-up of part of the Rogues' Gallery. This, my friend, is Snorkey.

Several years ago the residents of Scranton were surprised and horrified to hear a terrible sound rend the otherwise peaceful air. "My Gawd," they cried, "another cave-in!" But for once they were wrong, for instead of a cave-in, what they heard was Snork announcing his arrival on Mother Earth. After a thrilling childhood, spent climbing out of houses that had fallen into the mines, Tommy went South and entered V. M. I. with the class of '18. However, after a short stay there, war drew him away and he used his ability in running a chlorine plant. Later, in the fall of '21 he entered our Alma Mater and by the aid of "re-s" he stayed.

Here at Lehigh he has outgrown his middle name and almost forgotten the chlorine process, so he leaves as a gentleman, as a scholar and as a Mining Engineer. But how one man can be all three is more than we can understand.

"Damned if I know."

WILLIAM GARDINIER THOMPSON
Long Island, N. Y.

"Tommy" "Square-head"

E.M.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3); Lacrosse Squad (3); Class Football (1, 2); Cheerleader (3, 4), Head (4); Mustard and Cheese (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Treasurer (2); Class Vice-President (3); Junior Banquet Committee; Mining Society; Interfraternity Council (4); Cyanide; Phi Delta Theta.

WHERE ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise." Thus the ancients spoke and thus did Tommy heed. Why Square-head came to Lehigh is still a mystery but 'tis said in the upper circles that he brings oddles of sunshine into the gatherings with his "perfectly killing" statements. In other words he's the life of the party.

When Square-head arrived in our midst he asked for a room with bath and southern exposure, so you see he isn't a bit backward about making known his wants.

He ain't a bad guy once you get to know his eccentric mannerisms and all his numerous friends certainly hate to see him leave. Tommy may let his chest heave a bit, but he never gets angry and it's a pleasure to be in his company. Don't get the idea from what was said above that Tommy is dumb because—he admits he isn't.

"Hey! Wait a minute!"

RICHARD HAUGHTON TILGHMAN
Overlea, Md.

"Bud" "Red"

M.E.; Basketball Squad (4); Lehigh-Maryland Club; Tau Beta Pi; Phi Beta Kappa.

NATURE has given this object the minimum of body compatible with maximum stability, durability and endurance and she has given him, even as you and all of us, brain and character,—only so damn much more!

Red was born in that famous old city of Baltimore, but one day, he went away for a little trip and never could find his way back to the city. Hence, he now resides in that quaint little place known as Overlea, Md. (That Md. does not stand for "mud," as you would like to believe.)

Since July 1, 1918, all Red's good traits, including wonderful self-control, have been unable to keep him straight against the evil fascination of ice cream sundaes.

We envy not his blessings nor his faults; but, oh, his auburn tresses! How we would have patted and puffed them; petted and played with them; and anointed them with "fixtore" to the glory of ourselves and the delight of the girls. But such was not his way—it was more subtle and equally successful. May everything be as easy for him!

"Hum-m-m!"

JAMES ARNOLD TODD
Doylestown, Pa.

"Hop" "Otis"

Ch.E.; Assistant Manager of Football (3); Track Squad (1, 2); Arcadia (4); Cotillion; Alpha Chi Rho.

HE above sweet boy graduate is none other than our own Arnie, who was born a gentleman, has lived like a gentleman (with exceptions), and will die like one.

Hop is a student through and through. After taking a course over once, he often realizes that he hasn't gotten quite as much out of it as he might have if he had studied, so, like a man, he repeats it. In this way he hopes to pass Met problems, for by now he thinks they will start repeating the problems that were given the first time he took it.

The social side of his life is to us an enigma. Long, long ago when he was a Sophomore he never missed a dance, either at the Colly or at Drown Hall, but since that time he has been a constant commuter towards New York and the little time he is in Bethlehem is spent with his red nose in the old books. However, now that he is about ready to get out and give some other poor soul a chance, we'll make one statement, and that is as a Chemical Engineer he'll make a good husband.

"Great Hell!"

RUSSELL TONKING
Dover, N. J.

"Tonk" "Babe"

Ch.E.; Football Squad (2, 3, 4); Class Football (1, 2); Band (2, 3, 4); Glee Club (3, 4); Associate Editor of the "Burr" (3, 4).

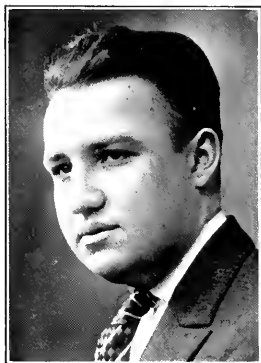

THREE years ago, the smiling Babe arrived at Lehigh to continue his college career, after completing a year at Penn. Tonk will always be remembered as a valuable addition to his class.

Ever so early, Tonk gained a wide reputation as the champion hot-dog disperser of the Lehigh Valley. It is entirely to this remarkable power of consumption that Tonk owes his tenth-of-a-ton bulk. Incidentally, he has been well qualified to fill a large gap at center on the football team for the past three years.

Tonk's wit and humor will reach the four corners of the globe for his contributions to the "Burr" have earned for him a position on the editorial staff. In addition he wields a wicked pick on the banjo for the Mandolin Club and dance orchestras.

We wish him all the luck in the world and are sure that he will be rewarded for his determined efforts to graduate in four years despite his transfer from Penn.

"Ever hear this one?"

HERBERT FRANCIS UNDERWOOD
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Doc" "Herb"

M.E.; Varsity Swimming (3, 4), Captain (4), Swimming Squad (2); Varsity Club; Mechanical Society; Alpha Chi Rho.

LOOK one; look all! We have here the one and only non-traveling captain in college. The "dope" is this: Doc is the retiring captain of the swimming team, but unlike all the other leaders in sports at Lehigh, he only takes part in meets when they are held at our own Taylor Pool. We wondered for quite a while just why it was that he was thus slighted and then it dawned upon us. Herb is quite a butter fiend, and Coach Lukens, knowing that water and grease will not mix, decided that they would never get the chance to if he had anything to say about it. And so, whenever Doc participated, it was here where the coach couldn't very well prevent it.

Our hero is by no means the modest violet he appears in the above caricature by that artist, McCaa. Oh, no! He not only admits it, but he brags that he put more men into Tau Bet than any other Senior Mechanical. However, considering the class, that doesn't speak so well for H. F.

"Oh Boy!"

LEWIS HOWARD VAN BILLIARD
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Van" "Louie"

E.E.; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4); Track Squad (2); Rifle Team (2, 3, 4); Scabbard and Blade.

"'Twas an arc lamp chain he siezed,
Catapulting him far over the trees;
Tho' dazed and weary, he said, "I must know why,
That lamp doesn't light,—I'm off for Lehigh."

SO he came to Lehigh and we related to him why and wherefore, but being a devoted citizen of Bethlehem he could not believe his enemy, the "operator," purposely wrapped the voltmeter pointer three times around its axis to produce the result. Forgetting the real reason for his entering Lehigh in the Electrical course he has followed our advice by trying to learn of other phenomenon.

Spending his first year selecting a sport, Van chose wrestling. For three long years he stuck to the game and proved good practice for our team—but remember we must not insult him for he has a long range threat,—a Springfield rifle in his hands, makes him dangerous. In Taylor Gym he knows every nook and corner, especially in handball where sometimes Goodyear rubber loses its properties.

"You're right!"

EDWIN VAN KEUREN
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Ed" "Van"

B.A.; Associate Editor of "Brown and White" (2, 3, 4); Mustard and Cheese (3, 4); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Wrestling Squad (2, 3, 4); Lacrosse Squad (2, 3, 4); Arts and Science Club, President (4); Vice-President (3); Le Clube de Quinze; Rifle Team (3, 4); Second Prize of Junior Oratorical Contest; Scabbard and Blade; Pi Delta Epsilon; Phi Sigma Kappa.

LADIES and gentlemen: We have with us this evening one of the most distinguished members of the class of 1923; one whose many and varied interests have won for him recognition in almost every field of endeavor; whose genial personality and good nature have made him a popular man among his fellows, and we hasten to add, among the ladies as well.

A product of the city of the Great White Way he spent his later years in Bethlehem so that he was early aware of attractions offered by this metropolis as a place to gain an education, both academic and feminine. With rare judgment, he came to Lehigh for the first and other places for the second. It is with the greatest of pleasure that we introduce to you such a figure on the campus.

"Is that a fact?"

JOHN HAROLD VAN NESS
Paterson, N. J.

"Pete" "Van"

C.E.; Soccer Squad (4); Class Baseball (1); Glee Club (1); Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); Civil Society, Secretary (4); Tau Beta Pi.

PETE was leaving for Lehigh. In the little ramshackle station of Paterson, he stood, a serious, sandy-haired, blue-eyed chap, giving his friends and admirers a farewell speech. Both of them (She and his dog) gazed at him with rapt devotion and nodded solemn agreement as he concluded: "Paterson's loss shall be 'Lehigh's gain.'" Then yesterday's train pulled in and he was off.

His first duty at Lehigh was to put the Sophs in their proper places by helping on Founder's Day.

The Musical Clubs needed revamping, so Pete stepped into the breach and helped put them where they are today. He then proceeded to show Thorny what a real student he was and a Tau Beta Pi key is only a small criterion as to his ability. It has been suggested that he be given a professor's salary, as he explained more difficult questions than any prof. As soon as he would see someone approaching with a hesitant and puzzled air he'd pipe up, "How dumb! Let me see it," and he'd do it.

"Raspberries!"

CHARLES ABBOTT VOSS
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Charlie" "Rabbit"

Bus.Ad.; Varsity Lacrosse (3, 4); Glee Club (3); Ivy Orator (4); Cotillion; Kappa Beta Phi; Sigma Nu.

UES! Our hero hails from the greatest city's greatest borough. Overcoming all these handicaps, he has, thru persevering and tireless efforts reached the pinnacle of height—"six-foot-three."

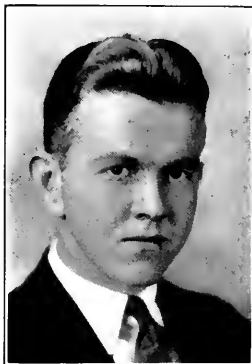

Outside of talking, Charlie confesses that sleeping is his favorite occupation. The one great difficulty of his life being to find a bed that is long enough.

Believing in a liberal education and being the victim of many reform movements, Rabbit, along with Thorny and Baldy, has done much to direct the educational policy of our "colleche."

His ability as a lawyer in no way impairs his technique in navigating a flivver. And many a night he has been seen by the more observing to sneak away in his beloved perambulator.

He has two abnormally sized organs—no we mean in addition to his feet—we refer to his heart and food container. Never a heart was bigger than his, and if his appetite is any criterion, his stomach must crowd his heart. In fact it has been rumored that he has hollow legs.

"Aw, cur-r-it out!"

EDWARD ALLEN WALLACE, JR.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Ed" "Eddie"

Bus.Ad.; Arcadia (3, 4); Invitation Committee (4); Chi Phi.

EDWARD WALLACE was born in 1901—July 31, to be exact—but he was not known to us until four years ago. At that time he was a very meek and mild sort of chap, but gradually Lehigh pep was instilled into his veins and today you have in Ed a regular fellow, a true pal and a wonderful friend. Eddie's last year in college, as he himself will no doubt admit, was his best. He had one motto which he followed and that is, "Study by day and play by night." Strange to say his recreation was usually taken in Allentown, mainly because of his Red Devil, which served as an easy means of travel. His recreation does not consist in steering the aforementioned Buick, but in dealing the cards in a bridge foursome, in which, we understand, the fair sex usually predominates; or by going to the movies and fighting the battle with the hero, mentally, but with twice as much vigor as the screen artist himself. One bad habit Ed rid himself of. He used to smoke a pipe, now the Buick does all the smoking for the Wallace family in Bethlehem.

"Has the postman come?"

FRANK CLAYTON WALTERS
Bethlehem, Pa.

"Walt" "Pinch"

N.E.; Editor-in-Chief of "Brown and White" (4); Assistant Editor (3); Associate Editor (1,2); Varsity Soccer (3, 4); Wrestling Squad (2); Associate Editor of "1923 Epitome"; Senior Class Book Committee; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Y. M. C. A. Handbook Committee (2); Varsity Club; Cyanide; Pi Delta Epsilon; Sword and Crescent.

IN the fall of 1919, a modest and unassuming youth climbed up the hill from his home "on the other side of the river," and entered Lehigh as a B. A. One year in that course stuffed and, preferring the briny deep to a career as a literary engineer, Walt changed to Naval Engineering.

Although unheralded and unsung as was his entrance, he started to work immediately and has since demonstrated what can be done by one who has the spirit, pep and determination. A glance at the activities listed above is sufficient testimony to the industry and success of his college life. Besides holding the position of honor on the college paper as editor-in-chief, Frank found time to win a varsity letter, playing with the championship soccer team of 1922.

"Pretty lucky"

JOSEPH EDWARD WALTON
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Joe" "Jerry" "Hooks"

C.E.

THE coal regions are famous for many events, but Mt. Carmel stepped out to the front on August 10, 1898, when it offered Jerry to the world. Realizing from boyhood that he was a born engineer, Jerry lost no time in preparing for Lehigh, and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia obtained this proud distinction. In the fall of 1919, an ambitious freshman entered the portals of Lehigh and ever since he has been running wild with the scholastic offerings served out by the C. E. Department.

Joe is one of those boys we call modest. He keeps pretty quiet at all times and you can find him almost any time in Packer Hall over a drawing board or in his room working. By that, you wouldn't think that Joe did anything else in the world, would you? Ah, but there's the secret! His bashfulness and modesty prevent him from saying anything unless under great pressure and then he admits that he does go out with a few girls. And when he leaves Bethlehem there will be more than one broken heart in the homes of the Valley Dutch and others. Joe has made many friends in his quiet and unassuming way.

"Damn it!"

ROBERT STANFORD WEBB
Asheville, N. C.

"Stan" "Bob"

M.E.; Business Manager of "Brown and White" (4); Circulation Manager of "Brown and White" (3); Assistant Business Manager (2); Arcadia (4); Junior Prom Committee; Freshman Dance Committee; Cotillion; Phi Club, Scimitar; Cyanide; Pi Delta Epsilon; Beta Theta Pi.

WHEN, on February 18, 1901, the first golden rays of the morning sun crowned the mountains of "The Land of the Sky," Stan first gave this world the once over. The Democratic Party took particular notice of this, for the place was Asheville, N. C. As a boy he took great delight in breaking his toys, yet more in trying to fix them; so it is only natural that on coming to these ivy-clad walls in 1919, he joined Pop Larkin's gang of plumbers. Stan is very fond of warm weather, in fact, so much so that he spent his early years at the Asheville School in his native city.

Yet he is still with us and says that he may be back next year. While here, Stan has found time to prove himself a real business man, by working up to the position of Business Manager of the "Brown and White."

"Kwitcherbelliakini!"

JAMES WENTZ
New York, N. Y.

"Dutch"

Bus. Ad.; Varsity Tennis (2, 3); Chairman of Freshman Dance Committee; Chairman of Junior Prom; Interfraternity Council (4); Varsity Club; Cotillion, Vice-President; Scimitar; Kappa Beta Phi; Cyanide; Sigma Phi.

THE "Flying Dutchman" first saw light of day in little old New York, 'way back in 1901. He has made that his headquarters ever since, altho really spending very little time there. Dutch holds the international amateur record for attending prep schools, and before Thorny finally condescended to take a chance on him, had spoiled, ruined, and otherwise wrecked the reputation of no less than seven of these prep schools. But he finally landed in Bethlehem and has been going strong ever since. The first year was spent in more or less of a fog.

The next year a great change came over Dutch and he even went so far as to start attending chapel. He now has joined the ranks of the engaged men, and spends his time in going up to New York Friday, coming back Monday sleeping Tuesday, and spending Wednesday and Thursday getting ready to go back again.

"Front row this afternoon?"

DAVID THOMAS WERNER

Lebanon, Pa.

"Dave" "Stump"

E.E.; Tennis Squad (1, 2, 3, 4).

DAVID entered Lehigh a finished product of Lebanon High, in possession of a fine gold medal denoting superior ability in mathematics. This failed to make the desired impression on the professors, however, and he was obliged to resort to "midnight oil" and "try-again" methods in order to get me hours. This fact, together with his intimate relations with Lady Fortune and the red, white, and blue discs, account for the fact, that he has not missed an early morning fire during his entire college career. Career? Can a youth, who as yet holds no political views, be said to have a career? Yes, I think so. Surely the academic and sport activities and the anxieties of a man in love, which have occupied his time during the last four years, may be said to fulfill the requirements.

To have known David as a Freshman and as a Senior would convince the most doubtful that Darwin was right. In fact, he has succeeded so well in adapting himself to his environment that he has become thoroughly collegiate in every respect. He will have the advantage of an early start in life and is certain not to disappoint the hopes of his many friends for his future success.

"Finesse your queen."

DONALD MILLER WIGHT

Washington, D. C.

"D." "Don" "Baldy"

M.E.; Varsity Track (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (4); Class President (1); Chairman of Junior Banquet Committee; Chairman of Senior Banquet Committee; Class Relay (1); Class Football (1); Varsity Club; Cotillion; Phi Club; Tau Beta Pi; Psi Upsilon.

BACK in the spring of 1901, on the twenty-first of April, to be more exact, the inhabitants of Georgetown were awakened by the arrival of none other than Donald Miller Wight.

D's boyhood days were spent between the "Y" and Western High School, Washington, D. C., where he evidenced the intellectual and athletic ability which he has so clearly displayed while at Lehigh, having the much envied distinction of being the captain of the Track team, and a member of Tau Beta Pi. Besides this, he was president of the best freshman class that ever entered Lehigh—just ask any '23 man about it. While never troubled by his studies, D's head has been a source of constant worry to him, and electric vibrators, mange cure, and herpicide have all proven useless, so in a few years he will no doubt resort to a toupe, and will then justly acquire the name Baldy.

"I don't think that's right."

PAUL EDWIN WILKINS
Baltimore, Md.

"Skinny" "P. E."

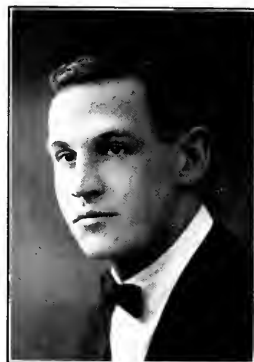

C.E.; Lacrosse Squad (3, 4); Lehigh-Maryland Club, Treasurer (4); Civil Society; Member of A. S. C. E.

IF "silence gives consent," we have one of our most agreeable Marylanders in Skinny that ever struck the "Lehigh's Rocky Rapids."

Skinny tried several schools, among which was West Nottingham Academy, but after he was forced to walk along the railroad tracks from Perryville back to school, he decided that "home was never like this" and soon started in at Franklin High School, where we can well imagine what the attraction was. Later we find him amid a jumble of stars and planets, trying to ascertain just why the earth is round. Although it is hard for him to tear himself away at the ends of vacations, he manages to get back only to lengthen these vacations by sleeping through Monday's classes. Out of three of his family that entered Lehigh, he is the lone survivor.

We feel sure that after his "juggling" seven place logarithms under "Windy," Paul will be ready to overcome any obstacles.

"Pipe down!"

CHARLES RAYMOND WIRE
Washington, D. C.

"Ray" "Bob"

C.E.; Football Squad (4); Wrestling Squad (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Football (2); Invitation Committee (4); Tau Beta Pi, President; Theta Xi.

ON November 20, 1901, the people of Washington woke up with a weird feeling because not far from Washington, one, by name of Ray Wire, first saw the Carbon Filament glow. During the years before entering Lehigh, he wandered around Washington and the Potomac River and attended the McKinley M. T. S. After leaving Tech, he decided to take the C.E. course at Lehigh, so in September, 1919, he arrived at the little station in Bethlehem (not the one in Palestine). While here, did he not live up to all expectations and set the profs and fair sex talking? Little Ray not only made Tau Beta Pi and became its president, but he showed them that he was athletic, too.

Now, kind readers, looking at the above good looking chap, you would not believe that he was a Sheik, would you? Yes, Ray is one "honest-to-goodness" Sheik. How do we know? Why, Ray receives letters from numerous places and from detective work we found that no postmark was nearer than 100 miles to any of the others.

"You're not such a big guy!"

BARNEY LOUIS WOLENSKY
Palmerton, Pa.

"Barney" "Wally"

Bus. Ad.; Menorah Society, Vice-President (4); Arts and Science Club, Sigma Alpha Mu.

LITTLE did Barney dream of how he would prepare himself to attack life's battle when he set sail on the skipper that carried him from the tumultuous country, where safety razors are looked upon as infamous weapons.

Landing at Ellis Island, he baffled the inspectors by his psychological questions so they sent him to a new born town—Palmerton. After a consultation with Palmer, who happened to be the feudal lord of the "Zinc Town", it was decided that Lehigh's portals might be a temple of knowledge for him. Tampering with generators or motors did not appeal with Barney—so he decided to change his course to Ch. E. and become a test tube washer. But somehow, Barney could not see himself competing with DuPont, so for the third time, he threw his hat in the business ring and we have the final episode appearing with Wally juggling figures for his B.S. degree.

With his pleasing disposition, Barney should win out.

"What's the dope?"

ADOLPH GUSTAVE WUETHRICH
Perth Amboy, N. J.

"Shorty" "Little Joe"

Met.

FRIEND Shorty hails from that well known industrial center, Perth Amboy, a place which, according to Shorty, boasts of almost the largest of everything. He never mentioned himself, however.

Shorty managed to extricate himself from P. A. H. S., somewhere around 1916 and then skipped a few cogs, during which time he played around such well known plants as DuPont's Powder Mills, American Smelting and Refining Co., Nixon Nitration Works and the New Jersey Zinc Co. At these numerous places he gained his idea of Metallurgy and also of Dr. Richards; consequently he started hitting on four again and chose Lehigh as his Alma Mater. He was doomed for disappointment, tho; caused by the untimely death of Dr. Richards and now I class him as the best Met in college.

He may be short and he may be bald, but as Shorty says he was born short, and bald also—so there you are. He very seldom neglects to add that one cannot have hair and brains both. At that rate Shorty has a great future in store; for his hair is no more.

"If so, why not?"

IN MEMORIAM

In the course of time, God sees fit, on some occasions, to take from our very presence, some of our comrades who are our best friends and of the most value to us.

In our four years here, three of our companions have been called to the Great Beyond. They were faithful soldiers and their parting has left us with a feeling of deep regret.

This space in our last college record is set aside for the remembrance of these comrades:

FRANKLIN THOMAS WRIGHT LAZARUS

THEODORE HENRY MEYER

CLARENCE HUTCHINS TURNER

What We Think

CONTAINED herein are the opinions of the class of 1923—opinions which have accumulated during four (and in some cases, more) years of association with campus life—and which, therefore, should be the essences of wisdom and wit.

The work of compiling this extract of the humor of the 182 Seniors has been an undertaking equal in magnitude to the writing of a four-page letter on the history of the world, or a hundred-word essay on the sciences. The Committee was at first completely overwhelmed by the brilliance of the answers submitted to our queries, but a gradual sifting out of the ones that were not fit to print—and those were really the best—brought us thru one stage of the process of selection. The final choice was made by the well-known method used in correcting papers in the English Department—that of throwing the papers from the top floor of Saucon Hall and using only those papers which reached the bottom floor for this brief bit of nonsense. Those which fell on other soil were gathered up and in case the Committee ever gets low in funds, will appear in the form of a magazine which we fully expect will soon take national and even world-wide preference over the comics now on sale at all the news stands.

In anticipation of this step, we refer our readers to the few choice bits of thought set forth in the following pages, with the reminder that this is but a small sample of what our classmates are capable of.

The profound insight and intelligence displayed by the class, we suggest as Exhibit A in proof of what a college education will do for an otherwise named man. From Phi Bet down to the near-flunk-out, the members of the class of '23, although they might be dumb, can never be accused of lacking in humor.

"AWFUL GOOD"

With these two words, Sansom expresses the consensus of opinion about the class of '23 by the members of the graduating class. Various thoughts of the same general theme were suggested, but all appear to be of the same mind on the quality of the Senior class. Underwood declares it is the best class that ever graduated under President Richards, an opinion which cannot be gainsaid. Bobbin says it is one of the best he has ever been in, which, knowing Bobbin and his stay at Lehigh, is saying something.

THE OTHER CLASSES

did not seem to rate very high in the opinions of most of us. Reiter says they would make good frosh for the I. C. S. The best that Heikes can say for them is that they are "rare possibilities—very rare." Carlisle reminds us that they have a lot to learn. Kramer suggests that the class of '23 needs them to lend contrast.

"THE GRAND JURY"

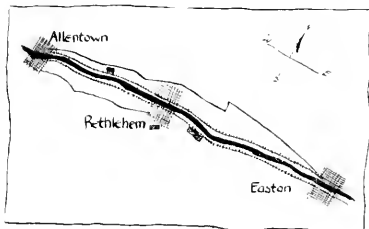

This is Borden's nickname for the Arcadia. In speaking of that august body, Green recalls the fact that "the quality of mercy is not strained." Asbury cracks wise with "they try hard," while Abel substantiates this in one light by reminding us of the all-night meetings. Despite the fact that the Arcadia is usually the recipient of a lot of hard knocks, the class seems entirely for it and Muirhead epitomizes the opinions of all of us with his statement that the Arcadia is one of the truly great things we have at Lehigh.

"A PERPETUAL BULL SESSION," is Huston's idea of the Interfraternity Council. Cusick says it is rushed to death and Forney declares it is fine at making rules. Foot suggests that here might be a fine place to get "gas" for running the gas engine tests. Quite a few were in doubt as to its raison d'etre, but it is conceded by Molloy that it is at least harmless.

A TALE OF THREE CITIES

Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton come in for some very dirty cracks and we judge from the expressions of opinion that few of the members of the class would choose either of them as their idea of Arcady. Israel concedes Allentown but one virtue—"It has a fair fair," says he. Ertner cracks wise with the suggestion that since the city is so near the U. S. they should at least teach English in the schools

"Bethlehem is the garden spot of the world," comes in unison from Lees and Walters, but we assert that they are giving a biased opinion. Hagenbuch characterizes it as a suburb of Lehigh, while Snyder says it is the cleanest town next to Pittsburgh. Kurtz puts it quite delicately when he calls it a rose between two thorns.

"Easton—home of the Easton Journal and the Lafayette Liar," says Kennedy. Forney calls the city "the down-river dump," while Burgess points to Lafayette with disgust and says, "Look what she spawned." A good number of the class declare it is a good place to shun and Van Billard expresses an opinion that is general when he says, "One visit every two years is enough."

NIGHT SCHOOL

The Colosseum and Prof. Mealey's Auditorium furnish two of Lehigh's extension courses. Both of these places are reckoned pretty low on the social ladder, according to the opinions submitted. Kreisel says both places are too coarse to be fine. Speaking of the Colly, DuBois declares that it is no place to write home about. Compher describes it as a lovable place, however, while Tonking can only see it as a stepping-stone to Bethlehem Prep. Thompson puts it as well as anyone could, "It's the last rung on the way down."

Mealey's is running in close competition with the Colly, according to opinions. Tonking has seen some of the best wrestling matches held in the valley at Mealey's, while Mecalvin suggests that Billy Sheridan might find early-season training for his proteges there. Steiner makes a potent remark when he voices the caution, "Don't give your right name!"

"TWO ORDERS, PLEASE."

says Reiter, in speaking of Mustard and Cheese. You've got us wrong, Fats, we meant the club. We are afraid Schrauff also took the wrong meaning for he says, "It's not up to its standard since prohibition,"—and then again, perhaps he was speaking of the club. Walters says he has seen prettier chorus girls but Opdycke takes the marbles with the neat statement that the whole thing is a "Fraim-up."

"FRIENDS TO THE LAST DROP,"

are the Bethlehem cops, according to Tonking, who, we all admit, ought to know. Some of the members of the class display an intimacy with the temperament and weaknesses of the cops which savor of congenial discussions with lamp posts and peaceful slumbers in the gutter. Schrauff has found them willing to listen to reason and quite a few agree with him on this point. Vague remarks were made about bootleggers, etc., which we think are better untold.

"POOR EFFICIENCY"

That is the main trouble with the firemen, according to Picht's engineering mind. Hoke says they get to the fire in time to carry out the ashes. Gardy gives them credit for staging some pretty nice fires occasionally. Clarke accuses them of being good spectators while Olcott thinks they would be happiest when working on a fire in a greenhouse, where they could break all the windows they wanted.

"FOR MEN ONLY"

With these apt words, Forney expresses his opinion of college dances. Yes, they are almost as bad as that. Roller says they are meeting places for a lot of stags and few does. Mitman wants to know why ice boxes are not supplied to accommodate the bottles. Kreisel's only objection to the affairs is that there are too many wrecks strewn about the campus the day after.

PRETTY RITZY

The Bethlehem Hotel has been one of the chief reasons for the decline and fall of the college dances of late. Consensus of opinion seems to rate the new hotel as a pretty good place—for instance, Forstall explains, "Thank God for which!" However, it has its drawbacks. Thompson cautions you to watch the gold in your teeth when you go there. Van Keuren says it reminds him of Jesse James, except that the latter had a horse and fewer accomplices.

"I'M AGIN IT," says Randall, very forcefully asserting his opinion on Woman Suffrage. Why the emphatic declaration? Well, you see, Randall's married. Dixon gives in, saying, "Let her vote—she's boss anyway." Webb describes it as misplaced confidence, while Hales says it is a contagious disease among women. Snyder stoops to conquer when he attempts to solve the difficult problem by saying, "Let 'em vote—we don't have to count their votes."

FEM SEM—SING SING

After some years of research among old manuscripts, McConnell is able to inform us that Sing Sing is Fem Sem in Chinese. A wonderful contribution to etymology. George! That explains why we got so many answers like "Try and get in," "Good prison," etc. Some few admitted that they had been able to get by the cerebus but their efforts seemed crowned with disappointment. Johnston says the one he had was awful and Schrauff claims he has just as much fun in a graveyard.

B-THORPE

*"But soft, what light from yonder window breaks,
It is the East and Juliet is the sun."—Shakespeare.*

Israel claims that Bishopthorpe furnished a Lab course to accompany the readings from "Romeo and Juliet," as given by the English department. From the nature of the majority of the opinions handed in, we believe that a number of the '23 men have taken this Lab course—and evidently enjoyed it. Kennedy describes the usual procedure with the words,

"3 A. M.; a rope, hit for the New School." Ertner again pulls a wise crack when he declares the only thing he likes about them is his arm.

"WAR RATIONS A LA CARTE"

That's what they serve at the Commons, according to Kessler. Getz declares the place is run with Terrence McSwiney as its patron saint. Abel has found it a bad place for a good stomach, while Werner says it is a good place to go to get sick just before a mean quiz.

THE NEW SCHOOL

Quite a few of the members of the class pretended innocence and unsophistication when expressing their opinions of the New School—making believe the only one they knew of was the New Liberty High School. Pretty poor! Compher aptly describes it as a place where education is poured into one. Israel informs us that he hasn't been tutoring lately. Farkas expresses the opinion of many with "the faculty is a fine fellow."

"B. P. O. E."

No, not a fraternal order—just Schiffreen's idea of the "Brown and White"—best paper on earth. Kressler reminds us that good things come in small packages. The college newspaper comes in for several good-natured knocks. Kutzleb describes it as a good reminder of old times. Siemann says it tells all about what will happen yesterday. Most of the college, however, agree with Coxie when that we couldn't get along without it.

THE FUNNY PAPER

The "Burr" finds a lot of favor with the class, many of the members declaring that it ranks with the best of the comics of the day. The best that a few can say for it is that it is the best humorous magazine at Lehigh. Walters declares that "it is no laughing matter."

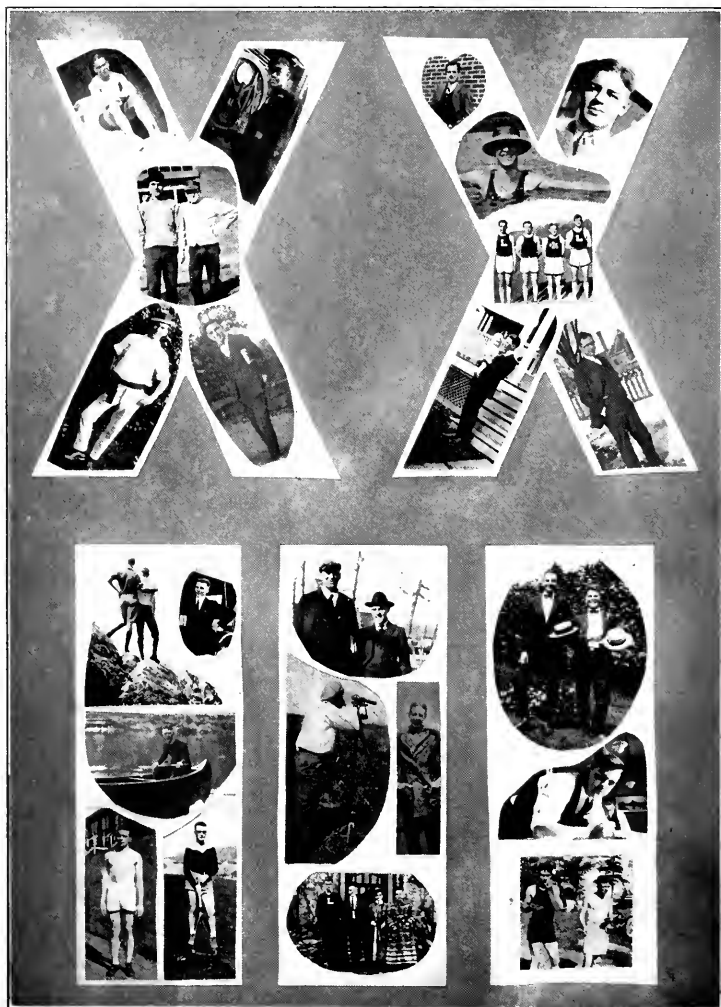

"THEY HAVE BEEN DISGUSTINGLY SOBER, OF LATE,"

is what Turk Read has to say about the class banquets. Fancher thinks they are an excellent advertisement for underwear, recalling a ripping good time which was had at a frosh banquet several years ago. The annual banquet is a glorious institution, according to most of the '23 men, although Huston feels obliged to reserve his opinion because he never saw the finish of any of them.

STOP ! ! ! ! !

"Remember, the folks read the EPITOME," cautions Kutzleb when asked his opinion of Lafayette. With this in mind, we regretfully withhold most of the opinions—they really aren't fit to print, although you'd enjoy reading some of them. Tonking gives it credit for being a good prep school, while Petersen says it furnishes its students with a place to loaf for four years before business. Harcastle reminds us that it is built on a bluff and we all agree with him on that.

"AN 'L' OF A GOOD IDEA," is Garber's opinion of the Varsity Club. Walters calls our attention to the fact that it is not a charming club and is distinctive in that respect. As Cox says, "It is a promising infant and hopes for its success are many."

"ONLY AN EXCUSE FOR ROMPERS," is what Bahnsen has to say about the Lehigh golf team. Gihon says that the only golf he has seen around the campus is the African variety. Werner describes the sports as "organized digging up of the campus."

"A NAIL, A BOARD, A PAIL OF DIRT,"

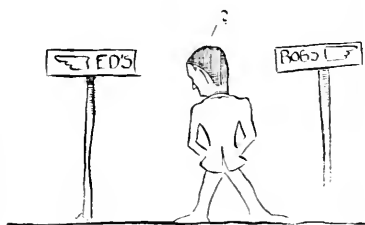

is Koch's idea of Muhlenberg's stadium. Israel swears, "Lehigh will never have an occasion to use it, so why worry?" Blankenbuehler gives it credit for being well ventilated and we all agree on that. Johnny Lees thinks Lafayette's stadium would make a better bonfire. That's a potent idea, which we submit to the lower classes for careful consideration.

"NOISY"

With this small word, Carlisle describes the University Band. Todd says it is good for "drumming up college spirit." Almost all of the class declare that it is the best college band in the East. Stanley puts it nicely when he says, "It won every one of its games this year."

RUBBER SOCKS

Johnny Lees recommends them when you go to Young's. Guess which one he means! Quite a number have found a cure for Bob's at Ed's, and Harcastle recommends the former on a damp night and the latter on the following day. Gardy says that they were two Brothers who knew their business—if one doesn't get the trade, the other does; and sometimes, both of them get it!

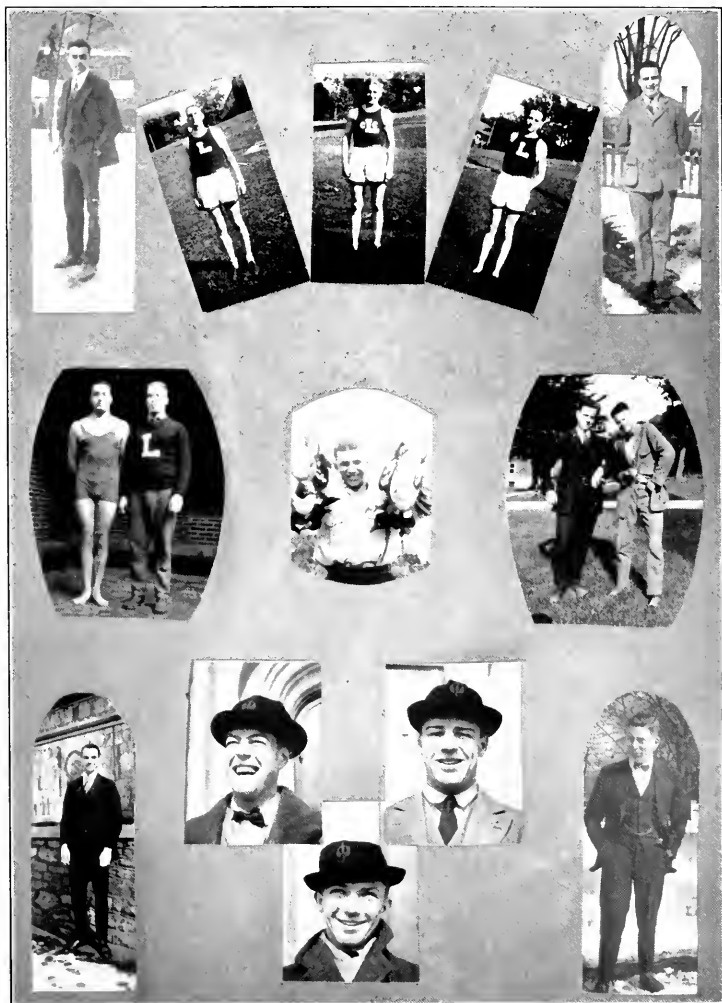

"UNCALLED FOR,"

is Thompson's opinion of the Eighteenth Amendment. Quite a few wanted information as to what it was all about and Burgess thought it had been repealed. Hagenbuch says, "It quite takes my breath away."

"FUN FOR ALL"

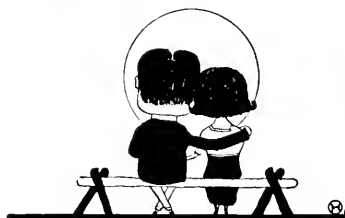

is provided by the Founder's Day scraps, according to Kramer. Several warnings, that in all decency, the women should be invited to leave when they start, were received. Bush calls the scraps a "ripping good time," but Carlisle says that there is not enough blood shed. Gardy cries out with this—"To get down to bare facts on the case," while Dithridge coincides in his opinion that the scraps provide an intimate and personal view of the students, and anyone who saw last year's debate will agree.

"TOO MUCH NIGHT WORK," murmurs Wire in his notes on Summer School. We have heard rumors, but maybe Ray can give us the full dope. Israel continues the thought by "The days are tough but the nights—Warm Canine!" Gus Stanley thinks that without it Central Park would be on the rocks—do you want to include University Park in this, Gus?

"BEST THING IN THE WORLD TO TRAIN YOUTHS, but (dirtyly), thank God, I'm old," answered John Conlin when the topic of the R. O. T. C. was broached. You might regret that some day, Johnnie. Carlisle triumphs by his "Fine position for officers needing a rest," and Ertner throws one to the jaw by advising us to omit the "C" and add "10." However, there's always a spot of sunshine peeking through the clouds and so the contribution of Todd, "The hope of a nation," is welcomed by the wearers of the number 12 shoes.

"THEY'RE ALL COARSE!"

You mean the course professors, of course, Mr. Huston. Well, here's hoping you get that sheepskin as quickly as possible, Stewey. Schrauff admits that his better half during the past four years is responsible for the little work he has done, and Ganey admires his cravats. Nothing like a Scotch plaid on a blue Monday, is there, Tom?

"THE A-B-C OF IT"

Yes, we can all agree with Muschlitz when he claims that there are no other organizations like the Arcadia, Bob's and the Colly for reducing the ranks of our class. But why include the Arcadia, Musch, they've surely gotten over those tricks. Eddie Beale seems to think that in most cases it's "Too many late hours and not enough of me hours," while Dithridge and Wilkins combine their ideas on the weaker sex by adding respectively, "Cherchez la femme" and "Cause girls leave home." Yea, it is pretty hard to see her every week-end and then try to concentrate on Calculus, but old Moyer hits the nail on the head with "On account of the Thorny path they travel"—for be it ever so humble, there's nothing like the name of C. L. Thornburg to knock one for a pint can of succotash.

"DUTCHY'S TROUSERS NEED REFORMING

as much as anything," says Hewitt. We might add that there are others in the department who could stand an iron or so once in a while. Ganey doesn't like the idea of a "President's Black List." Schaefer thinks there are too many class politics being pulled while Carlisle thinks that if the prep. school attitude of the profs. could be overcome, we might crash Lafayette once in a while.

"SELLING B. V. D.'S AT THE NORTH POLE" is to be Larkin's future—might be able to use a little bridge construction or concrete in that line, Pop, as there's nothing like a good ole pair of concrete B. V. D.'s under the northern lights! Wire is going to try to bring back the short skirts, while Underwood is thinking of assisting Flo Ziegfeld in picking his new chorus. To "do other people" seems to be the general attitude of the class—the world will sure feel confident of itself in our noble palms. As a fitting end to this bunch of future jobs, Rhoads again takes the paper mache corkscrew by announcing to the world his expectation of becoming President of the U. S.—but ends by, "Please don't take this too seriously." Don't worry, we won't!

"INHALED IT"

That's the way Joe Redington got his first kiss. How does it compare with a Henrietta "Admiral," Joe? Minnich says, "I snuck up on her," but, electrically speaking, Barrell did the deed thus: "Adjusted field rheostat to give over excitation, tested the polarity and threw the switch." What in hell was the girl doing—static? Todd grabbed her by sheer force, while Eddie Coxe's first flame was sitting on another fellow's lap. Kinda' stealing his "stuff," eh, Ed?

"SPIT ON THE FLOOR

in Economics" was the worst thing that Riley ever did. Don't forget the Johnstown flood, Red. Balderson says he once said, "Darn" out loud. Not that, Bob, we hope! Bray admits that his act of sleeping in a waste basket after the Sophomore Cotillion is unparalleled—but, with one exception, that of Mr. Quick, who, when forced to reply, told us he slipped up on his baths for a month. And you so near the pool, too, Don! Well, it's hard to believe because you look O. K. most of the time. Honest!

"A COPY OF THE EPITOME"

is what Clint Compber is going to take from college with him to make him happy. Not a bad idea at all, Bill. Seaman doesn't like the idea of Packer Hall bell ringing so damn much, especially at 8 o'clock in the morning and would like it taken from college. Lodge ends the agony by taking himself from the college. We don't know which is the better off in that deal.

Conclusion

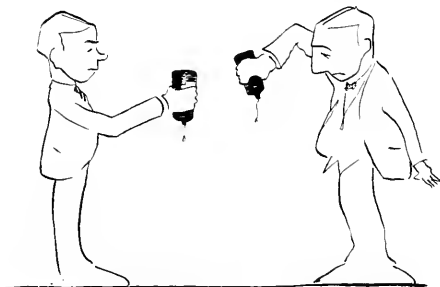

HUS we come to the close of our work. The committee has done its best and we leave it to you to judge. We have attempted, in this short space, to give you an insight on what our class has done at Lehigh for four years. We feel that our stay at our Alma Mater has been beneficial and that we are leaving some marks behind that will make the class of '23 long remembered.

We hope that you have enjoyed the reading of this section. If you have, we offer our hand in congratulations. If you have not, we are sorry, but we at least give you credit for sticking it out to the end.

At this time, we wish to take the opportunity to thank our dear friend and photographer, Bill McCaa; our printer, The Read-Taylor Press; our engraver, The Chestnut Street Engraving Company; our Junior workers, and all others who have aided in the compiling of this section. We have enjoyed our task—we hope that it will be forever regarded as a fitting memorial of four happy years we have spent together.

History

IN the fall of 1920 the largest freshman class that had ever entered Lehigh, donned their frosh caps and proceeded to make a name for themselves. For several months this class stood the brunt of the pent-up feeling of the upper classmen. This feeling we later diagnosed as the result of the war. For many days hazing was at its height, life was miserable, but still the Frosh were unconquerable.

In the spring of this year, the buds upon the trees came forth, so did we Frosh. This budding resulted in the spirited away of the Sophomore Class president several days before their banquet. At the end of this, our first year, we had gained the respect of the entire college.

After several short months at our respective homes, we landed back, with a greater task ahead of us than when we entered. We now had our old spirit to revive and a new class to inject that spirit into. This was accomplished by several rushes and a little organized hazing. Many of our boys had by this time made a name for themselves upon the gridiron, ball field, and other fields of sport. Their efforts have added to "Old Lehigh's" fame and to their class's honor.

Our present year has been one of sober thought, in which we have had one aim, an example for those who come after. Thus, the present Junior Class has completed another year, and a wealth of history.

History

E. M. BURKE
PRESIDENT

THE history of the Class of 1925 is a story of perilous escapes from the hazards of faculty rulings. Wherefore the day of the opening of this college year was full of surprises and regrets for the fittest who had somehow survived. No one knew who would return to college and who would not. Some of those, who as freshmen were remembered by studious and thoughtful faces were missing. Here were profound regrets. Others, possibly as thoughtful but not as studious, by reputation at least, were on the campus distributing handshakes like candidates for managerships. Here were startling surprises!

But the glorious remnant has other things to boast of besides mere existence. As freshmen the class proved its physical prowess by winning the majority of the Founder Day Sports. But a year of college evidently dissipated the spirit for play; the interclass football game was lost without an alibi to a more powerful freshman team. The unexpected exodus of the class to Allentown, the time spent there and the triumphant return will be remembered as long as dining and drinking remain major collegiate sports.

The success which has attended these various class undertakings is undoubtedly due to a healthy class spirit. Twenty-five is only two years old but the promise of its precocious first year seems to be possible of fulfillment as the class grows more and more conscious of itself as a distinct entity in college affairs.

FRESHMEN

C. M. PRIOR
PRESIDENT

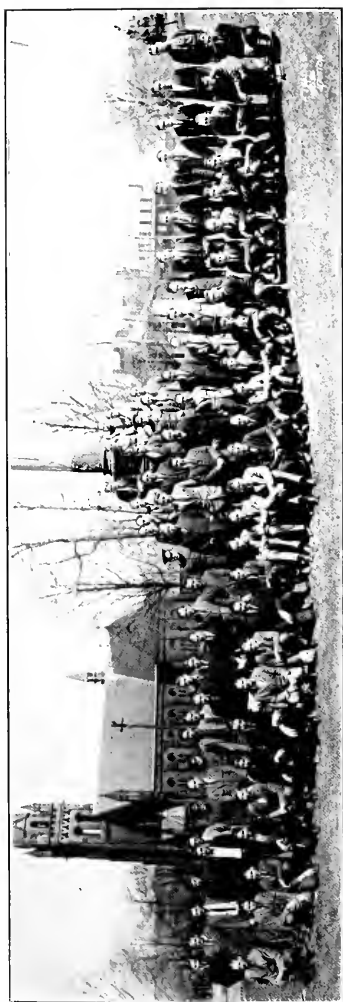

History

ONE night last September there came into existence the class of "Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-six." After about two weeks of college, came the Founder's Day sports. Here we demonstrated our vast superiority over the Sophomore Class by decisively defeating them. The sophs were victors in only one contest, that being the pants-tearing contest; the frosh won the tying-up contest, the relay race and the football game. Consequently, we freshmen are allowed the privilege of wearing civilized hats on Sundays as a reward for our victories over the Sophomore Class.

In athletics our class has forged to the front; from the very first varsity football game this fall, there have been representatives from the Freshman Class on all the Brown and White varsity teams. We were well represented on the famous Lehigh eleven, which held our powerful Maroon rivals to a bare three-point victory. Two members of our class played thru the season on the Brown and White basketball five; now the Freshman Class has turned its attention to the spring sports.

This completes the achievements of the Class of '24 to date, and although the year will soon be over, we still have our Freshman Banquet ahead. Our college career is still young, however, and we look forward to the succeeding years when the class will be regarded as one of the best ever entered at Lehigh.

 THE Arcadia is the student governing body. It consists of one representative from each living group in the University recognized by the college authorities. The duties of "The Arcadia" lie in three fields. First and foremost among these duties is the act of promoting student activities and to make rules and regulations for the control over and the relation between these activities. The second duty is to act as a medium between the student body and the faculty, and the third is to administer the Honor System.

THE CLERGY OF THE PRO-CATHEDRAL CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY

THE membership of the St. Paul's Society is composed of students and professors of the University who are Episcopalians and any other students or professors who are interested in the Episcopal Church or the program of the Society. The Society meets once a month and is addressed at each meeting by some prominent speaker of Bethlehem or the near vicinity. Very often the Society holds a dance after the meeting, and at least once a year runs a dance for the entertainment of its members.

LEHIGH FOOTBALL COACHING STAFF

COACH
BALDWIN

IN the short time that James Baldwin has been at Lehigh he has endeared himself to everyone by his ready smile and cordiality. Bucking up against a series of disappointments and injuries which would have broken a lesser man, he guided the football team successfully through a difficult schedule.

Since playing football at Dartmouth in 1907, "Jim" has assumed coaching duties at several schools and colleges, including Maine and Trinity. During the war he served overseas with the Third Division as director of athletics. He is a graduate of the Harvard Summer School of Physical Education and of the Illinois Summer School for Coaches.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR C. CUSICK

Tackle

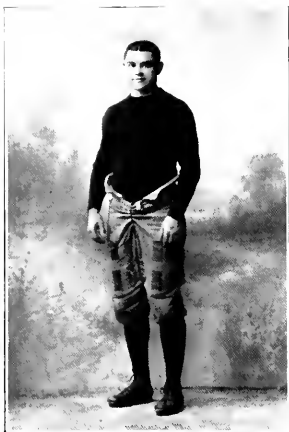

ONE of the most popular captains Lehigh has ever had, Cusick led the team through a season of many discouragements. Not only did he play a game of grit and deadly ability on the line, but he handled most of the punting as well, averaging at times more than sixty yards. During his years at Lehigh "Art" has been modest, cheerful and a hard worker. He well deserved the honor of leading one of the gamest teams which ever wore the Brown and White.

MANAGER HOWARD E. DUBOIS

PLAYING through what proved to be the most difficult schedule Lehigh has encountered in recent years, the football team was extremely fortunate in having an efficient manager. DuBois was always encouraging, always cheerful, and his ability to get things done took the burden of management off the coach. He has arranged an attractive and well-balanced schedule for next year.

WILLIAM W. SPRINGSTEEN

Center

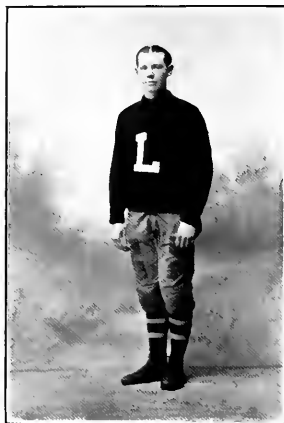

CAPTAIN-ELECT of next year's gridiron team, Springsteen is unquestionably a wise choice. For three years "Bill" has played on Lehigh teams, first at the tackle and later the pivot position, where his strength and fearlessness have stood the team in good stead. Many are the occasions when he alone has kept an opposing team back from reaching the line. A game player and an intelligent leader, Springsteen can be depended upon to give all that is in him next year.

LEROY HENSCHEN

Quarterback

CHARACTERIZED by local newspapers as the "gamest player Lehigh ever had", Henschel has proven a brilliant and fearless field general. In his necessity of developing a quarterback, Coach Baldwin, entrusted the responsibility to "Dutch", who efficiently handled the team all season. Entirely thoughtless of himself on the field, thinking only of how to outwit his opponents, Henschel has stayed in the game when sheer grit alone kept him from succumbing to injuries.

ROBERT M. HARPER

Halfback

H HEADY and calculating attack man and a sure tackler on the defense, Harper has been one of the most valuable players on the team. His uncanny ability to out-guess the opposing field leader has often nipped clever attack plays before they were well under way. As a ground gainer "Bob" was many times entrusted with the ball and could always be counted on for a few yards when they were most needed. Harper will be with Lehigh next year and much is expected of him.

EDMUND M. BURKE

End

P PRODUCT of the scrappy West Pittston High team and playing his first year for the Brown and White, Burke quickly showed that he was entitled to a varsity berth at end. The kind of an end who can get down the field to drop the receiver of a punt in his tracks, he is fast and a sure tackler. All through the season he played a consistently superior game and few were the plays which were successful around his end.

WILLIAM J. HOFFMAN

Guard

POSSESSED of great strength and one of the few heavy men on the team, Hoffman was a constant source of worry to an opponent's attack. Unfortunately for Lehigh, early in the season's campaigning he suffered an injury to his knee which kept him out of a number of games. After treatment he was kept in reserve for the Lafayette classic and did much to stay the onslaught of the Maroon offensive.

JOHN W. STORER

Halfback

HTRUE exponent of the Lehigh spirit of fight, Storer gave the best which was in him. Accurate in throwing forward passes and a hard man to tackle, he was a tower of strength in the backfield. In the Colgate game Storer suffered a broken nose which kept him on the side-lines for the remainder of the season, to the regret and disappointment of all who knew him. With two more years at Lehigh he will have every opportunity to develop into one of the best performers in college gridiron circles.

HOWARD E. MERRILL

Guard

PRODUCT of the championship teams of Mercersburg Academy, Merrill was one of the most valuable freshman additions to the squad. It was early seen that he was of first string calibre and usually got into a part of every game, always giving a creditable account of himself. He proved himself a strong asset in the line and was quick in diagnosing trick formations. He will be part of the material with which Lehigh hopes to build a winning eleven next year.

STEVEN J. BESSEMER

Halfback

VETERAN football man and a deadly line plunger, Bessemer was again an integral part of the backfield attack. His lightning speed and uncanny ability in broken field running have many times stood Lehigh in good stead, and if a few yards were needed "Steve" could be depended upon to get them. Always fighting and alert, he was one of the most consistently useful men in the backfield.

WILLIAM H. WALKER

End

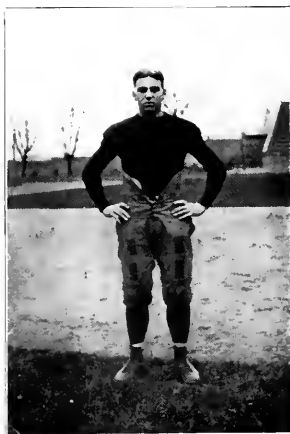

DIX" just came into his own during the last season, and from the very start he played the game like a veteran. His uncanny ability to follow the ball was a constant source of worry to opposing teams, who found it a rare occasion when a movement around his end did not result in a loss. A sure and fearless tackler and a remarkable fast man in running down punts, Walker earned a well-deserved position on the varsity and held it in faultless style. He will be one of the good men available for next year's eleven.

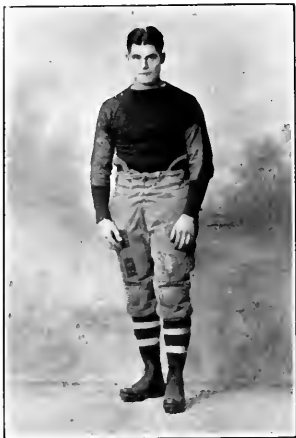

WILLIAM C. GREER

Fullback

DOT only a powerful and irresistible attack man, but speedy and clever as well, Greer handled the back position efficiently and creditably throughout the season. Husky, and fighting always, "Poss" went through many an "impenetrable" line with ease. With two more years of football at Lehigh ahead of him, Greer should develop into a performer of prominence in college ranks.

ALBERT C. MELLINGER

Quarterback

STARTING the season as first-string quarterback, Mellinger was handicapped by internal injuries which made his appearances more or less erratic. A brainy and alert leader, a hard tackler and a versatile field runner, he was an extremely valuable backfield man. On occasion he assumed a halfback position, performing as creditably as when calling signals.

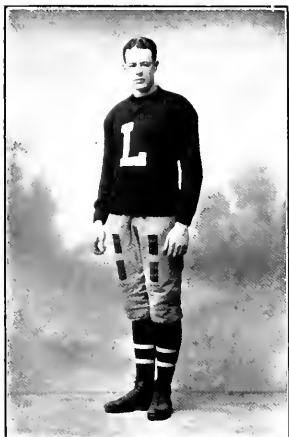

HAROLD C. HENDERSHOTT

Guard

WHILE never rising to heights of great brilliancy, Hendershott adequately took care of his section of the line and few were the opposing backs who passed him. A husky, fighting, hardworking player, he was this year transferred from the tackle to the guard position, where his defensive ability was most needed. He always put his heart and soul into the game and his earnestness won the admiration of all who saw him in action.

JOHN M. READ

End

SURE and fearless tackler with an unusual ability to get down the field under punts made "Turk" an invaluable asset to the team. Although not always receiving the first call, he gave a creditable account of himself whenever the opportunity offered. His graduation this year deprives the squad of one of its most faithful members.

WILLIAM A. CARLISLE

Tackle

ONE of the men who made the Lehigh defense what it was, Carlisle distinguished himself by his quickness in diagnosing plays and his fighting spirit. While not playing in every game he always fought his best whenever the chance was given. In recognition of his faithful service extending over four years he was awarded his letter.

Resume of the Season

PORDERING over the football history of 1922, in particular as it relates to Lehigh, the conviction becomes stronger that the Brown and White had a rather remarkable, and not a disastrous season. While the ledger is somewhat discouraging, showing three victories, one game tied and five lost, the fight made by the team in the Lafayette game was enough to make the season successful. In the final classic the Lehigh gridmen kept the Maroon machine from taking the ball across the goal line for the first time in two years and while defeated 3 to 0, by a field goal in the last few minutes of play, were not conquered.

The schedule, arranged during the waning months of the second term of 1922, was looked upon as a set-up in many ways. But two formidable opponents were given positions on the calendar, Brown and Lafayette. As it turned out the former was not really to be feared, while every other team, outside of Muhlenberg and St. Francis presented teams stronger than the Brown and White.

The season meant the debut of a new coach, James Baldwin, a man who has lived up to all the expectations with which he was awaited. The second change of a coaching system within two years, Coach Baldwin had his ups and downs, handicapped by finding it necessary to instruct every man on the squad a new system. Even though numerous injuries came at what proved to be the most inopportune times he did his best and is the man responsible for dispelling that dread fear of Lafayette, and for getting rid of the jinx which made possible four straight Maroon victories.

Lehigh opened the season on September 30, a sultry day, almost too warm for football. Gettysburg lived up to expectations and, although the Brown and White outplayed the visitors, lacked the necessary offensive power to shove across a score. After four periods of hard battling, the game ended a scoreless tie, with the ball near the center of the field.

St. Francis College, substituting for Catholic University, who were originally scheduled, came next and gave the team an excellent workout. Play was kept well in enemy territory and the opponents were kept constantly on the defensive during the entire game. When the final whistle had blown, Lehigh was found on the long end of a 37-0 score.

The scarlet gridmen from the banks of the Raritan, led by that famous old warrior, Coach Sanford, came to Bethlehem to avenge three consecutive former defeats, and by a smashing offensive in the fourth quarter shoved across a win 13 to 17. The Brown and White, although greatly out-weighted, played an uphill battle, led 7 to 6 up to the final period, only to be nosed out when the interception of a forward pass began the last offense of the New Brunswick collegians.

In what was probably the best and cleanest game put up on Taylor field during the season, Brown defeated Lehigh 6 to 2. It was the first meeting between the two institutions in over twenty years and is noteworthy in that not a single penalty was imposed on either team. The Brown and White outplayed the Bruins in three of the four quarters, but again lacked the offensive power to score.

The familiar Cardinal and Grey team from Allentown was next on the schedule, confident that they could repeat the impossible of a year ago, when they scored their first win over Lehigh. But Coach Baldwin's gridiron warriors, smarting for revenge, were not to be denied, and kept the upper hand during the entire game. After it was all over Muhlenberg trailed homeward, crushed under a 26 to 7 score.

Colgate entertained the Brown and White team at Binghamton the following Saturday, and not only decisively defeated Lehigh 35 to 6, but also succeeded in just about ruining the Brown and White team. Many of the regulars were more or less seriously injured and Storer, a corking good halfback and punter, suffered a broken nose which kept him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Bucknell brought an unusually good team to Bethlehem and held the Brown and White scoreless while they accounted for two touchdowns. Toward the end of the first quarter Lehigh brought the ball to the six yard line but then proceeded to lose the opportunity on downs. The injuries in this game were many and heavy, forcing Coach Baldwin to play what was practically the second team against Lebanon Valley.

The following Saturday the Annville collegians presented a lineup much stronger than that usually turned out by this institution. The crippled Brown and White eleven was unable to put up the fight which might have been expected and, while giving all that was in them, were able to win by the small score of 6 to 2.

Thus ended the preliminary season—styled as disastrous by some sports writers. Lehigh hopes had been sadly shattered and but one week remained before the game, the result of which is always a gauge of success or failure to the two institutions concerned—the Lehigh-Lafayette struggle. During that week a new spirit became evident on the campus and the team went into the annual classic with the students behind them as they never were before. It is no secret that Lafayette, a team with a record of eighteen victories in nineteen starts, expected to run up a high score with little difficulty. After battling for fifty-seven minutes, holding helpless an eleven hailed as one of the best in the East, the Brown and White was barely defeated by a single field goal. Defeated, but not conquered, this team will remain in the memory of Lehigh men as "one of the gamest teams Lehigh ever had".

Review of the Season

THE 1922 baseball team, while not experiencing the success which had been hoped for, nevertheless can present a respectable season record. Finding it necessary to develop much new talent, Coach Keady retained many freshmen on the squad during the season, and succeeded in building up a team which won nine out of eighteen games.

The lack of an adequate pitching staff was a severe handicap all season and it was necessary for the veteran Lees to assume the brunt of the hurling. DuBois of the freshman class showed promise of making a first class relief pitcher for next year. Lees did surprisingly well but undoubtedly the strain of pitching consecutive games weakened the team considerably.

A summary of the box score shows that there was not a man on the entire squad who hit consistently in every game. Donovan, Rogers and Lees led in the total number of bases scored and incidentally have the highest batting averages.

Lehigh opened the season on April 5 on Taylor Field by downing Fordham by a score of 3 to 1. In the next five games, barring a defeat by Princeton, the nine accounted for four victories over Vermont, Villanova, Trinity and Union. During the season a double victory was scored over Colgate, the second win being obtained for returned graduates on Alumni Day.

While Lafayette managed to win the two games played, the scores were very close and the diamond encounters were by no means one-sided. The first game resulted in a 5-4 win after a hot and closely contested nine innings for the Maroon team. Obtaining a lead which Lehigh could not overcome, Lafayette won the second game by a score of 3-5.

Performing most creditably in the earlier part of the season and easily winning on the first northern trip, the nine struck a severe slump in May. In a second trip into New England the team was badly defeated by Vermont and Holy Cross. However, prospects for a crack team next year are extremely bright as the large majority of men on the squad are underclassmen and have two years of baseball ahead of them.

Review of the Season

TH the final game between Lafayette and Lehigh on the evening of March 14, the basketball season was brought to an end. Despite the valiant efforts of the University courtmen, the final and deciding contest with the Maroon was lost, the Lafayette star remaining in the ascendancy for the fourth successive year. Whether or not the season may be classed as successful is a matter open to debate, and a brief resume of the facts may be of assistance.

In all nineteen games were played, nine being won and ten lost. Three of these games were returns; one to Muhlenberg and two to Lafayette, making sixteen different teams that were met during the season.

In those nineteen games the total number of points made by Lehigh was 535 and by her opponents 486. Of this total of points, Lehigh scored 152 field goals to her opponents 144, and caged 231 fouls out of 350 tries. Lehigh was defeated in more than half of her games, yet her total of points is greater than that of her opponents.

The individual work of the five men who played through the greater portion of the season was particularly good. Hess and Lingle are high scorers, naturally deriving some advantage from the positions they played, while Lees, Hartung and Weinstein played consistently and well as integral parts of a five-man machine. Through all the games this teamwork was prevalent and was carried on by the men who occupied less regular berths as substitutes. Only one regular will be lost by graduation and a fulfilment of the promise already exhibited should be witnessed in the coming season.

Efforts are at the present time being made to found a basketball league of the Middle Atlantic colleges, the total schedule to include fifteen games to be played in a season of some seven or eight weeks. It is believed that the sport will attain unprecedented popularity if Lehigh is entered in an intercollegiate league.

COACH
BALDWIN

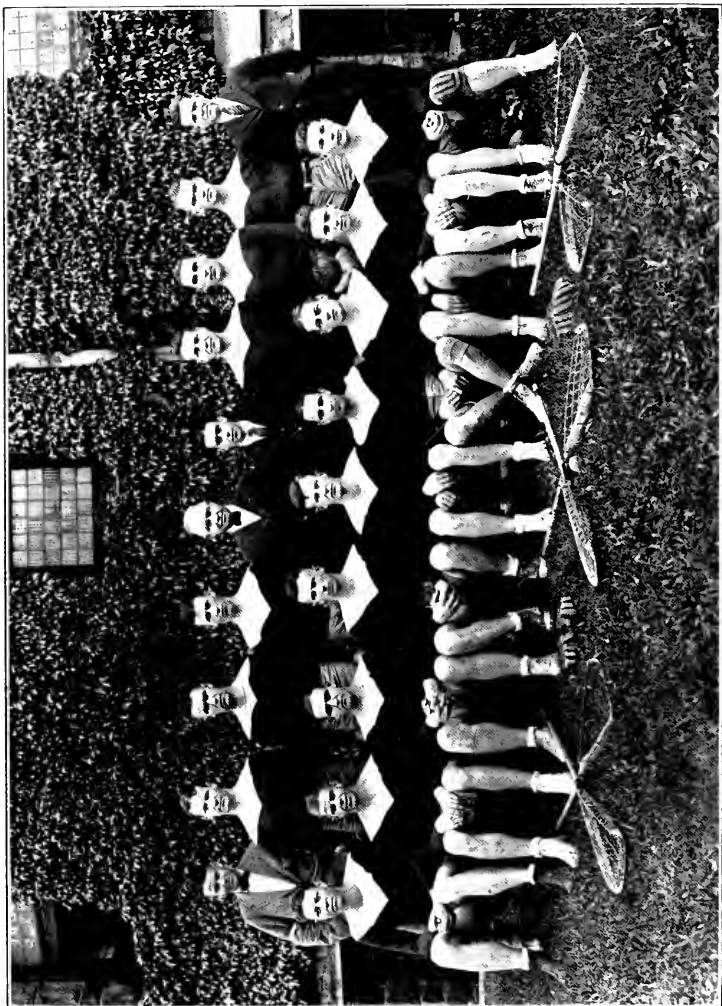

BASKETBALL at Lehigh for the past few years has been very in and out; each year saw a new coach and usually a new style of play. During the 1920-1921 season the Brown and White team was developed by Coach Murphy; last year Lehigh was coached by Coach Fisher, and this year we had Coach Baldwin. All these changes have undoubtedly been a great hindrance in developing a steady reliable team.

Coach Baldwin, however, took things as they were and installed a new, far-superior style of play. Although the Brown and White had only a mediocre season this year; nevertheless with the experience gained by the men both on the team and on the squad in adapting themselves to the new system, Coach Baldwin should develop a well-balanced, successful team next year after two years of playing under his system and tutelage.

Review of the Season

GLANCE over the record of the lacrosse team shows that four games were won and the same number lost. The victims of Lehigh's prowess were Rutgers, Swarthmore, Stevens and Pennsylvania, the last three of which are members of the Southern Division of the Lacrosse League, while only one league team was able to conquer the Brown and White. The teams which were able to take the measure of the varsity twelve were Oxford-Cambridge, Navy, Army, and Johns Hopkins. Insofar as scoring honors are concerned, Lehigh scored 22 goals to her opponents 26, so that the tallies were nearly equally divided.

An unusual season-opener was an international contest with the experienced Oxford-Cambridge combination. With hardly one week's practice the twelve was called upon to face this star aggregation, fresh from a successful season in England and at the beginning of their tour easily at their best. The Englishmen featured with an exceptionally strong and impenetrable defense, but, despite their obvious superiority in this department of the game, Lehigh played an excellent game and was dangerous throughout the fray.

Many mistakes becoming apparent in the Oxford game, Coach O'Neil began intensive practice to develop the smooth, accurate, heady passing play, always characteristic of Lehigh teams. Under his able training an attack was quickly perfected, which proved the despair of Rutgers the following Saturday. On a muddy New Brunswick field and under adverse playing conditions, the Brown and White triumphed, 3 to 1.

The first league contest of the season was played on the home field. Swarthmore, having just conquered the English invaders, were unquestionably thought to have the edge over Lehigh. The game was fast and well played but the Little Quakers were finally nosed out by one goal in the closest game of the season. One week later the Middy twelve invaded Bethlehem for their one "away from home" game. Although defeated by a slight margin, the Lehigh stickmen showed themselves to be of championship calibre.

Stevens, expected to make a strong bid for league honors, was downed without causing the Lehigh attack much worry. Early in the game the teams were fairly evenly matched but in the last half the play became rather one-sided. The lacrosse men seemed to strike a slump after this victory and, after traveling to West Point the following Saturday, were defeated by the Army, without displaying their customary aggressiveness.

Anxious to stage a decided comeback, the team went into the Pennsylvania game, both teams with clean slates so far as league contests were concerned. The Red and Blue started off with a rush, intending to cinch the game at the start, but excellent defensive work prevented immediate scoring. Improved stickwork by Lehigh in the second period gave her the advantage, and at the final whistle the Quakers were defeated 3 to 1.

With the best of chances to annex the league title, the stickmen journeyed to Baltimore to meet the always powerful Johns Hopkins team. Against all expectations, as comparative scores gave the Brown and White the advantage, the home team scored a 3 to 1 victory. Feeling ran high throughout the contest and the game was featured by roughness.

The unexpected outcome of the game at Baltimore placed Lehigh, Pennsylvania and Johns Hopkins in a triple tie for the Southern Division championship. It was arranged to play off the tie in two rounds, but before this could be done, Hopkins defaulted, leaving a virtual championship to Lehigh, as the Brown and White had already downed Pennsylvania. Due to certain complications in regard to guarantees, the deciding contest could not be played and the league officials, after much consideration, awarded the title to Pennsylvania.

Review of the Season

WHILE the team was unable to annex the intercollegiate title, the wrestling season was the most successful of recent years. Not only did Lehigh secure two intercollegiate champions, but a very enviable record was made in the dual meets, of which five were won and two lost.

The grapplers journeyed to Princeton for the first meet of the season on January 20 and succeeded in administering a decisive defeat, crushing the Tigers under a score of 22 to 5. Next stacking up against our old rivals of Pennsylvania, the matmen secured sweet revenge for the defeat of a year ago and smothered their opponents under a 23 to 8 score.

Coach Sheridan's men did not make out so well against the Navy, the Midshipmen taking the meet with a tally of 20 to 10. All of the bouts were close but the Annapolis boys who won their bouts, won them with a fall. The matmen from Massachusetts Institute of Technology could not stand up against the Lehigh squad, and after a hotly contested meet found the score 17 to 8 against them.

Dartmouth, meeting the Brown and White wrestlers for the first time was treated to a surprise and blanked, Lehigh winning every bout. The second defeat for the University men came in a closely contested match with Penn State, the teams being very evenly matched. Columbia was the last opponent and after an afternoon of desultory wrestling lost by a score of 9 to 3.

Coach Sheridan was fortunate in having a squad of veterans to work with and this in part accounted for the success of the team. As but three men will be lost by graduation, prospects are very bright for next year.

1922-1923 INTERCOLLEGIATES

THE Lehigh matmen went to Ithaca on Friday and Saturday, March 23 and 24, and after an exciting and closely contested session emerged with two intercollegiate champions, Captain Schwarzbach and Coxe. Cornell was again able to annex the title, winning with a score of 17, Penn State a close second with 16, Yale third with 13 and Lehigh fourth with 12 points. Princeton, Pennsylvania, and Columbia finished in the order named.

The showing of Schwarzbach throughout the meet was particularly good. The Brown and White captain garnered his team's first point when he pinned Sherman of Princeton to the mat with a body hold. Ex-Captain Coxe won his final bout with the quickest fall of the meet, bringing his man to the mat in three minutes and thirty-five seconds. Greatly to the disappointment of Lehigh adherents, Warriner was unable to place. Gihon succeeded in obtaining a third place, and this, together with the scores of Coxe and Schwarzbach, accounted for Lehigh's score. Four new champions were crowned; Roberts and Hanson of Cornell, and Wallace of Yale, successfully defended titles obtained last year.

Review of the Season

HE track season at Lehigh, besides including four dual meets, was strengthened by an inter-class meet, a triangular meet and participation in the Middle States Intercollegiates. While the team, composed largely of young and inexperienced men, cannot point to an imposing row of victories, when the difficulties encountered are taken into consideration, the showing of the team has been excellent.

Throughout the entire season the lack of weight men was greatly felt and on several occasions a little more strength in this department would have turned the tide in Lehigh's favor. While just one victory, over Haverford, was chalked up by the squad, the tie score meets with Muhlenburg and Dickinson were closely contested.

An interclass meet, with sixty-three participants, opened track activities at Lehigh on April 8. Rivalry between the classes was very keen and the men gained extremely valuable experience for the coming dual meets. Even though J. M. Carol, '24, was high scorer, he was unable to bring his class a victory and the honors were won by the Freshmen, '25; the Juniors, '23; the Sophomores, '24, and the Seniors, '22, finished in the order named.

The first dual meet of the season was held with Muhlenburg at Allentown the following Saturday. Out of a total of fourteen events, Reinartz, Muhlenburg's individual star, scored seven firsts and one second. Because of this unusual performance, Muhlenburg's "one man track team" was able to secure a tie with Lehigh.

The Brown and White cinder artists next traveled to Carlisle, where Dickinson was met on April 22. The entire meet was full of close finishes and only the absence of weight men prevented a Lehigh victory. With the result in doubt, all afternoon, the final count was another tie score.

At the Penn Relays on April 28, Robert C. Hicks, Jr., '22 won the gold medal for second place in the hop, step and jump. The next day in the M. S. C. A. A. mile relay, Rutgers established a new record, and Lehigh came in second, the fastest team that ever ran for Lehigh.

The track team came through with a victory on May 6, winning from Haverford by a score of 70 to 42. The result of the meet was really never in doubt and Lehigh put up by far the best showing of the season.

Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster were hosts for the Intercollegiates over the next week-end. Rutgers came through the winners with little difficulty and Lehigh, with a somewhat crippled team, was only able to get a tie for eleventh place with Gettysburg.

One week later, in a triangular meet at Swarthmore, the strong Rutgers team again proved their mettle, winning by a score of 62 1-4, Swarthmore next with 46 1-2 and Lehigh third with 17 1-4. On May 24, in a hard dual meet with Lafayette, the Maroon repeated their performance of the preceding year and won by a score of 77 to 35.

Review of the Season

SEVERE disappointment to the student body after the successful showing made a year ago, the natators had a rather unfortunate season. A team which a year ago was able to win the Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association championship found it impossible to come through in a single dual meet.

From the start of the season Coach Lukens was handicapped by a lack of experienced material and found it necessary to develop a number of new men. Giving their best all season, a series of disappointments and defeats prevented the men chalk- ing up a solitary victory.

The season was opened on the ninth of December when the Princeton tankmen from Tigertown accounted for a 60 to 11 defeat. The university swimmers performed creditably, considering the calibre of the Princeton team, and preparations were immediately begun for the meets to follow.

The first league meeting resulted in an easy win for Rutgers, who had their crack team of individual stars of a year ago almost intact. The Army swimmers were next on the schedule and in an exciting meet managed to nose out the Brown and White team.

The dual meet with Swarthmore was very close, the superiority of the Quakers in the dashes being the deciding factor. The Brown and White men put up a valiant struggle against the Pittsburgh Panthers and in many respects showed the best form of the year. The final dual meet was against Johns Hopkins and was lost by a score of 42 to 28.

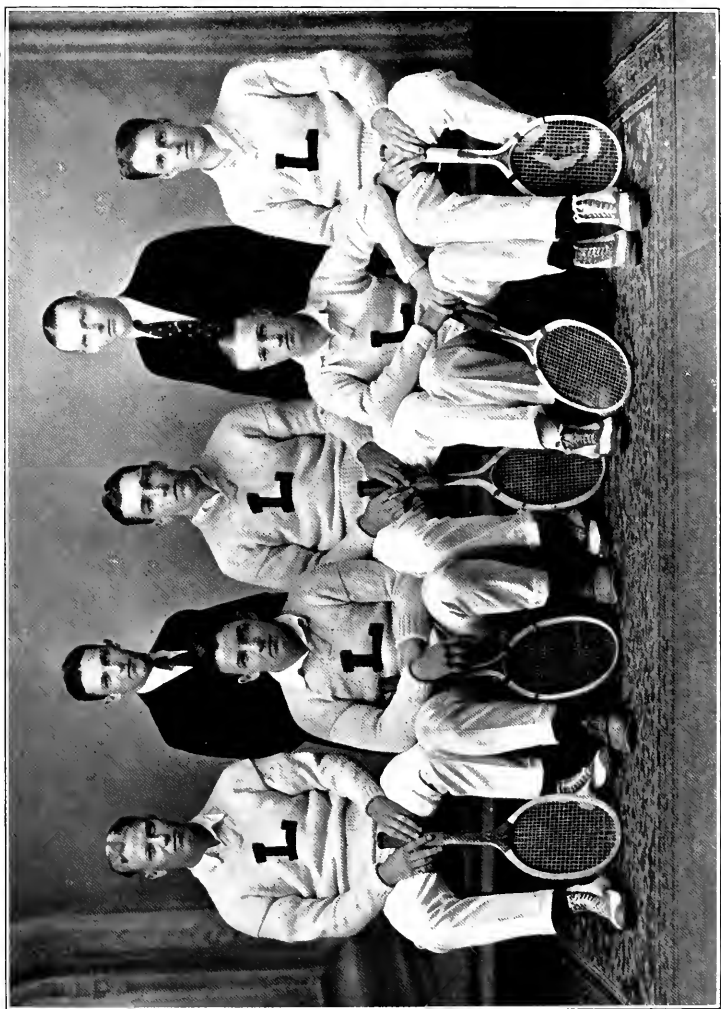

At the Intercollegiate Swimming Meet held at Swarthmore on March 9 and 10, three intercollegiate records were shattered. As the meet was for individual championships only, a no-point score was kept. Had the scoring been done in the usual manner the final result would have been Rutgers, 56; Johns Hopkins, 23; Swarthmore, 13, and Lehigh 5. The Brown and White scores were made by Childs and Quick.

Review of the Season

UNDOUBTEDLY, the 1922 tennis season was the most successful ever experienced by a Lehigh racquet team. With a schedule including teams from all parts of the country, teams that are among the top-notchers in collegiate tennis, the Brown and White netmen fought through a season which included ten victories, four tie matches, two lost, and four cancelled.

Occupying a prominent place in college tennis circles, Captain Beck went through the season losing but one match out of seventeen court encounters. His only defeat came at the hands of Welch, the veteran Southern California star. In the doubles, while paired with Koegler, his record is almost as brilliant, winning twelve matches out of sixteen.

In a year when the Maroon star was in the ascendency, the decisive defeat of the Lafayette netmen stands forth as a glowing achievement of the Lehigh racquet men.

Review of the Season

CONTINUING the rapid progress made during the past few years, the soccer team this year was unquestionably the best in the history of the sport at Lehigh. Not only did the Brown and White booters decisively annex the title in the Pennsylvania State League but in the final game of the season the eleven succeeded in administering a severe defeat to the highly touted team from Lafayette.

The squad was undeniably fortunate in again obtaining the services of Harry F. Carpenter, the man who a year ago so successfully laid the foundation for his championship team of this season, as coach and a large number of candidates reported to him several days before the opening of college. Nine intercollegiate games were played, including such formidable aggregations as Navy, Army, Princeton and Penn State, besides the regular league contests. Besides these, three games with local industrial elevens were played in which the Brown and White made a good showing.

Before the team had an opportunity to gain much teamwork, the strong Canadian eleven from the University of Toronto won from Lehigh by a 3-0 score, on October 7. Correcting a number of weak spots disclosed in the Toronto game the team held the strong Penn State squad to a 1-1 tie one week later.

On the following Saturday the first State League game was played when Lehigh met Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. The day was ideal for soccer and the Brown and White exhibited a sensational attack, winning 3-2. Early in November the toe artists met Haverford in the second League game and won easily by a score of 3-0, Fernandez starring and accounting for the tallies.

The next week the Brown and White suffered the first reverse in a league encounter, bowing before Swarthmore to the tune of 2-1. The game was played on a rough field and although the defense proved powerful as usual the forward line could not score consistently.

Playing three hard games within eight days and encountering bad weather and slippery fields the men lost successive contests to Princeton, Army and the Navy. In all of these games the scores were close, Princeton, the Middle States champions, were able to down the Brown and White by just one goal.

After a week of hard practice following the Navy game, the Lehigh eleven journeyed to Easton, tied with Lafayette for the State title. Playing on a field covered with ice and snow the team outplayed the Maroon in every department of the game, defeating Lafayette 2-0 and winning an unquestionable claim to the Pennsylvania State League championship.

Dedication

 EVERYTHING must be dedicated—even this attempt at humor, called the Jokes Section. It is altogether appropriate that the wanderings of weak minds which follow be dedicated to the bunch who drove us crazy, the crowd that infected our office while we were trying to work. Perched on the furniture, in the window, on our desks, and peering over our shoulders, they made foolish suggestions, found fault readily, and felt called upon to make half-witty remarks about every paragraph, every picture, everything they could lay hands on. Well we can only say—

You made this what it is today,
We hope you're satisfied;
You nagged and nagged around until
All hope within us died.
You shattered each and every thought
And now that we're through,
We dedicate this to you—
That's the curse of the Epitome
Staff.

EPITOME BOARD MEETING

Famous Prof's Von Habe Neuer Met

J. Harlem Beezle

I

Now Harlem Beezle was a prof who proffed here long ago.

In fact, so far since gone it was—why Lehigh used to row
Upon the old Canal—which shows that with the measles

Your face wouldn't be half so queer as this guy Harlem Beezle's.

II

For Harlem had peculiar ways—there's no denying such,

His classes were conducted with a gratifying touch
Of humor, common sense, and wit, and Lord knows what else too.

Why some day he was going to start a course called "Why Home Brew?"

III

The very first thing he would do to start the class off right

Would be to grab a cigarette and then proceed to light
The thing, and just to show the boys no small town sport was he,

He'd pass the pack around to all—they'd help themselves with glee.

IV

Now Harlem had a lady friend out at a nearby farm

And if he had a date, his classes didn't come to harm,
For all he'd do would be to say "There isn't any school,

So all go back to Kelly's place and shoot a little pool."

V

And then if Harlem by a chance decided to have class,

He reached down in his pockets deep—for none there could surpass
Old Harlem Beezle when it came to rolling of the dice,

And many students came to class at quite a sacrifice.

VI

Also I nearly did forget to tell of the day

When Harlem gave out all the books and said, "I'll take no pay
For these, my boys, are yours to do just what you please,

So burn them up or tear them up or throw them to the breeze."

VII

And so you see old Harlem was a specimen quite rare

You might add here the faculty did not give him a scare.

And while it's time I think I'll cease his deeds to magnify

For you have guessed the truth my boys—it's all a great big lie.

Rob's Page

Now, be real good, Simon, and father will buy for himself another glass of beer.

THE EVILS OF INTEMPERANCE

Two pints, one quart,
Two quarts, one fight,
One fight, two cops,
Two cops, one judge,
One judge, thirty days.

Whatever else may happen now,
The country has gone dry;
The sailor still will have his port,
The farmer have his rye.
The cotton still will have its gin,
The seacoast have its bar.
And each of us will have a bier
No matter who we are.

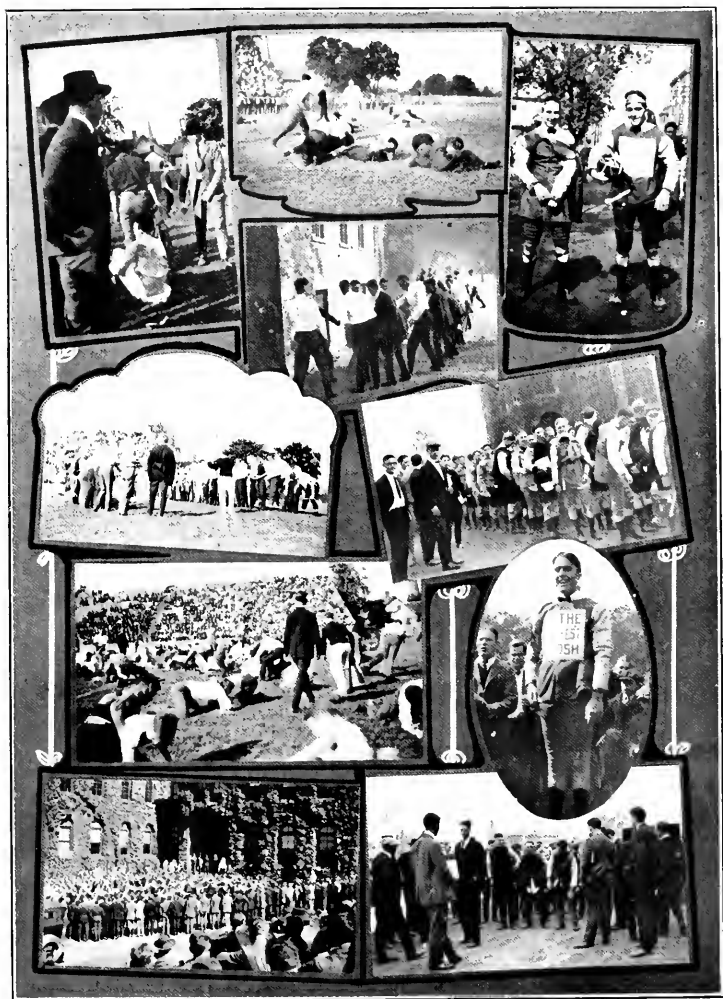

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET

How dear to my heart are the scenes
Of my childhood,
Where fond recollections present them to view;

The frat house, the dance halls, the brewery where I would,
Buy the ten percent beer they knew how to brew.
The Jazz band at Mealey's—methinks I still hear it—
The little saloon where the Dutchman would sell Enough suds for a nickel to fill (pretty near it)
Yea, e'en the big bucket that hung in the well.

The moss-covered bucket I hailed as a treasure,
For often at noon when I returned from the hill,
I found it a quite satisfactory measure
Because it required but five cents to fill.
How ardent I seized it, so boldly, un-hidden,
And made for the Dutchman's saloon in the dell,
And returned with the liquid which now is forbidden,
The pale amber liquid which we all love so well.

How into those suds my nose was inserted,
Inhaling the perfume that sprang from the grain.
No gong of the class bell could make me desert it
Till the last of the liquid I managed to drain.
And now far removed from those days so delightful,
I gaze on the present so dreary and fell,
Convinced that the future is perfectly frightful,
With nothing to drink but the stuff
in the well.

Frosh Page

THE DIRGE OF A FROSH

Here, take this axe
And chop off my head!
For all you know;
I might be dead;
But never fear,
I'm still in college,
Seeking and striving
To garner some knowledge
It's the same old story—
"Nothing but work!"
All day and all night
I work like a Turk.
And while I am working,
From morning 'till night,
I think of you—wishing
I had time to write.

I go without breakfast;
I go without dinner;
They work me so hard
I get thinner and thinner.
My head's in a whirl,
They'll soon drive me mad,
And then they will line
My cell with a pad,
And there I shall rave,
But all for no use—
My nut can't be fixed
When once it comes loose.
Then the people will wail,
And say with a sigh,
"Just look what they do
To them up at Lehigh."

FRESHMAN LIFE

Under the sprinkling shower's ring
A little Freshman stood,
As naked as a child was he,
And if he could dress he would.

Then a drink of odious taste
Was thrust beneath his nose,
And indeed he must drink it all,
Or feel the cooling hose.

Ev'ry day as he goes to class,
With mercury hanging low,
His hands from his pockets he must keep
Or to the shower go.

So the Freshmen learn to act
Sweet, meek, and mild to be,
And when they end their primal year
These same mean tricks try they.

Adam's Plage

ADAM

Adam, made of common earth,
Seemed to be of little worth;
Giving him his full desert,
Still he seemed as cheap as dirt.

Smacked a good deal of the soil,
Adam did, but shirked all toil;
Yet he asked no man for trust,
Being simply made of dust.

"Sandy" beard and "sandy" hair,
Also had a "stony stair",
And, before his flesh ran blood,
I suppose his name was "mud".

Poor, old Adam, formed in clay,
Wasn't of the stuff to stay;
One more process was required—
That's the reason he was fired.

They say that Adam had no sheet from which to glean the news;
He could not read of Bolsheviks,
nor learn the book reviews,
But still he knew the worldly facts and all the deeds of life,
For though he had no daily sheet
the Lord gave him a wife.

Adam stood and watched his wife
Fall from an apple tree.
"Ah ha! at last I've found her out!
Eavesdropping," muttered he.

FIG LEAVES

Adam and Eve in the garden,
And oh! how they could dance,
Eve's dress was made of fig leaves,
And so were Adam's pants.

Now Adam was embarrassed;
He turned his face to the wall,
For he knew that in the autumn
The leaves would surely fall.

Eve's Page

TO EVE

Here's to the Garden of Eden,
Which Adam was always a-weedin',
Till Eve, by mistake,
Got bit by a snake,
That on the ripe pippins was feedin'.

Then a longin' it seemed to possess her
For clothing sufficient to dress her,
And ever since then
It's up to the men
To pay for the dresses, God bless her!

EVE

I'm glad Eve ate the apple; I'm glad she broke the ice,
For virtue's own reward contains a scarcity of spice;
I'm glad the serpent tempted the mother of us all,
For being bad
Is far from sad
And being good is gall.

I'm glad Eve ate the apple and put mankind in Dutch,
For if life was never naughty, it wouldn't count for much;
Unlawful acts are sweetest, and though we pay the price,
I'm glad the snake
Got Eve to take
A chance in Paradise.

If everything was perfect and everyone was pure,
Existence would be difficult and painful to endure.
Of all I've heard of Eden, 'twas pretty shy on mirth—
Let Eve be praised
Because she raised
A little Hell on earth!

When Eve passed the luscious fruit
Then clothing came in style.
We'll have to pass the fruit again
In a short, short while.

Faculty Page

FAMILIAR TO US

That is rather hard to explain, sir.
Yes, next man.
Go to the board.
The rest is obvious.
Get out.
All you need is a good idea of the first fifteen pages of today's lesson.
How was the music?
Can she dance?
Who's going to the movies?
Got a cigarette?
I don't know her either.
Any mail for me?
Get out, I haven't a first hour.
Ach, that's all wrong.
You gentlemen know nothing about dees subject.
See you on the 12:10.
Class dismissed.

ODE TO THE RUNT

Gone is the Runt!
Nevermore will the students hear
The terrible tale of the shunt,
Nor the evils that accrue from beer.

Gone is the Runt!
How sad is that department
Where he was wont to grunt
At every disappointment.

Gone is the Runt!
He who took a river bath;
First to feel the brunt
Of the students' mighty wrath.

Gone is the Runt!
The Faculty for another clod
Are still upon the hunt
While the students praise God.

THE SEA PIG

Last year in our Faculty
There was a man of renown;
Although some thought him nutty
And wanted him to drown.

At this he grew so terrified
He hurriedly left town;
And it is rumored round
That he had donned the gown.

Although he had no pluck
And may have been a scoundrel;
The students all do wish him luck.
They do like Hell!

Laugh and the pros laugh with you;
Laugh and you laugh alone;
The first when the joke's the professor's,
The last when the joke is your own.

OUR STUDIES

I see her now in vision fair,
As in the summer days
The sunshine seems to kiss her hair
With all its golden rays.

The saucy twinkle in her eye
Still comes back to me—
Equilibrium, force and torque.
Integrate 'teen y and z .

Hydraulics, sound and entropy—
The cutest little nose,
Graphic statics, steam injectors—
Her cheeks are like the rose.

I hear the twinkle of her laugh—
Rotary blower fan,
Steel and concrete, beam deflection—
I certainly like Ann!

THE AFTERMATH

They told me not to worry,
Nor sit up late to cram,
Nor feel a sense of flurry
In taking my exam.

And so I did not worry
Nor sit up late to cram,
Nor feel a sense of flurry,
But flunked in my exam.

THE COLLEGE RED

I am against all eight o'clock classes. Afternoon classes should be abolished.

The Faculty should be deposed.
The Students should reign supreme.
No preparation of work should be required.

Tea should be served every afternoon.

The bell in Packer Hall should be silenced. It disturbs my slumbers. All drinking houses should be opened.

I am against prohibition of anything.
I am in favor of dances every evening.

I am against everybody else.

I respect no other man's opinion.

I am for myself.

I am a Red.

Say it with ink, said the Prof as he dealt out the quiz paper.

Coly Hage

TO A DANSEUSE

Lady with your itching feet
To jazzful strains responding,
You see to swaying toute de suite,
When saxophone is playing.

Where did you learn your fetching art

Of foot and shoulder twirling?
Your mouth's assigned a feature part
Your hair's in cadence curling.

Is there some correspondence plan
That trains in one brief lesson?
Have pity on an awestruck man,
And be your way confessing.

Not a word had Lilly said
But Lilly's looks were killing.
Lilly's lips were rosy red
And Lilly was quite willing.

ANY NIGHT AT THE COLY

He went to the Coly
Full of good nature and cheer;
But soon he realized his folly;
Oh! How he cussed that beer.

For along came a cop
On our poor friend's head
He landed with a bop,
He sank as if dead.

He awoke in the morning
All bloody and bruised;
His horrible luck bemoaning,
For he came to in the jug.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT

"You see her at the Coly dances,
You see her on Broadway,
This night-time girl with painted lips
Who leads young lads astray.

"Her flashy clothes and winsome smile,
Her dusky past of fame,
Draws foolish youth about her
Like moths about a flame."

Beware of her, oh, foolish youth,
See not this tainted flirt,
Those smiling eyes, that silken form
Will only do you dirt."

Flapper Fable

1921

1925

THE WAY OF THE FLAPPER

I met her at a party,
This dainty flapper fair,
Whose naughty eyes and pouting lips.
Denied her languid air.

She said she craved excitement,
I took her in my arms,
Those pouting lips I crushed to mine
And found them full of charms.

She sighed, she nestled closer,
She whispered in my ear,
We arose and sought the darkness,
So none might see or hear.

QUICK—FLAPP—ER

There by herself she stands,
Purse 'neath her arm;
Goloshes open wide,
Movements of charm,
Eyebrows plucked carefully,
Blue eyes so wide;
Rouge put on sparefully
Paleness to hide.

Bobbed hair so fanciful,
Short skirts so free;
No, I don't criticise,
That ain't like me.
Smiling so wistfully,
Dressed up with care;
All that she wants to be—
Young, foolish and fair.

DO TELL

Annabelle has ankles neat,
Slender arms, and lips petite,
Grecian figure, tilted nose,
She has charm in every pose.

Annabelle has baby eyes,
And modest ways, but the kid is wise.
Though she looks demurely rare,
You should hear our Annie swear.

* * *

She stood on the hill at midday,
We sat in the vale with a grin,
For the sun was just o'er the hilltop
And the dress that she wore was thin.

THE WAY OF THE BETHLEHEM MAID

I tried to kiss her honeyed lips
And hold her close to me for long
But when she wouldn't yield a bit—
Why, I agreed such things were wrong.

I later called her on the 'phone,
And tried to get another date;
"Sorry, but she's not at home,
And would be out 'til very late."

He tried to kiss her honeyed lips,
Altho' she knew such things were wrong;

He did not heed and kissed those lips,
And held her closely pressed for long.

Last night she called him on the 'phone,
And sweet they talked till very late;

She said, "'Twas lonely at her home,
Could not they fix another date?"

So now I've learnt, where e'er I roam,
Like everyone henceforth I'll do;
Charity begins at home.
Hooray for me, to Hell with you!

'Twas down in the Lehigh Valley,
Me and my wife named Sue;
We were grubbing a few hundred acres,

We never knew when we'd be through.

But curses! One day came a stranger
A chauffeur from town, tall and One night when I came to my home, sir,

The chauffeur had chauffeured her away.

And now in the city I'm toiling,
Yet I start at the toot of a horn,
And I stand there in dread and in terror,

With a feeling so sad and forlorn;
When I hear the soft purr of a motor,

My heart, sir, just seems to crack.
Do I hope that I once more shall see her?

No! I'm only afraid she'll come back!

Bible Study

LEHIGH VERSION

Adam was the first man, and Eve,
she was his spouse;
She let a little garden and started keeping house.
Everything went quiet and peaceful in the main Till they got things agoin' and started raising Cain.

Abram was an ancient Jew of an investigatin' turn—Stuck Ikey in the fire to see if Ikey'd burn.
But Ikey was a lucky kid and got off with his skin,
For just as he was cookin', a ram came buttin' in.

Esau was a cowboy of the wild and wooly make—
His father gave him half a farm and half to Brother Jake.
But Esau said the title to the farm
it wasn't clear,
So he sold it to his brother for a sandwich and a beer.

Joseph was the favorite son and he was very zealous;
His dad gave him a golf coat an dit made his brothers jealous.
So they sold him into Egypt for a small consideration—
Where he made a million dollars on a grain speculation.

Sampson was a fighter of the John L. Sullivan school,
He licked the mighty Philistines with the jaw-bone of a mule,
But a woman named Delilah got him filled up full of gin—
Along came the barbers and the sappers roped him in.

Jonah was an immigrant, so runs the Bible tale;
He booked a steerage passage in a trans-Atlantic whale.
But Jonah down inside "got very much depressed."
So he just pushed a button and the whale he did the rest.

Daniel he got sassy and wouldn't mind the king,
The king said he'd be d—d, if he stand for such a thing.
So he put old Danny with the lions away down underneath, But Daniel was a dentist and he pulled the lion's teeth.

THE WOMAN HATER

Most of the time
 I hate girls
 They have no essential place
 In the Scheme of Things;
 They are flimsy and frail
 Like the clothes they wear;
 There is nothing to them,
 Mentally or physically.
 Men are always trying to analyze their mentalities
 And never can do it—Because there is nothing there to analyze.
 Still
 There is one shining exception;
 She is pretty, clever and frank and affectionate—
 Whee.
 But she lets me spend only a small part of my time with her.
 I hate girls—
 Most of the time.

NO LIFE

He took her rowing on the lake,
 She vowed she'd go no more,
 I asked her why her answer came;
 "He only hugged the shore."

TO THE ONLY GIRL

Her lips are like the red, red rose;
 (The last one of last June),
 Her voice is like a melodie,
 She's singing out of tune.
 So fair is she, that pretty lass;
 So deep in love am I,
 Yet what it is in her I see
 I really can't descry.
 For all of it is false, my dear,
 The lips, the lashes-hair,
 She talks in monosyllables,
 Her cerabellum's bare.
 Yet, why should I object to that?
 I care no fig—not I
 For what is more important, is—
 The fact that she gets by.

My goil's there,
 I'll say she's there,
 But after last night
 I don't care.

For she done me dirt,
 Yes done me dirt,
 She pressed her lips
 Against my shirt.

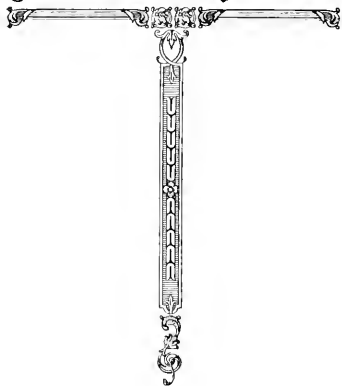

A Toast

Come drink to the days of the Past,
When as innocent children we played,
When as children we strayed through the woodland
And as children we roamed through the glade.
When we carved our initials on tree trunks,
When we ran off to swim in the pool,
When we thought there was no one so lovely
As the girl who sat next us in school.
When our hearts were as light as the sunshine
And our spirits as free as the air,
When our lives were but one round of pleasure,
Come, drink to the days we left there.

Come, drink to the days of the Present,
When instead of the woods and the streams
The scenes of a college surrounds us
And are dearer to us than our dreams,
When we meet with the men we are destined
To choose as our lifelong friends,
And the love for our fair Alma Mater
Displaces our selfish ends.
When the hope and the youth of the scholar
Show the world through a rose-colored haze,
While our life still retains all its gladness,
Come, drink to our college days.

Come, drink to the days of the Future,
When scattered, we labor and toil
To master the earth that has reared us,
To conquer and govern the soil.
To the days when the dreams we have cherished,
No longer are dreams, but exist
In the world of desire we've created
From the chances that others have missed;
To the days when our hair shall be whitened—
And we feel that our life's been in vain—
To the days that shall finish our story—
Come, drink to the days that remain.

Here's a Store That Wants You to Enjoy Radio!

We're not satisfied with just selling you radio sets. We're selling radio enjoyment—the music, the news, the lectures, the stories of the whole world—and it's our job to see that you get them better and clearer and from farther away than you've ever believed possible.

It's easy and inexpensive to enjoy Radio! Make your home a bright spot, with the world as your entertainer! Let us tell you how we can help you—how simple it all is to pick up the nearby broadcasting station, or, with more elaborate sets, the broadcasting from other states.

Come in and talk it over. We're in business for your satisfaction, and that's why we're selling the most famous and complete and altogether reliable line of radio equipment in the world.

SAFETY TREADS

Approximately 15,000 people are killed in the United States each year by falls. The economic waste from this source is over $10,000,000.

About one-third of the "Falls" are preventable by the use of safety treads.

The selection of the type of safety treads is important.

Treads with a series of grooves parallel to the nosing edge, that are porous, that corrode readily, that have names falsely giving the impression of safety feature not possessed, should be avoided.

Be sure the Safety Tread you adopt is SAFE; that it is not a germ incubator, absorbent, easily stained; that it has no eye-confusing and heel-catching grooves; and that it does not deteriorate on account of corrosion.

Consider FERALUN, ALUMALUN and BRONZALUN treads.
